Skeptical broadcaster reports on I.C.L. Process

"I found a permanent way to REGAIN A FULL HEAD OF HAIR!"

by Steve Ross

Philadelphia Radio/TV Personality

I was auditioning in a TV studio when I caught a glimpse of myself on the monitor. There on the screen was a balding area, more obvious than I had ever noticed before.

I went home and pulled out a videotape of an HBO special I'd hosted a few years before and it confirmed my worst suspicions. The cumulative effects of several years of gradual, almost imperceptible hair loss had added up more than I realized.

I Was Damned Scared!

I knew I had to do something. But what? How? Where?

Every Tom, Dick and Harry has a hair remedy—or so it seems. Their ads are all over—radio, TV, newspapers, magazines. How do you separate the real from the phony? It set my head spinning.

To make matters worse, I happen to be the world's biggest skeptic.

I Refused To Wear A Wig!

Remember, in my business, I'm in the public eye a lot. I didn't want people laughing or smirking because they could tell I was wearing a "rug." Any hair replacement would have to look natural or I couldn't do it.

It would also have to be done quickly. No prolonged surgery dragging out over many visits and many months like hair transplants. (Incidentally, I have a friend who tried a transplant, but the plugs didn't take. Instead of a full head of hair, he wound up with a head full of "holes.")

International Cosmetic Labs Had The Answer!

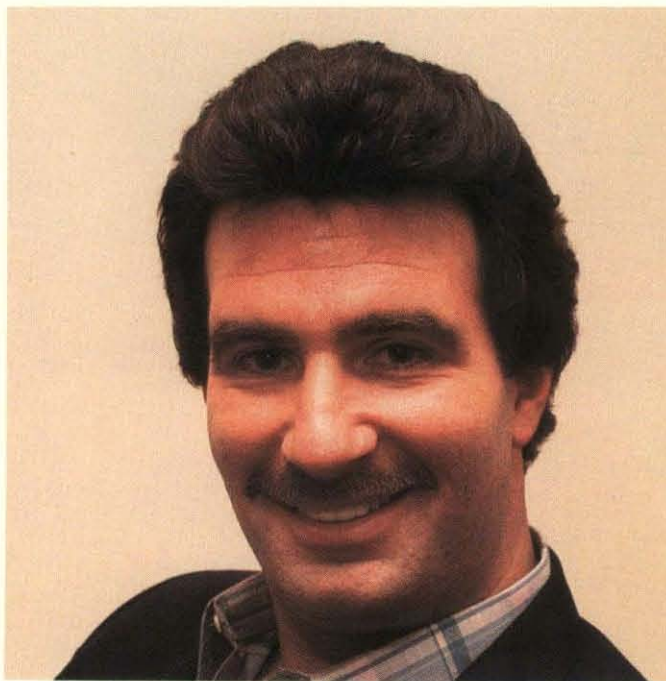

After weeks of searching and upon a final recommendation from a doctor friend of mine, I paid a visit to International Cosmetic Labs.

The first thing that impressed me was the fact that there was no hype, no high pressure selling. Instead, they more or less put my mind at ease by answering all of my questions completely.

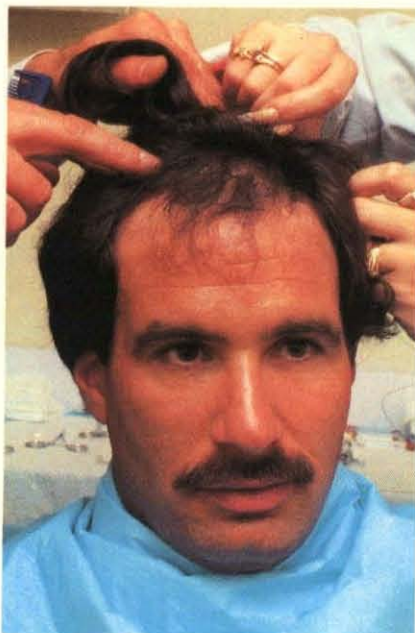

The I.C.L. Process, in case you're wondering, is designed for people who want a permanent head of hair and also like me, still have some hair of their own. It gives you a permanent, maintenance-free full head of hair. A combination of human and synthetic hair, "Cosmetic Hair Filaments" perfectly matched to your own hair color and texture are blended with your own hair, so that it's absolutely undetectable and becomes so much a part of you that you can do anything with it that you would do with your own natural hair. It is not a solid based hairpiece.

I Really Felt Good!

One thing about the I.C.L. Process, that for me was a "turn on," was the fact that for the most skeptical, which I initially was, the process is totally reversible. So at 12:30 on Friday afternoon, just 48 hours before I was to be married, I went to International. Three hours after the medical application I walked out with a full head of hair, confident enough to face my bride and a church full of guests.

I Showered, Swam, Dove!

On our honeymoon in Key West, I was able to engage in all activities. I swam, dove off the board, everything!

My hair looks so natural no one would ever in a million years guess that all this hair isn't mine. Naturally, when I tell people about the I.C.L. Process, they insist on feeling my hair. And they agree: it not only looks like my own hair, it feels like it, too.

The next question I'm usually asked is whether there is any pain during the process. I admit I was a bit apprehensive right up to the moment the doctor started the procedure. But I never felt any pain during the procedure or afterward (although I understand some people may have some slight discomfort for a day or two).

I Recommend It Highly!

If, like me, you're concerned with always looking your best, you really should visit, write, or telephone I.C.L. for more information about their exclusive process. They do provide a FREE BROCHURE. Just write 209 Office Building, Rt. 130, Cinnaminson, NJ 08077, or call toll free in the U.S. 1-800-262-8844, in Canada 1-800-523-8844 or from New Jersey or out of the country 1-609-829-4300

TOP-NOTCH NOOKIE

Photographically speaking, the June '89 issue of HUSTLER is top-notch. The centerfold, "Olga: Gashnost," is a bonafide lanky hot bitch with terrific tits. "Jinny: Eat the Rich" is a real slut who needs it in the very worst way. Hot stuff! And the lesbian spread, "Fuck the Revolution," is a great combination of sound politics and good pussy.

—V.D.

Hauppauge, New York

MAY MAIDENS

"Kelly: Fuck of the Irish" is without a doubt and by far the best looking, sexiest woman HUSTLER has had in its 15-plus years of publication. "Grazing on a Wet Afternoon" and centerfold "Julianne: Up and Coming" made the May '89 issue sizzling and white-hot.

—S.R.

Clifton, New Jersey

Good job on "Julianne" in the May issue. You picked a very beautiful chick. God made her perfect. Nice tits and a pink, smooth, juicy cunt. I am a big HUSTLER fan. I buy and read every issue I possibly can. My dream is to one day star in your magazine with one of your very beautiful models.

HORNY BUTT-WORSHIPPER

I'm horny as hell as I sit down with hard-on in hand to pen my first letter to your truly fine and hotter-than-hot mag. When I first saw Melanie in April's Beaver Hunt, I was in awe. Her sparkling eyes, smile, hair and tan lines are quite an ensemble. She has a very lickable slit, I'm sure, and I could appreciate those insatiable lips (both sets) engulfing my cock! Too bad she didn't show ass like the Morgana look-a-like ("Toppsy Curvey: Fuckin' Huge") did in the same issue. I'm a lover of bung-hole licking and female hind ends, if you couldn't tell already. Gotta look at my new issue of HUSTLER now, especially the girl/girl pictorials. Get on all fours, ladies, asses up with quim dripping and spread wide! Keep up the good work, gang!

NO-RISK MAIL ORDER

Though shopping for sex toys and videos through the mail is a rare occurrence for me, I now feel I can buy with confidence. I've always looked at the ads and wondered who might rip me off, and who would be legit as well as providing my money's worth. Thanks to the "HUSTLER Guide to Mail-Order Porn" article in the April issue—and your other informative articles—I will be a dedicated HUSTLER reader for years to come.

—E.R.J.

Detroit, Michigan

I really liked your April '89 "HUSTLER's Guide to Mail-Order Porn." It answered a lot of questions for me. Also, I think the model doing the handstand in your skateboarding layout ("Meals on Wheels"), would make a great poster. My compliments to the photographer and the models.

READER CRITIQUE

I wish to commend you for producing a fine magazine. After years of purchasing HUSTLER off the rack, I finally subscribed. Being more than just a casual peruser of adult magazines, I can say with all honesty that yours ranks among the best, if not the best. Although I am not really a fan of the off-beat humor and cartoons, HUSTLER excels in many other areas, and is well worth the monthly price. I am particularly impressed with the sharp quality of your pictorials and the fine glossy stock on which you print them. I hope you never find it necessary to degrade the slick quality of the paper and cover stock. This quality alone makes HUSTLER a superior investment; publications like Playboy and Penthouse, with their fuzzy pictures and snobby pretenses, prove that they are out of your league. I will never turn a page in those magazines again. I also appreciate HUSTLER's informative articles and video reviews. I find the reviews generally to be right on the mark and in accordance with my own tastes in adult fare. As for your editorial commentary, it is second-to-none. I do miss, however, your ad parodies and public service announcements. These went a long way toward making your magazine an outstanding and outspoken defender of our civil liberties. It is my hope that HUSTLER's commitment to our First Amendment rights, and the rights of sexually mature, responsible human beings everywhere, has not diminished. It would be unfortunate if the twisted ideas and pejorative lawsuits from a few warped individuals prevented HUSTLER from maintaining its leadership role in this area. I am especially pleased with your photographic layouts. Being a fan of close-up, full-page and two-page single photo displays, the spreads entitled "Stephanie: All the Rage," "The Lay After" and "Tanya: The Tight Stuff" were especially meritorious. I particularly enjoy the male/female and female/female layouts. Please keep up the good work in this area.

TECH TALK

As you have probably noticed, some adult videos are of higher technical quality than others. These videos tend to contain the elements of perspective, depth of field, proper lighting, sharp focus, color balance, etc. In other words, they possess the same qualities that make HUSTLER pictorials such a smashing success. However, viewers often must take a guess at which videos possess these very crucial technical qualities as you fail to include any mention of them in your Erotic Entertainment section. I feel it would be a great service to all HUSTLER readers if you did.

—S.G.
Temple City, California

Technical quality has fallen off so markedly in the video era that unless a tape is either too painful to watch or is absolutely dazzling technically—both of which we report—HUSTLER prefers to talk about sexual content rather than waste words describing a sex-vid's average look.

PEOPLE VS. THE IRS

I just finished reading your article on IRS abuses ("IRS Goon Squads," March '89) and want to congratulate you on a well-written introduction to the subject, and to thank you for the courage to print it. The many offenses by the IRS in forcibly collecting a voluntary tax will never be stopped except by an aroused citizenry. A major difficulty has been the reluctance of any national magazine to publish the true situation. You have made a wonderful beginning. I hope that HUSTLER will follow up with more articles and will find space to print many of the letters that you will undoubtedly receive.

—J.L.
Gustavus, Alaska

Thank you, thank you, for your article, the "IRS Goon Squads." You are to be commended on your courage to expose the U.S. Gestapo Agency—formally known as the IRS. Please stay with this subject, you will be amazed at what you'll find.

—H.R.S.
Chicago, Illinois

I am writing this letter in response to the March '89 article published in HUSTLER ("IRS Goon Squads") that was reprinted in The Freeman Letter (Freeman Education Association, Tulsa, Oklahoma). I want you to know that it took enormous courage on your part to print such an article, and I deeply appreciate that courage. It is almost fatal to stand up to the IRS, but if some of us don't do it the situation will only worsen. I am going to start buying your publication on the newsstand as my way of really saying "Thanks." Just wanted you to know that there are some of us who are grateful and who do understand exactly what you are doing. It may help straighten my spine a bit too.

—B.W.
Goldendale, Washington

ATTENTION, SYBIL!

When are you going to do a nude layout of actress Sybil Danning? She posed nude six years ago and hasn't done any layouts since then. I'm hoping you'll make my wish come true by featuring a nude layout of Sybil Danning in HUSTLER.

—S.C.
Paterson, New Jersey

Sybil, if you read this, contact our Talent Department.

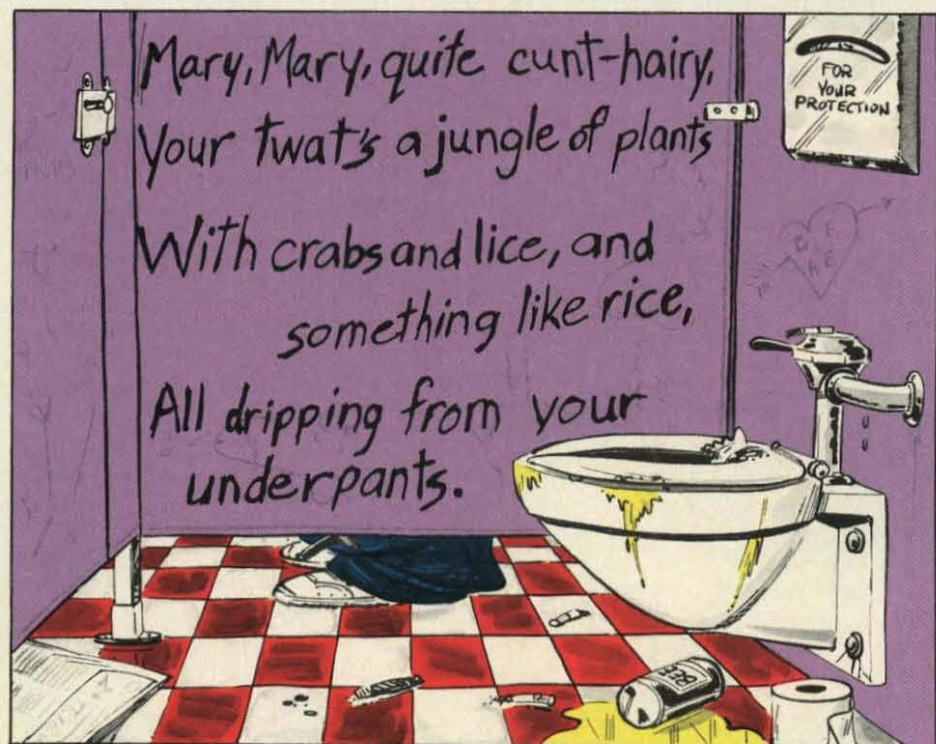

ASSHOLE PICKING

I am writing this letter in disgust! I must tell you how bad your choices for Asshole of the Month have been for the last six months. The fact that Dr. Radecki and Curtis Sliwa have been chosen, over the likes of Dan Quayle makes me think: Remember Quayle? Indiana C-student, active military draft dodger-turned-Vice President of the United States? You stayed away from the issue of Dan Quayle at a time when the rich boy pussy was the most controversial politician around. HUSTLER is like all the others in America when it comes to telling the truth: scared of the government.

—W.J.R.

BITS and PIECES

ASSHOLE OF THE MONTH

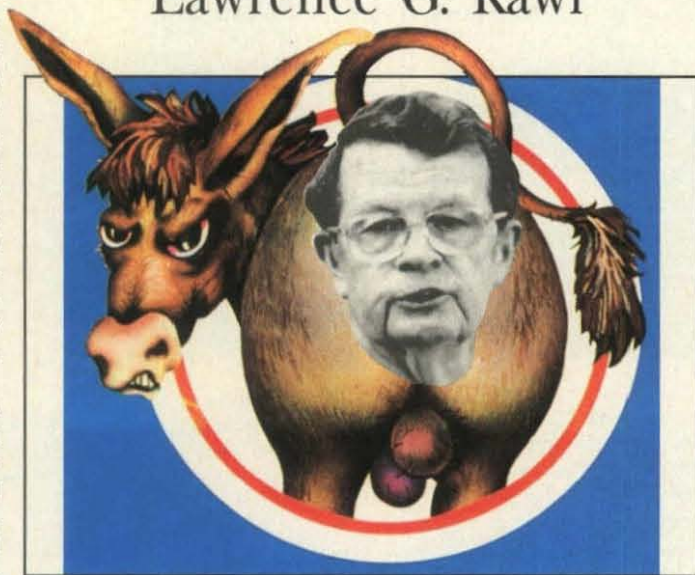

The higher a slimy sphincter's rung on the corporate sewer ladder, the bigger and messier his excrable discharge. Pity the lowly peon who mistakenly wanders into the executive washroom to come face to feces with a bowl of percolating top-brass shit, spattered and crusted from rim to noxious rim. Picture the toilet of August's Asshole of the Month, Lawrence G. Rawl, chairman and chief executive officer of Exxon Corporation, a man who has apparently not yet learned to flush his own malodorous, sludgy mess.

Rancid Rawl is a member of the Big Oil fraternity, a consortium that shoves a petroleum-smarmed forearm up the public's backside with a virtual monopoly on fuel sources, a myriad of special tax breaks and depletion allowances, and suspiciously lucrative shortages and energy crises. The oil scum have long behaved as if the world were their latrine, to be dug up and despoiled at will. Rawl is privy to the biggest dump in U.S. history.

The fumes from the Exxon Valdez's monumental crude spill—a slick of poisonous stinking expulsion spread over an area larger than the state of Rhode Island—were foul enough to nominate Rawl for Asshole of the Month. Subsequent lies, finger-pointing and evasions sealed the honor for this cloacal CEO.

Though an arsenal of cleanup equipment was stockpiled near the Exxon Valdez grounding, precious days passed before any significant mop-up efforts were launched—big surprise! Budget-conscious Rawl had earlier canned every one of Exxon's oil spill specialists. Exxon's best idea of fighting the pollutant was to spray chemical dispersants, poisons that scientists claim will substantially increase the crude oil's toxicity.

Lawrence G. Rawl

While marine-life breeding grounds wavered on the brink of perishing, Rawl and his henchmen concentrated on damage control of the company image. They sacked the supertanker's skipper, scapegoat Captain Joseph Hazelwood, suddenly citing a drinking problem company officials had been aware of for more than three years. They blamed the Coast Guard and Alaska's Department of Environmental Conservation for hampering salvage operations. And they took out expensive full-page ads in 165 newspapers and magazines, attempting to soft wipe the shat-upon public with an "apology" damp with crocodile tears.

Signed by Rawl, the ads claim that Exxon "moved swiftly and competently" to minimize oil damage. More absurd is Rawl's contention that Exxon will meet all financial obligations suffered through spill damage.

In the wake of rocketing gasoline prices (up 14 cents per gallon as far away as Chicago) and in the face of massive Exxon tax write-offs (lost oil, cleanup expenses, monetary retribution—even the costs of the ads themselves—are all deductible business expenses), it is clear whose wallet will bear the brunt of reparations: The American consumer and taxpayer will pay twice for Exxon's spewed crude—once at the pumps, and again with an increased tax burden.

Still, Big Oil pushes to drill in Alaska's Arctic Wildlife Refuge. President Bush supports this notion, despite proof that the petrobarons, as exemplified by Asshole Lawrence G. Rawl, are seen in 20-20 hindsight as having zero foresight—except in spotting further ways to rape our environment and wallets.

CRAM SESSION

The grim facts speak for themselves: Over half of all high school graduates do not understand the principles of simple foreplay. Two-thirds cannot even identify a female orgasm. So it's back to basics for the students in Remedial Sex Education 101. Let's hope that after a few all-nighters, these young ignoramuses can master the basics of the birds and bees. The future of our country depends on it.

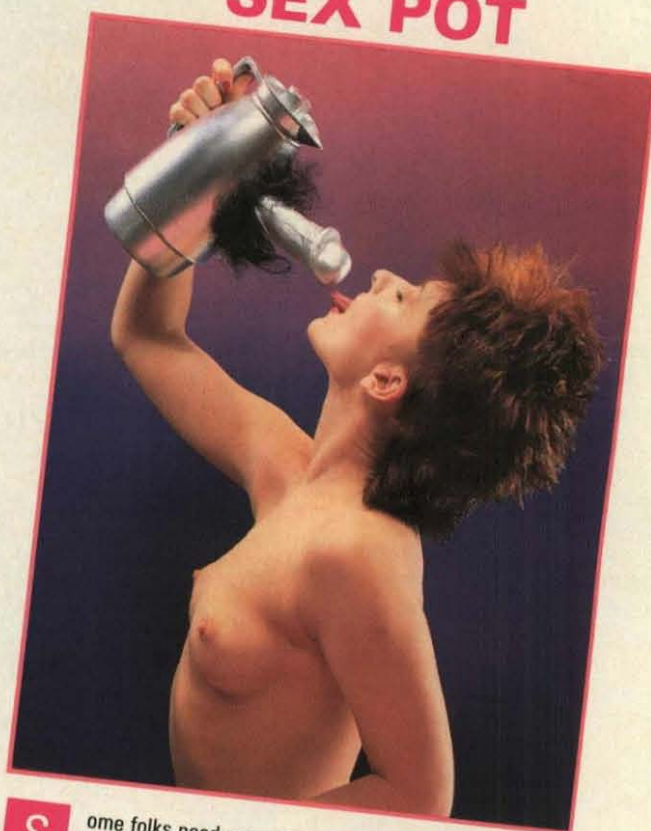

Porn From the Past

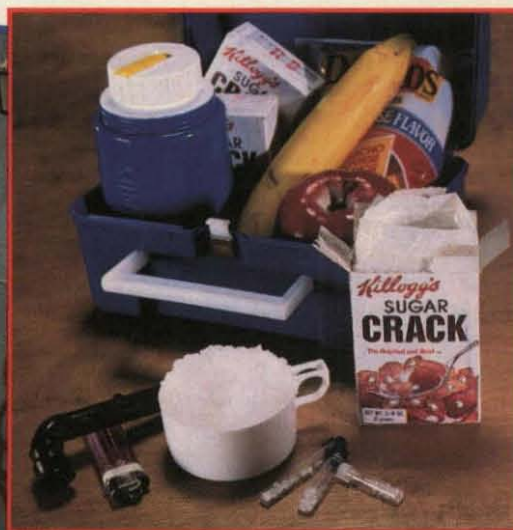

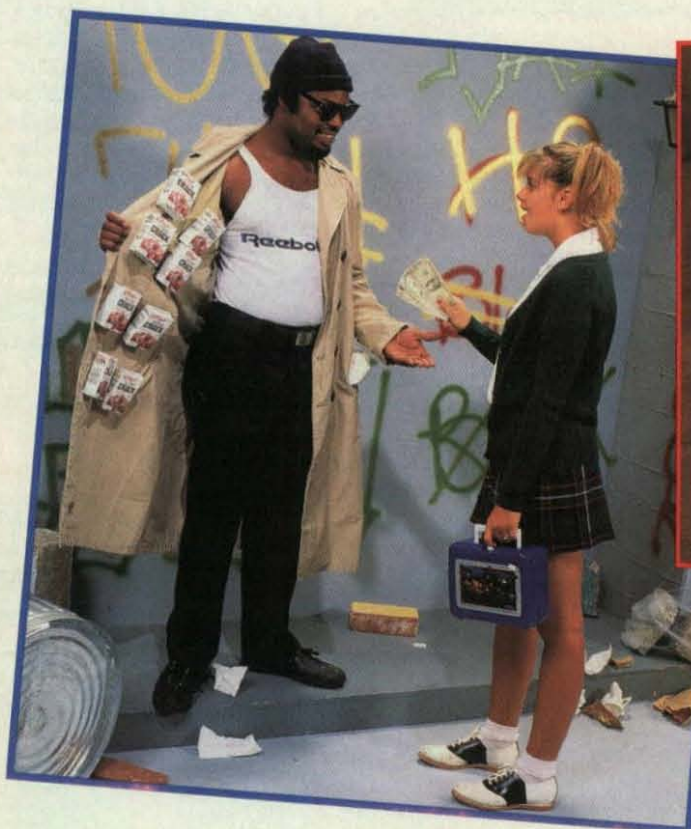

SHOW US YOUR SMUT!

If you have some vintage photos that you think might be right for us, send them to Porn From the Past, HUSTLER Magazine, 9171 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 300, Beverly Hills, CA 90210. You'll get $150 if we print your shot. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope if you want your stuff returned.

SEX POT

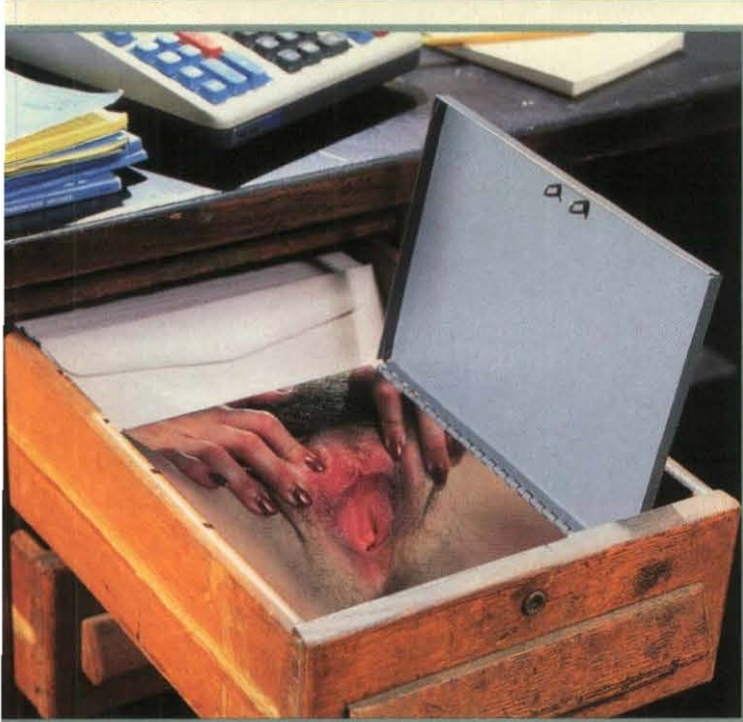

Some folks need more than a strong cup of coffee to get going in the morning. In fact, sometimes only a good, stiff drink will do. Bottoms up!

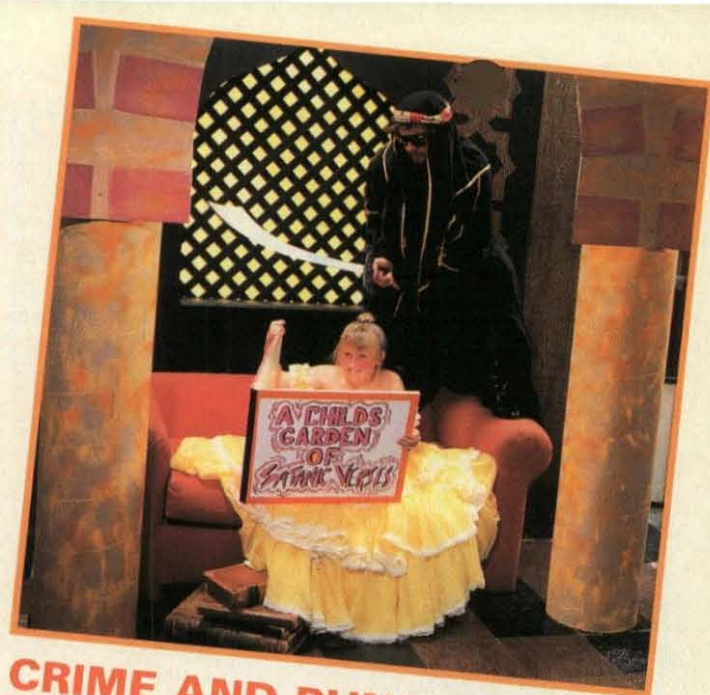

CRACKING DOWN

Chances are, if your children are blowing all their lunch money on drugs, they're not getting essential vitamins and iron. That's why there's Kellogg's Sugar Crack, the breakfast treat that combines the minimum daily requirements with the mind-numbing narcotics children love. After all, they're gonna use the stuff anyway—show them you care enough to let them use the very best.

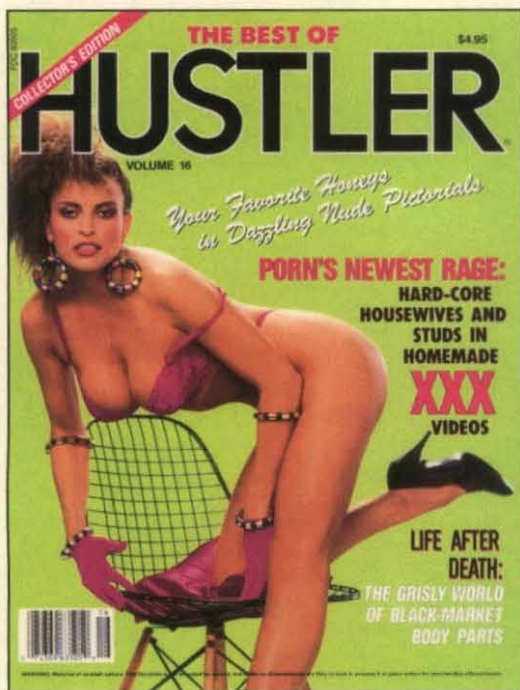

PETTY GASH DRAWER

This is the little treasure trove to reach for when you don't want to waste your time playing pocket pool during the lunch hour. Be careful about dipping in too often, however—that stinky finger is a dead giveaway.

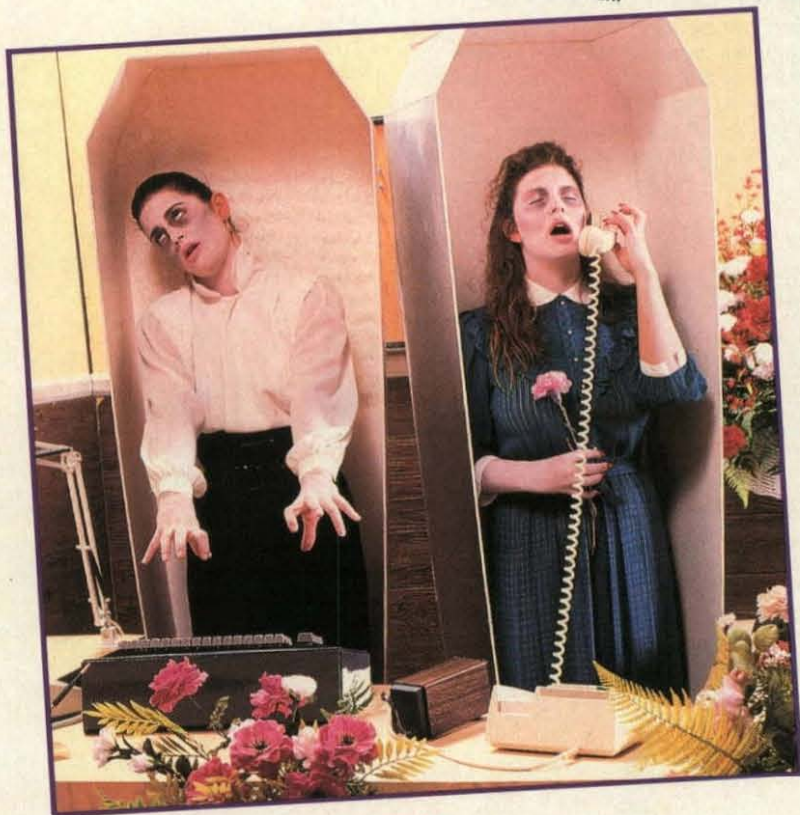

CRIME AND PUNISHMENT

Books like this really shouldn't be left lying around where children can get their hands on them. The blasphemous author of A Child's Garden of Satanic Verses has insulted Muslims everywhere by rhyming "Mohammed" with "Mohammed" (the only thing he could think of, he claims), and now all his impressionable young readers are going to have to pay the price. True, decapitating a 10-year-old seems a bit harsh, but it will send out a message to preteens everywhere—stick with Dr. Seuss or risk the wrath of the Ayatollah.

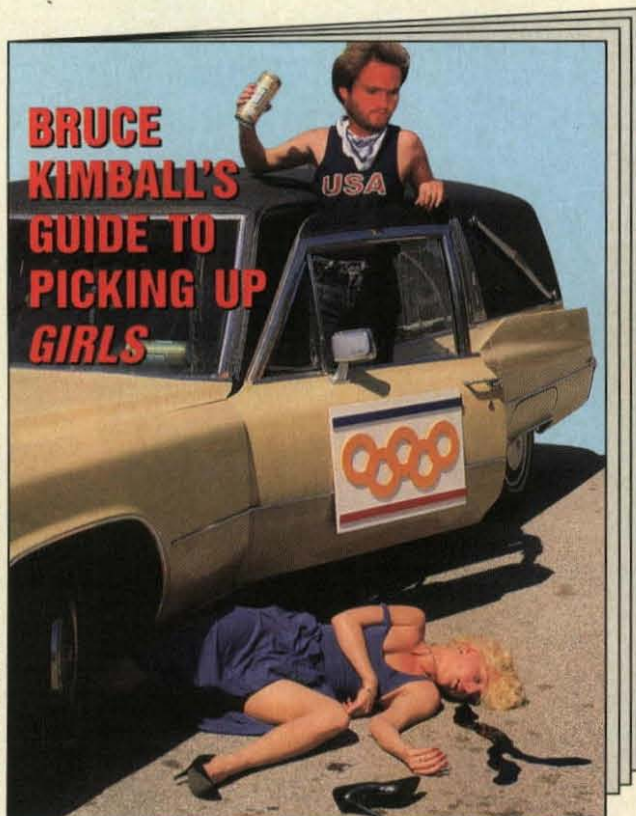

THE RIGHT STUFF

We've had another great year, and you can see why in BEST OF HUSTLER Volume 16. This special collector's edition is jam-packed with six red-hot photo-spreads—including the mouth-watering Sarah, Jay and XXX-star Nikki Knights—thought-provoking articles and a fine selection of the world's most outrageous cartoons. It costs only $4.95 at your favorite newsstand. Or order direct from Flynt Subscription Company, P.O. Box 67068, Los Angeles, CA 90067. (Please add $1 per copy for postage and handling.)

WORKING STIFFS

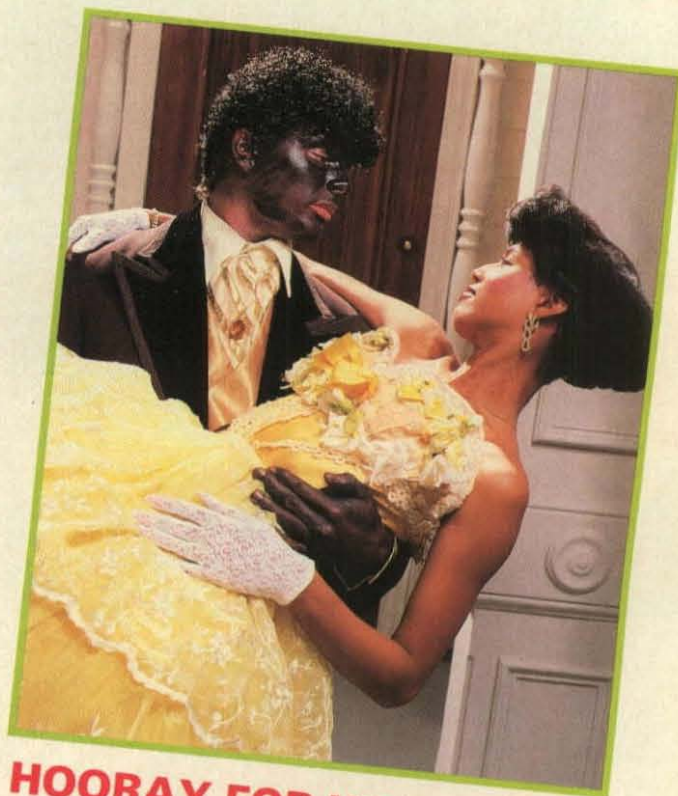

They're back from the dead and ready to punch the clock. Consider the myriad advantages of hiring the deceased: They never demand raises, they're always willing to put in overtime, and—in a pinch—they'll double as computer stands or other office furniture.

BRUCE KIMBALL'S GUIDE TO PICKING UP GIRLS

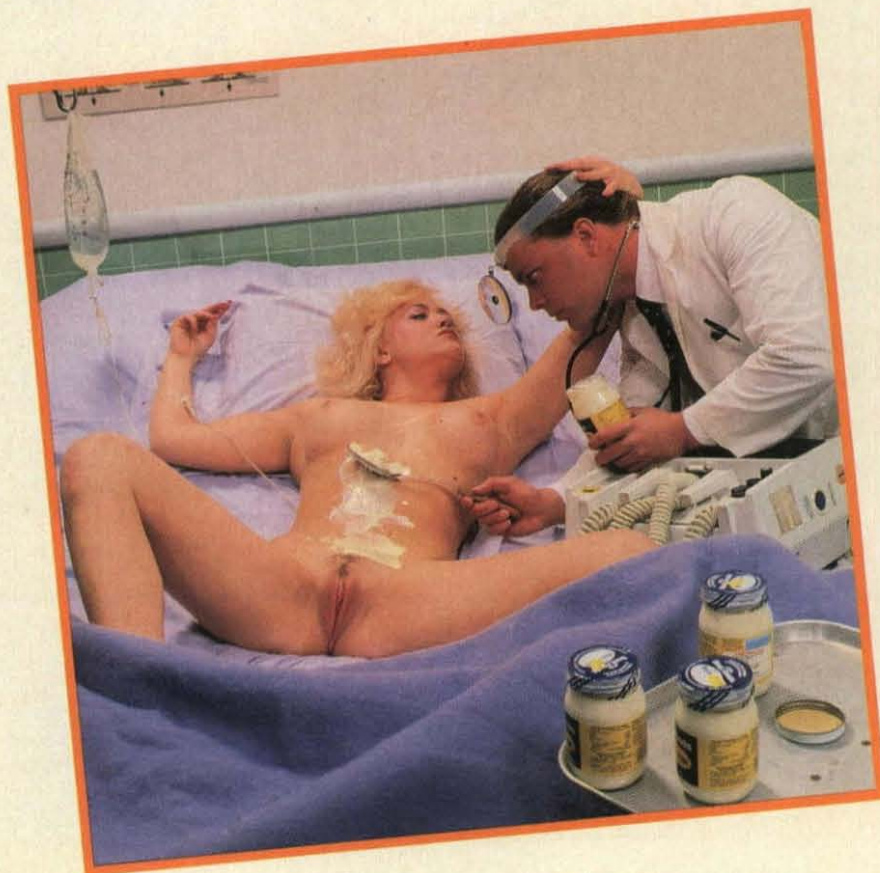

YOU TOO CAN BE A LADYKILLER!

Former Olympic diver and homicidal motorist Bruce Kimball isn't going to let life behind bars get him down. He's already basking in the success of his short but effective pamphlet on how he picks up girls—with his fender. Successful cruising is a cinch using the Kimball method. Once the prospective conquest is in your sights, just take aim, hit the gas and say, "Hello, baby!"

HOORAY FOR HOLLYWOOD

Ted Turner's campaign to colorize old movies has been extended to include even films that were shot in color in the first place. Here is a still from the recently colorized version of one of the all-time classics, now retitled We Be Gone Wif Da Wind and overdubbed with an insistent rap score by Public Enemy. Rumor has it that the mighty media mogul's next project will be to turn out Casablanca, with an all-yellow cast.

THE MAYO CLINIC

The burgeoning field of condiment medicine is an exciting one, to say the least. In addition to the treatment seen here, topical applications of ketchup, mustard and relish have also proven effective. Doctors at the clinic have refused to reveal just what disease it is they're treating, but it must be a very bad one indeed or they wouldn't be doing this, now would they?

Most Tasteless Cartoon

A Bad Case of the In-Betweenie's

In Orlando, Florida, an ex-prisoner recently lost his federal court case against a doctor he claims incorrectly incarcerated him as a woman. Scott Brenatelli, born with both male and female genitalia, claimed that his civil rights were violated when he was sent to the Lowell Women's Medical Center in 1987 after his conviction on charges of grand theft, insurance fraud and failure to appear in court. An ex-police officer, Brenatelli was a hermaphrodite at birth, but since 1980 he has undergone several operations and taken male hormones to correct his unusual condition. While imprisoned at the women's institution, Brenatelli says he was subjected to "cruel and unusual punishment" at the hands of other female inmates and prison staffers. The jail's medical doctor, who placed Brenatelli in the women's facility after an examination, was cleared of the charge. After the trial, one of the physician's attorneys stated that he thought Brenatelli was mostly upset because the doctor thought he had female organs.

Recycled Prepuce

A Boston University dermatologist has developed a new skin-grafting technique utilizing the foreskins of circumcised infants. Dr. Tania Phillips produces fresh sheets of new skin by mixing newborn prepuces with epidermal cells, then incubating the tissue for several days. Phillips says that the young skin cells (from newborns' foreskins) secrete more healing qualities than old skin cells. She expects her discovery to become the skin of choice for burn victims. Even dykes?

So Who's Complaining?

Aggressive coeds are forcing themselves upon their male counterparts, according to a report published in the Journal of Sexual Research. Ninety-three percent of the male students interviewed at Texas A&M said they'd been forced into sex they didn't desire by lady Aggies. Many of the men questioned claimed that they were too drunk to fend off advances by the females, which leads us to wonder whether that old saying about the Lone Star State, "Only steers and queers come from Texas," may be right on.

Computer Pornware: It's All Just Lighthearted Fun

The president of Digital Deviations, a leading seller of hardcore computer pornware, explains that his fast-selling exotic programs and desk-top accessories aren't taken seriously... by those who buy them. Chuck Farnham's San Jose, California-based company sells programs that depict graphic sex scenes, as well as audio devices that emit sex noises rather than the standard computer "beep." Farnham adds sardonically, "We're getting hundreds of orders. I don't know when this spurt will be over." But psychotherapist and Technostress author Craig Brod believes that this computer pornware phenomenon isn't all fun and games.

Revenge of the Nerds

A research program conducted at Northwestern Memorial Hospital in Chicago determined that among advanced degree holders, M.B.A.s really get down to business—sexually—while Ph.D.s can't get no satisfaction. But before you go out and change your major, the sex therapy program found Ph.D.s ranked highest in marital satisfaction, and M.D.s, the lowest.

Don't Leave Home Without It

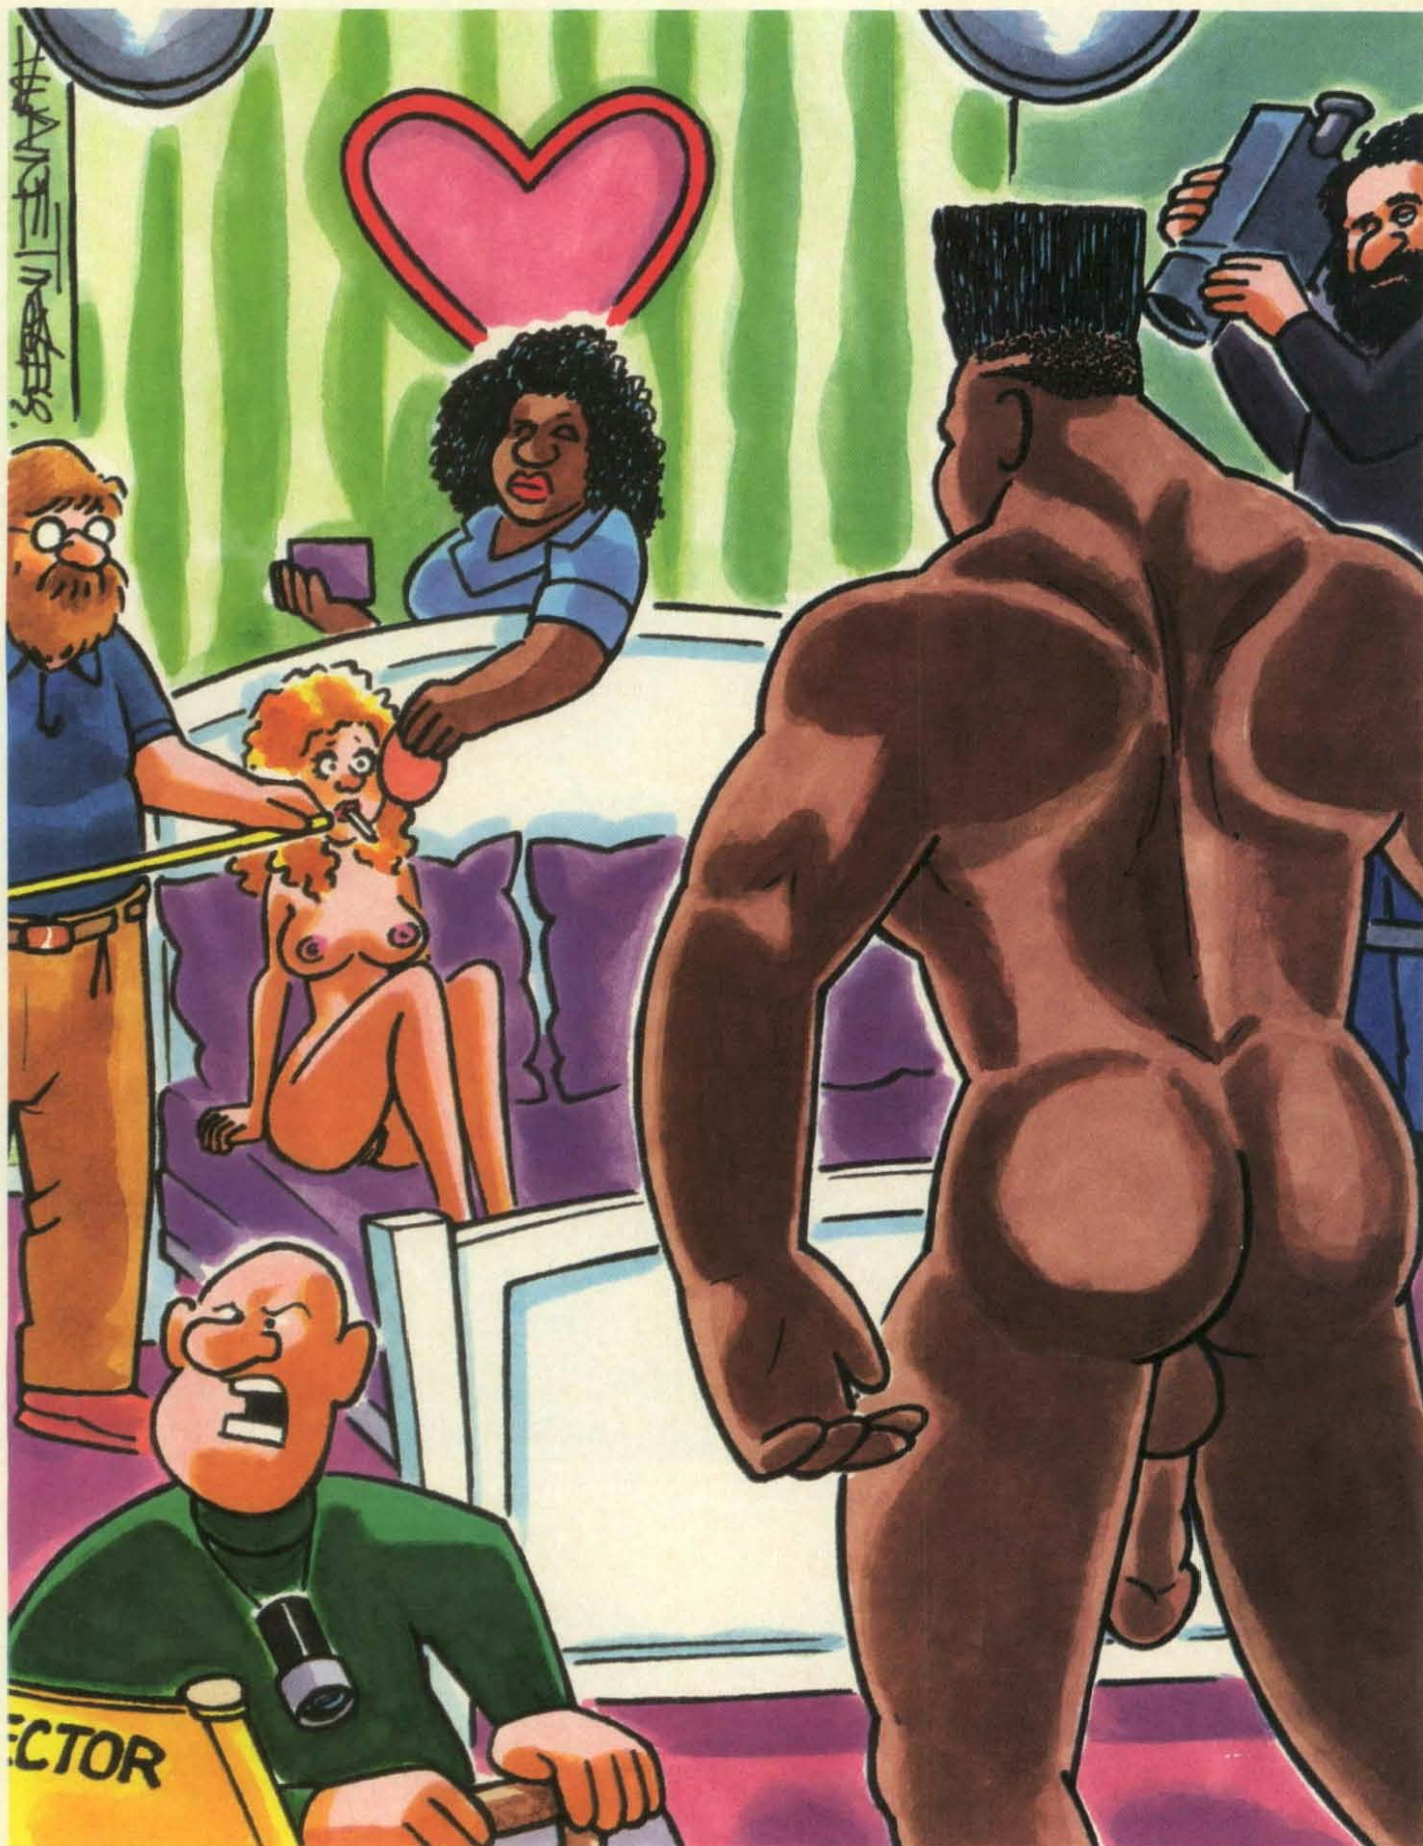

A Baltimore man refuses to pay his American Express Card bill due to the nature of the charges: payment for prostitutes. Michael Gianakos contends that since paying for pussy is illegal he shouldn't have to pay his bill, which is a lofty $6,700. "It's the oldest profession and an old rule of law—they go together as far as I'm concerned," was the wishful-thinking Gianakos's attorney's comment.

"With a magazine you have some distance. With television, you're a passive observer. But the machine-to-brain relationship becomes more direct: You're a participant." Other video experts agree with Brod, asserting that computer porn can provide levels of satisfaction far exceeding that of a book, magazine or film. Dr. Peter A. Wish, director of the New England Institute of Family Relations, says that among his clients who are computer buffs—regardless of whether they own PC pornware—are an overwhelming number of conventional porn (magazines, movies and peep-shows) perusers. Dr. Wish blames this on the subjects' lack of time, patience or emotional ability to form real relationships.

That's a Mouthful

Dealing with AIDS is a terribly traumatic experience in itself, but consider the plight of Eskimos, whose closest phrase for the dreaded affliction is "qupiqiqitaniqtuqgunnaqtumik aaqiktaujunnangitumik aakkuungayoomik," which means "the disease in the blood that cannot be cured and can kill."

Contributors HUSTLER pays $150 for each reader-submitted Bits and Pieces item. In the event that two or more readers' submissions are used in one B&P item, the payment is $50 for each submission. Larry Flynt Publications retains all rights to any material submitted, but we'll return any rejected material and original artwork (not including photos) on request if an SASE is enclosed. For this month $150 goes to Norman B. Collier. EROTIC ENTERTAINMENT

Sharon Kane comes clean in Dirty Movies.

DIRTY MOVIES

Shot on Video.

Three-Quarters Erect. Directed by Gerard Damiano; starring Britt Morgan, Cassi Nova, Sharon Kane, Nikki Knights, Holly Daze, Jesse Eastern, Billy Dee, Tom Byron, Peter North and Randy West. Videocassette by Vidco.

In Dirty Movies lauded veteran dick-spurt director Gerard Damiano takes a dead art form (vaudeville shtick), wraps it in a hackneyed story (humans from a sexless future discover ancient sex videos and reinvent sex) and garnishes it with graphic depictions of an activity humans have engaged in since the dawn of time—resulting in a fresh, brisk, fun fuck-tape. Damiano's dynamic expertise is particularly evident in the pacing, editing and focus of the schtup scenes: Tom Byron's cock head slips into and out of Sharon Kane's bliss-flushed face, shiny and slick as fantasized real life; an inexorable tide of Peter North's cum pours through the valley of anally explored Cassi Nova's breasts, washing over her straining neck and face; Nikki Knights bobs and writhes double time to elicit the slime of Byron and Randy West; Billy Dee blasts his balls on Britt Morgan's labes; Morgan catches a sheen from the glistening glans of Dee and Jesse Eastern; Jesse messes a disposable blonde, Holly Daze. Dirty Movies will leave you soiled. —Kurt Blume

With more than a thousand hard-core movies being released each year for the home audience, viewers, increasingly confronted by seductive advertising and slick packaging, are often at a loss when it comes to selecting an X-rated tape worth watching. HUSTLER is committed to serious, no-bullshit criticism designed to accurately inform readers of XXX-cinema offerings, and to spur the adult-entertainment industry to better productions. Despite their drastic decline, there will always be adult theaters, and we'd never leave a film buff in the lurch: If a review says a production was shot on film, it's probably playing on a big screen somewhere—all you have to do is find it.

VIDEO of the MONTH

Stephanie Rage abreast of big dick; John Stagliano arching Kathleen Jentry.

DANCE FIRE
Shot on Video.

Three-Quarters Erect. Directed by John Stagliano; starring Kathleen Jentry, John Stagliano, Trinity Loren, Brandy Alexandre, Giovanni Menendez, Champagne, Rick Daniels, Nina DePonca, Stephanie Rage, Rod Garetto and Jack Baker. Videocassette by Evil Angel Video.

Two of Dance Fire's grandest openings incite vertigo and libido.

This video is two hours long, and though it's well done and interesting it really needs three more sex scenes to remind us why we're watching it. Producer/director/writer/star John Stagliano has gone out on a limb with Dance Fire—fortunately, a fresh cast (particularly the males), great dancing and intense sexual encounters (including two anal scenes!) keep it from breaking. There's a certain sameness to the plots Stagliano employs when starring himself in a movie: dance instructor/choreographer meets girl, they fuck things up, they have a romantic reconciliation. Dance Fire's is more elaborate than most, however, and includes a terrific production number featuring rappin' Jack Baker backed up by Nina DePonca and Stephanie Rage on Rod Garetto's bone while Stagliano—the audience—beats off. In the is-it-real-is-it-a-dream sequence preceding this, Stagliano wanders through a maze of disembodied butts, finally stopping at one that he first pussy- then butt-fucks. The opening Trinity Loren/Brandy Alexandre/Giovanni Menendez threeway is a sizzler, as is the very intense Kathleen Jentry/DePonca/Rage lesbo trio. Jane Water's nosy camera sniffs out the action, adding heat to already simmering sex. See this with a friend or—if long nonsex sequences put you to sleep—an alarm clock.

—John Cooper

STRYKIN' IT DEEP
Shot on Video.

Half Erect. Directed by Jeff Stryker; starring Jeff Stryker, Jade East, Mercadies Coy, Stella Starr and Eric Price. Videocassette by Video 10 Distributors.

It's hard to understand the appeal of Jeff Stryker. His body is a ripple-muscle construction worthy of an acclaimed gymnast; his face has a chisled matinee-idol-on-MDA look that could make him king of the street hustlers; if his producing/directing/starring deal with Video 10 is any indication, he's got money; his dick is so big, it evokes Kascha's outsize tits. And yet, women find him attractive, which is as good a reason as any to bring home the hour-long Strykin' It Deep. Stryker's pole pukes up three of Deep's four semen heaves: two on jaded Oriental jezebel Jade East and one on the high-contrast black skin of long, tall, hot newcomer Mercadies Coy. Along with yet-to-be-trashed Stella Starr, a petite and packed platinum blonde who slurps whipped-cream from the penis of Eric Price before he launches cock-cream on her glazed crotch pastry, Coy is also a good reason to bring home Deep. Strykin' It Deep is excellent surface stimulation.

—Hakim Whithers

Jeff Stryker Strykin' It Deep in Mercadies Coy.

THREE FOR ALL

Shot on Video.

Half Erect. Directed by Duck Dumont and Charles DeSantos; starring Renee Morgan, Nina Hartley, Billy Dee, Keisha, Angel Kelly, Joey Silvera and Steve Nolte. Videocassette by Pleasure Productions.

A certain chemistry occurs in the process of creative collaboration, a combustion of ideas and execution far more powerful than the simple sum of any two talents. Three for All's codirectors, Duck Dumont and Charles DeSantos, detonate isolated explosions of genius in repartee ("I didn't catch your name." "I didn't throw it."), situational plausibility (Renee Morgan, in a skimpy swimsuit, worries that a drop-in guest is too cold) and innovational erotica (Billy Dee's two drillings are one-position pistonings), but primarily adhere to stringent standards of mediocrity. Sharing the rarefied, second-rater atmosphere are nipple-popping Morgan popping the cock of Joey Silvera and getting popped by Billy Dee; Dee falling face first into Nina Hartley's quim; Nina gently breaking in beer-bellied Steve Nolte; Silvera jamming Keisha as Angel Kelly twitches her own Hershey-kissed nips. Why the picture is called Three for All remains a mystery to all but the combined intellects of Duck and Chuck, who are two too much. —H.W.

Scott Irish accents Frankie Leigh; Blake Palmer whips his exclamation point in Jade East in Strong Language.

STRONG LANGUAGE

Shot on Video.

Three-Quarters Erect. Directed by Richard Mailer; starring Samantha Strong, Frankie Leigh, Donna Ann, Jade East, Scott Irish, Jerry Butler and Blake Palmer. Videocassette by Intropics Video.

Stupid, crippled, improbable, none is too forceful in describing the dialogue, acting or casting of Strong Language. Scott Irish, portraying the son of Blake Palmer, asks supposed English teacher Samantha Strong: "Are you trying to say I'm stupid?" The question is no more patently absurd than Jerry Butler starring as himself and his own son, but all these sins are forgiven once Irish splats his load splat atop Strong's impish grin—and she blows bubbles with his cum! Aside from this innovative and provocative wad gurgling, Language spits up a Blake Palmer plow of fecund furrow Jade East; friendly, fur-loving Frankie Leigh snacks and humps on red-headed doll Donna Ann's fuzzy cunt; Leigh's flighty tongue flicks Irish's dick; and Strong, uncharacteristically energetic, responds to the prick, patter and splatter of joy-riding Jerry Butler. All shot in clear, fluid, true-to-fantasy color and motion, Strong Language has weaknesses, but only when it's talking.

—Christian Shapiro.

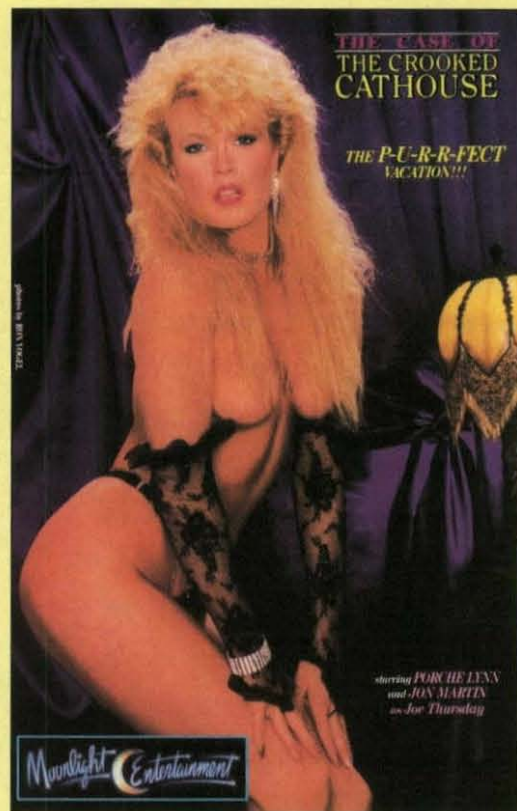

THE CASE OF THE CROOKED CATHOUSE

Shot on Video.

Half Erect. Directed by Scotty Fox; starring Porsche Lynn, Jon Martin, Lynn LeMay, Kristi Leigh, Charli St. Cyr, Rick Savage and Randy West. Videocassette by Moonlight Entertainment.

A porn tape can be in many ways worse than mediocre: It can be abysmal, pathetic, atrocious and abominable, all depths unplumbed by the thoroughly ordinary Crooked Cathouse. Crooked can hold its head high, or at least level, a median beacon in the contemporary cooze cinema sea of low-to-moderate quality. Lighting is good; girls are passably gorgeous; the men are adequately hung and cum-loaded. The sex meets most industry standards, from quantity to content: Randy West gives long, blond Kristi Leigh a lackluster lay; Porsche Lynn has her snatch roughly fingered and fucked by the dick and digits of Rick Savage; West enjoys a two-bimbo brunch with sweet meats Leigh and Charli St. Cyr; Jon Martin gobbles Lynn's crumpet as fast as she can mash it into his face; Savage thrusts cruelly into Lynn LeMay, who claws the bedsheets, looking for somewhere to hide from Rick's savage ride. It is possible to get a boner from The Crooked Cathouse, but it won't seem any bigger or straighter than usual. —K.B.

SEX SCENE

PORN STARS IN THE SPOTLIGHT

We offer a belated tribute to the lucky winners of the X-Rated Critics Organization's recent awards, which were held this year at the heavy metal club Gazzarri's on Hollywood's Sunset Strip. A high point of the evening was veteran screen siren Hyapatia Lee's sexy striptease—her grand finale was, unfortunately, circumscribed by local ordinances banning total nudity. Particular congratulations are due to Aja and Randy Spears, starlet and stud of the year, and to John Leslie, who managed to snag two coveted awards—best actor for Beauty and the Beast and best director for The Cat Woman, which also won best feature. As usual, the place was crawling with celebrity pommelsters of the past and present and, though some sticklers complained about the huge crowd and five dollar beers, the evening was deemed a success overall, and the XRCO membership is already gearing up for next year.

THE ALL-AMERICAN GIRL

Shot on Video.

One-Quarter Erect. Directed by John T. Bone; starring Carol Cummings, Victoria Paris, Taja, John Dough, Randy West and Marc Wallace. Videocassette by Fantasy Home Video.

If there was ever a porn version of the Nielsen ratings, this loser would be cancelled after the first fuck. The second installment of the self-styled "Carol Cummings Show" is as cheesy, unfunny and devoid of genuine eroticism as the first one, which at least makes it consistent. Carol chatters away vacuously, hosting a quintet of fuck scenes that are pretty blasé at best. Taja is a Boy Scout John Dough does Victoria Paris a good dick deed in The All-American Girl.

black girl with braces, who lets Marc Wallace sully her shitter, in an otherwise so-so slamming, then returns to sample a thick dildo as she and Victoria Paris enlarge their orifices with the latex lover. Randy West looks sick as a dog in his bush-bang with the orthodontial black bimbo. Finally, Carol does get in on the action, proving she can be just as dull a grind as her co-stars. There's way too much smug chit-chat going on about how cheap the film is and how director John T. Bone doesn't care to spend a dime, but it's like a dog trying to cover his shit after he's already dumped on the carpet. —Sam Lowry

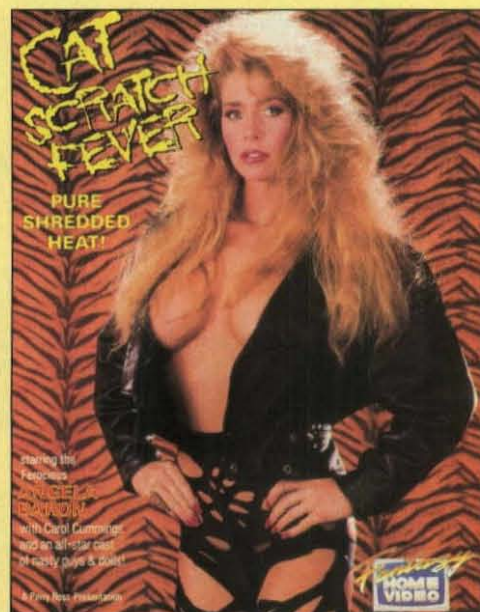

CAT SCRATCH FEVER

Shot on Video.

Half Erect. Directed by Annie G.; starring Angela Baron, Carol Cummings, Marc Wallace, Randy West, Taja, Elise, John Dough and Rene. Videocassette by Fantasy Home Video.

Cat Scratch Fever, reveals bogus-boobed, fry-haired cooze commentator Carol Cummings, was originally to be titled Pussy Itch Fever. The title was presumably changed when the Bureau of Fair Porn Practices discovered that the star of Cat Scratch's box-cover art, Kraut crotch-bait Angela Baron and her industrial-strength knockers, had apparently been inoculated at some previous time with the pussy-itch virus, rendering her immune to the inflammatory vaginal fever. Baron does feign the disease, malingering so far as to receive some Randy West wad on one of her modern-miracle mams, but Cat Scratch offers no shots verifying—beyond reasonably aroused doubt—the actual penile penetration of Baron's cunt. Such evidence abounds with the rest of Fever's cast: Cummings crams a strap-on into the cinnamon slit of Negress Taja; West pokes a low-profile poon; Taja takes John Dough's tool, but lets him save his cum for anorexic Rene; Cummings creams her tits in Marc Wallace's crud. By either name, Fever is a mild dose.

—C.S.

THREE BY THREE

Shot on Video.

One-quarter erect. Starring Frankie Leigh, Tanni, Kathleen Jentry, Stephanie Rage, Gail Force, Mark Wallace, Jesse Eastern, Tom Byron, Kevin James and John Wright. Videocassette by Las Vegas Video.

This loop group of trysting trios proves that three's definitely not a crowd, but in this mostly limp dick affair there'll be no one left awake to attest to that. You'd think with variations of two poles and one hole, or vice versa, there be some prick-perking, but most of the clips chosen have all the appeal of a dried-up rubber. The only scene that comes close to getting you to dribble a few drops is Stephanie Rage's triad in which she manhandles Tom Byron and John Wright, jerking off both of them while slowly lapping up the liquid love of the latter. The rest of the scenes are strictly bargain basement time, with such prime poon as Kathleen Jentry and Gail Force going to waste in monotonous muff maraudings. The production quality of the tape looks like it was run through a vinegar douche a few times, while the music is the usual synth slop. Cut together without rhyme or reason, Three By Three is torpid in its triplicity, and a bore for those working single-handedly. —S.L.

INCHES FOR KEISHA

Shot on Video and Film.

Half Erect. Directed by John T. Bone; starring Keisha, Erica Boyer, Amber Lynn, Joanna Storm, Keli Richards, Kathleen Moore, Tom Byron, Peter North, Blake Palmer, John Holmes, Ron Jeremy and Max DeLongue. Videocassette by Western Visuals.

Western Visuals is raking in the raunch public's indiscreet gash-cash with its steady flow of neatly disguised compilation tapes. Of course, any knowledgeable porn-hound need only consult the cast list of Inches for Keisha, printed plainly on the video box, to realize that the majority of its suckstresses have been retired for years from active porn duty. Still, the discriminating buyer might be expecting to see a fresher batch of re-releases than is dished in Inches: The two Tom Byron/John Holmes cock muggings filched from Dickman and Throbbin, one of the cunt, ass and face of bottomless hole Keli Richards, the other of amorous Amber Lynn's face and cunt, are bonings to contend with, but they've been coughed up in at least three Western Visuals collections already. Luckily, most of Keisha's plethora of pud-pleasers are just as hot and slightly less familiar. Inches could measure up, with a little less padding. —K.B.

HOSPITALITY SWEET

Shot on Video.

Three-Quarters Erect. Directed by Kurt Mann; starring Lynn LeMay, Buck Adams, Amanda Tyler, Ray Victory, Mark Wallace, Kimi Gee and Viper. Videocassette by Western Visuals.

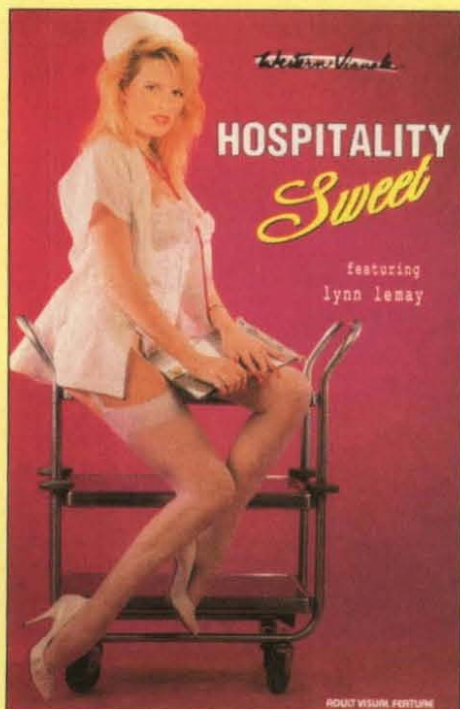

That old porn standby, the hospital and its horny staff, are given one more go-round here, and the results are sure to pop a few flesh thermometers. Once again, it's the noble nurses giving personal therapy to both the patients and doctors. Heading things is luscious Lynn LeMay who sucks and pumps Buck Adams like she's giving him CPR—and tops it all off by slapping his butt to coax a jet stream of jizz into her hungry mouth. Helium-voiced Kimi Gee almost matches the heat in her torrid torquing with Mark Wallace, as he feverishly fingerfucks her tight little asshole. Speaking of anal fissures, nurse Amanda Tyler opens her cute crap-chute for the probing Hippocratic loaf of doctor Ray Victory. On the downside, Hospitality Sweet offers only five fucks (which seems to be becoming the industry norm), and is technically primitive, with sound drop-outs and bad looping. For sheer carnality, though, this hospital crew could even turn dialysis into a sperm-spewing pleasure. —S.L.

HOT SPOT

CHERI TAYLOR

Cheri Taylor may be nearly two decades beyond being a cherry, but she's a fresher, more welcome addition to the scum scene than a slew of jaded jezebels. Much more than a titjob and a complaisant crotch, Cheri brings a classy maturity to the blue screen, offering video-documented proof that not only is there sex after 30, but it's something worth looking forward to. The four loads of jizz she takes in Second Skin are the high point (and really the only point) of the otherwise forgettable fuck flick, and you can see succulent Cheri in even finer form in Mystic Pieces and the upcoming Tori Welles Is the Scarlet Bride. Here's to you, Cheri—after all, love's more special the second, third or fourth time around.

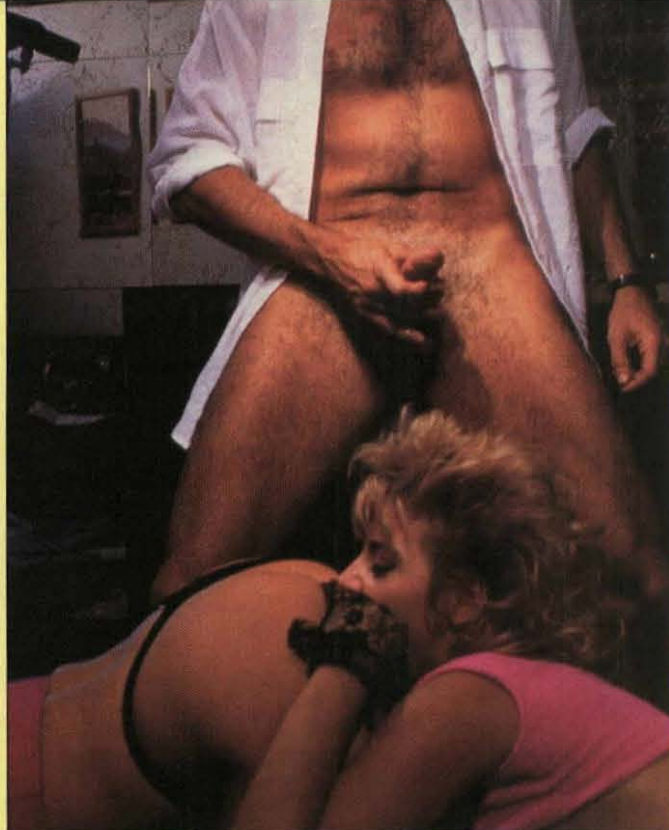

THE LEGEND OF REGGIE D.

Shot on Video.

Half Erect. Directed by John Stagliano; starring Fallon, Bionca, Cheri Hill, Tawny Downs, Jack Baker, Ray Victory, Harley Davis, Johnny Cool, John Stagliano, Christi Lane, Frankie Leigh and Brandi Wine. Videocassette by Evil Angel Video.

Reggie D., as conceived and shot by John Stagliano, is more an enigma than a legend. The prime mystery is why Jack Baker, possessor of the most notoriously nonfunctioning johnson in porn today, should be cast in the title role, as a character endowed with superhuman penile prowess. Perhaps Stagliano likes a challenge. As with all of his lovingly crafted productions, portions of Legend transcend its and porn's limitations to create a credible underworld milieu replete with sizzling squack deep-fried in dick batter. A pair of poozles prime the pump of Stagliano himself; two more video whores dig into a slick dude's drawers, extract his tap root and drain his essence; wiry and winsome Frankie Leigh wrings Ray Victory's wad onto her butt cheeks; Fallon ignites three prongs to jism fever; Baker or a stand-in dick spits on Fallon's tits. Reggie D. has many Stagliano standards: nightclub interiors with live band, shots inside a moving limo, fingers in slut butt. Whether these trademarks become elements of legend, or simply clichés, is up to him.

—K.B.

John Stagliano is stiffed by two Legend of Reggie D. cum-drops.

TABOO VII: THE WILD AND THE INNOCENT

Shot on Film.

One-Quarter Erect. Directed by Kirdy Stevens; starring Randy West, Lisa Thatcher, Herschel Savage, Suzannah French, Jamie Gillis, Mai Lin, Milt Ingle, Bonnie Walker, Jesse Adams, Robert Balder, Tigr, Russell Tynan and Daren Striker. Videocassette by Intropics Video.

Time is the great healer, the leveler of many things, but even an elapsed decade or more won't turn a crummy fuck film into anything more than a crummy fuck film, albeit with an added curiosity and nostalgia factor. Ever wonder how Jamie Gillis looked during his days of early promise? Ever been curious to see Herschel Savage way back when he had less lard than the women he fucked? And did Randy West really ball girls who were more than half his age? This film feature, from porn's glory days of celluloid, copious extras and straight, fully clothed musical-dance numbers (while West lipsyncs to an atrociously sappy overdubbed balladeer, a squad of long-gone squack, many of them grandmas by now, clutch books to their chests and sway in time to the moribund tune), is hilarious in parts, but its emphasis is on something other than high-octane eroticism as it has come to be known today. Taboo VII, a relic from smut's innocence, may have been wild in the '70s, but, like that decade, it is mostly vague and absurd as we launch into the '90s. —K.B.

Fear and hypocrisy have repressed sexual awareness, leading to the ignorance that spreads disease and creates violence, in addition to hindering our natural enjoyment of sex. This series opens the door to current sexual knowledge and expression, and improved love-making.

SEX GOES ETHNIC

The world is full of beautiful women of every size, shape and nationality. Exotic women from far-away lands undulate erotically through the imaginations of countless "all-American" males who fantasize about consummating a Tibetan threesome with the Dalai Lama's concubine and a yeti sow, coming like a tsunami in the soft mouth of a white-powdered geisha who's bound hand and foot with silken cords, mounting the broad pink buttocks of a square-built Russian peasant girl and reining her in with a fat blond braid in each hand.

Most men who dream of these women despair of ever fulfilling their fantasies, but the truth is they don't have to spend their hard-earned greenbacks on foreign language lessons and exchange the condo and their life savings for American Express

Traveler's Cheques to go halfway round the world to experience the pleasures of sexual ethnicity. This is America, the great melting pot, land of opportunity. Those women are here, now, in the lower 48, in the neighborhood, practically in your backyard!

In the new global village it is not even necessary to be in a metropolis to meet a romantic alien. There are Hmong tribeswomen on farms outside of Seattle, Washington; Vietnamese ladies in Galveston, Texas; former Israeli tank commanders in Homestead, Florida; Fiji Islanders in Oakland, California; and hot-and-cold running Central and South Americans just about everywhere else. Even the smallest dot on the map in the middle of Kansas has Koreans or Persians running the local 24-hour convenience store. The women of the world are on our doorsteps just waiting for an invitation into the bedroom.

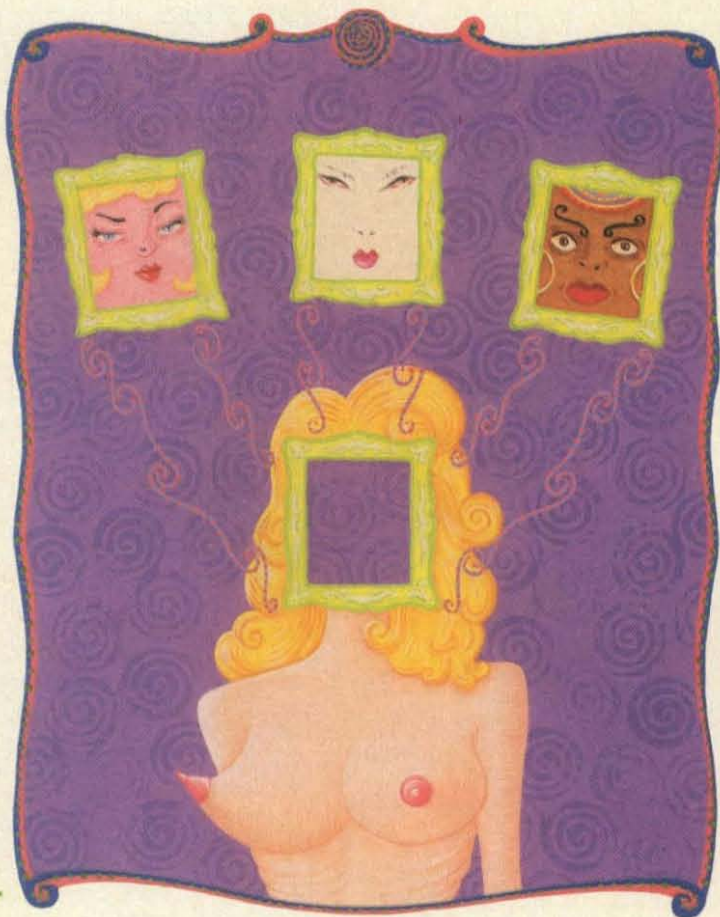

What follows is information about the pluses and minuses attributed to women of various nationalities (grouped conveniently by religion) by men who know them well. The experts' appraisals are combined with a frank assessment of the racial stereotyping usually applied to these women.

CATHOLICS

Half the world is ruled by Christianity in one form or another, and the one form you are most likely to run into in Western Europe and Latin America is Catholicism. So it's a good idea to know something about how this religion shapes the women of the world. Here is the reminiscence of Frank F., a man brought up in the Catholic faith:

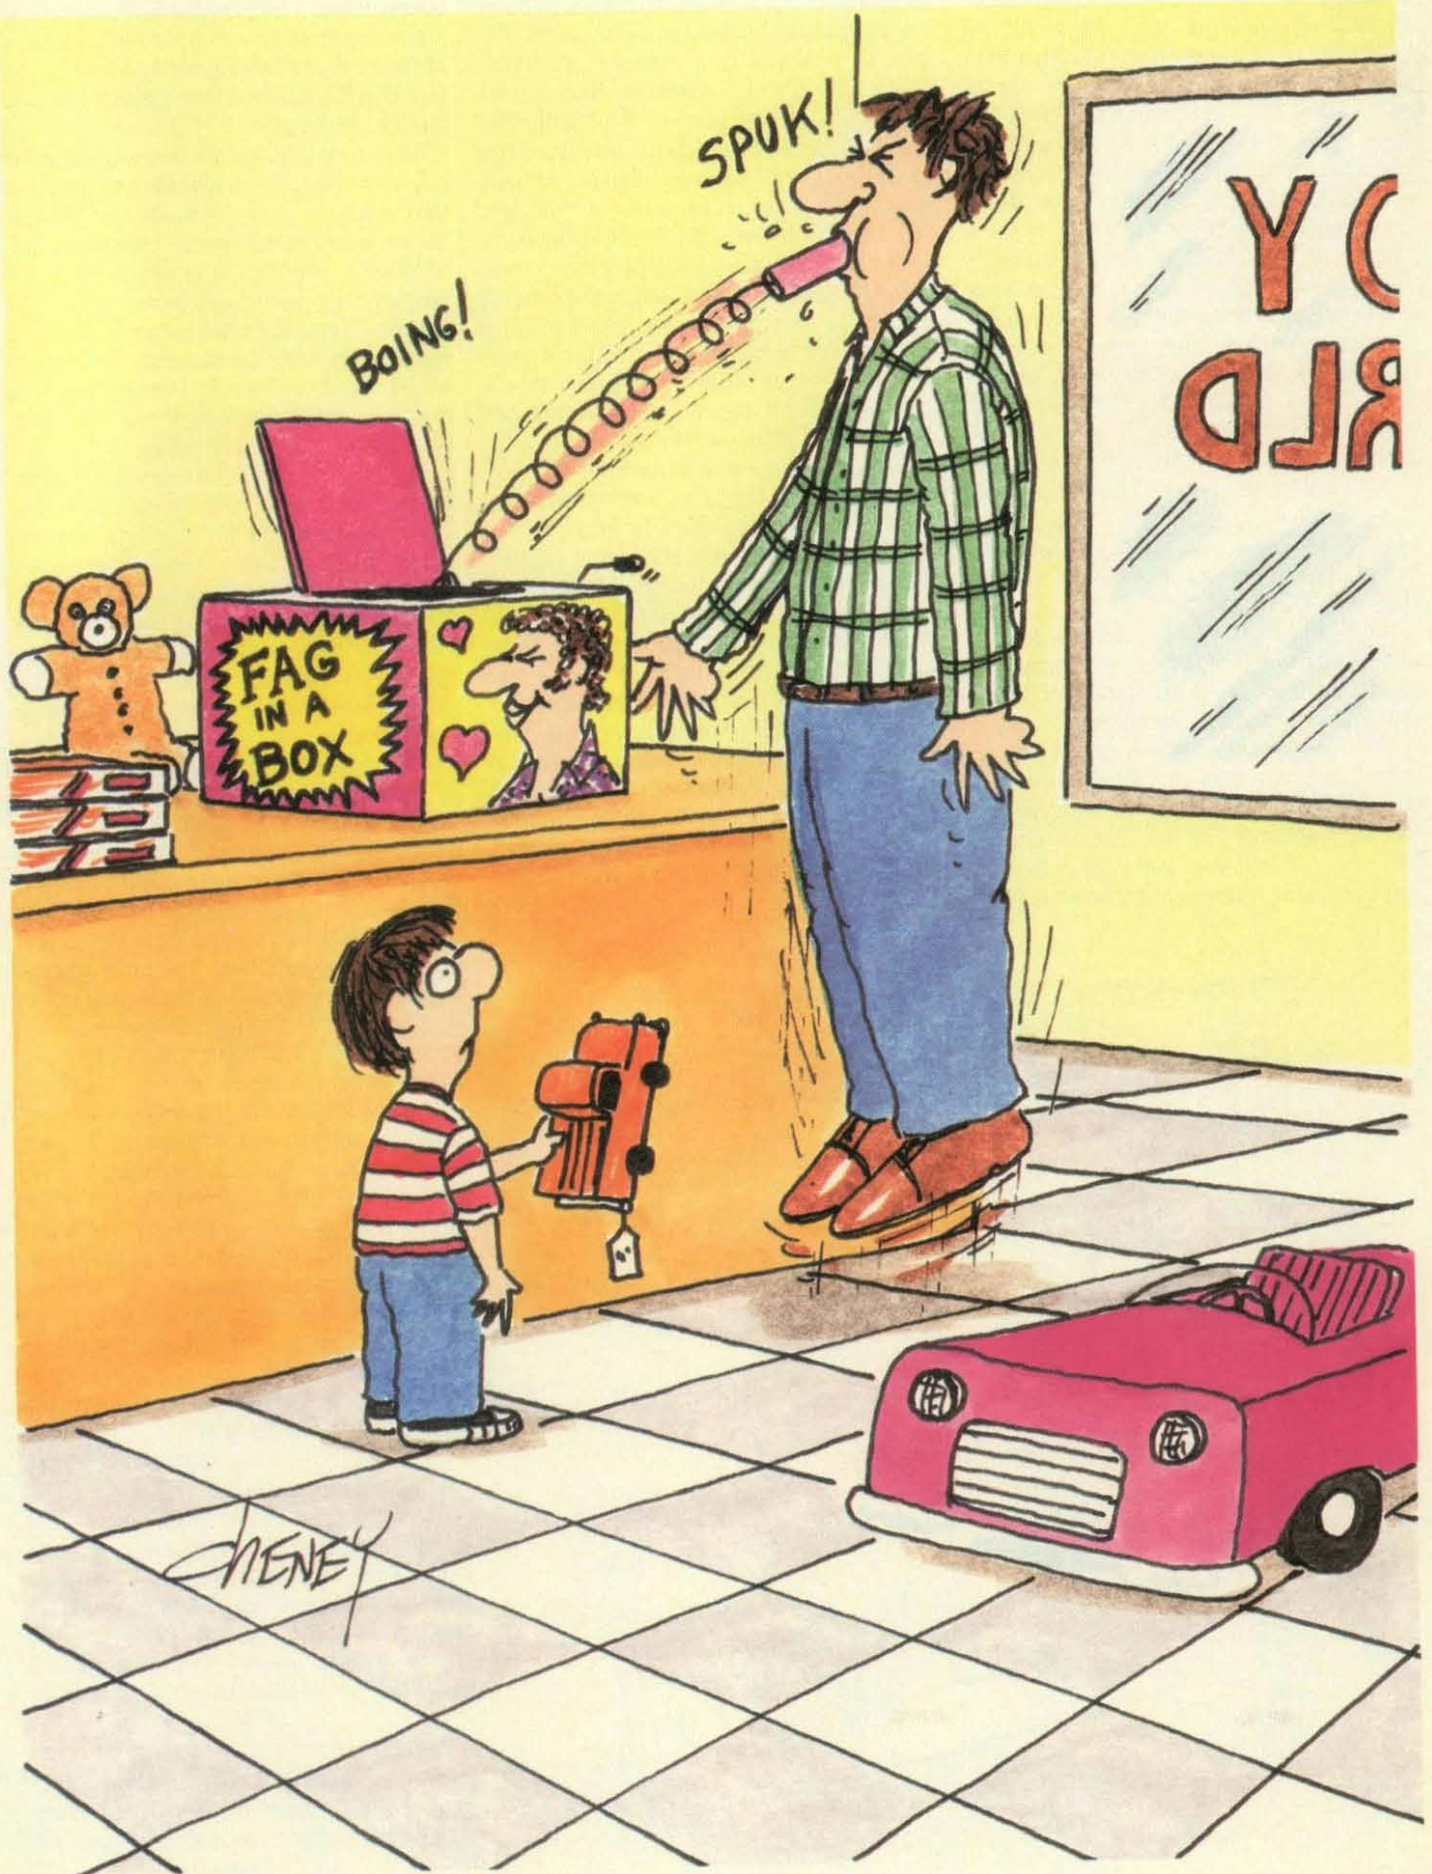

"At the Catholic Youth dances I attended as a teenager, the local crapulous-faced whiskey priest would always shout out during the slow dances, 'Now, children, be sure to leave room for the Holy Ghost between you.' At 15, we boys were as horny as a herd of goats from hell with no one to take it out on. It's a wonder that anyone with a Catholic childhood can still fuck." The entire religion is built on sexual guilt. Thank God, glands are stronger than any dogma. Although all Catholics are psychically scarred and sexually twisted, they usually make interesting, often dangerous sexual partners.

Perhaps the most Catholic of people, and the best example of Catholic guilt, are the Irish. They are a handsome race, but not the brightest on the planet, so they embrace their religion with real fervor. The hierarchy of men in the mind of an Irish girl in descending order is Jesus, her priest and her father. It is no wonder that Irish men have resorted to Guinness stout for solace. Fortunately, there is also a rogue "wild and crazy" gene that disrupts the holy order of Irish chromosomes, particularly among the women. Its origin seems linked to the misty prehistory of Druids and Celts who first inhabited the Emerald Island. Frank F. explains: "The colleens who are happily afflicted with this genetic quirk are still racked with guilt, but they do not like taking orders from anyone, even a limp-lily priest who takes his orders from a bunch of dagos in Rome. Tell her not to drink and she will drink you under the table. Tell her you will not fuck her and she will proceed to fuck you into intensive care. Reverse psychology was invented to help the world deal with Irish women. It works great until you tell them to go away. They won't."

Tip: Red hair is the genetic marker for the Irish "wild and crazy" syndrome. Precaution: Irish women (and all "good" Catholics) do not use any birth control. Be prepared.

"All Italian women claim to love their fathers and hate their mothers," according to Bob B., a former U.S. Navy petty officer who was stationed in the Mediterranean. Then why is it that they're always with their mamas? Italian women are particularly hard to bed, because they seem always to be in the company of brothers, cousins, aunts, sisters or other relatives. Catholic guilt combines with familial cohesion. Bob B. discovered only one way to deal with this predicament: "You've got to persevere. Go to dinner at her parents' house and suck down twice as much pasta as you think you can hold. Sit through the boring evening in front of the television watching badly dubbed spaghetti westerns with screaming kids all around. After a few weeks, you'll become the Italian girl's inamorata. This status gives you incredible privilege. For instance, mama can walk in on you grappling inside her daughter's clothes on the living room sofa, and this woman—who initially wanted you dead upon first laying eyes on you—will just giggle and offer you more to eat.

"There is one drawback," Bob admits. "Italians still believe in the blood feud, which means that all male members of her extended family will try to kill you once you break off the relationship. It helps to have a fast frigate disembarking when this happens."

Tip: Many Italian women have large, firm breasts and most Italian males are radical tit-men. When you are with an Italian girl and you do get a chance to fondle anything, don't fool around. Go directly to her clitoris. This will intrigue and gratify a woman who spends most days fending off unsolicited attempts to cop a feel. Precaution: Italians have a worldwide organization for the protection of family rights known as the Mafia. If you take Bob B.'s advice, do not assume that they will not find you.

More people of Spanish descent live in the U.S. than any other ethnic minority. Whether they are from Chile, Nicaragua or Mexico, they all share certain ethnic characteristics. Michael S. has chosen to specialize in the women of Uruguay. His present girlfriend is a former Tupamaro who now works as a waitress in America because she did not wish to wind up in a ditch with buckshot for brains in her native country where right-wing death squads are active.

Michael was first attracted to Latin women by their erotic dancing. In Spain they dance the flamenco, in Argentina, the tango, in Puerto Rico the dance is the merengue. "The national erotic dance of Uruguay," Michael explains, "is the fregar. The Uruguayan woman straddles one of your legs, clamps her vagina onto your thigh with a vacuum lock and dry humps you across the dance floor."

Although Latin women are also burdened by Catholic guilt, they take a more practical approach in dealing with it. Michael S. describes their method: "The Uruguayan women I know are quite willing to fling themselves into any prurient posture I can conceive, then commit a series of sexual acts beyond my imagination. The next day the woman simply spends an equal amount of time on her knees in the local parish church doing penance. That night she's back on her knees giving me a blowjob."

Spanish women are insanely jealous, and a female version of the infamous Spanish machismo mars their attractiveness. "I made the mistake," Michael warns, "of giving Linda Maria a key to my apartment. One afternoon she unexpectedly walked in while I was in bed with another woman. All I can say is that when these señoritas get angry they really go nuts. She pulled a chrome-plated .38 revolver on me!

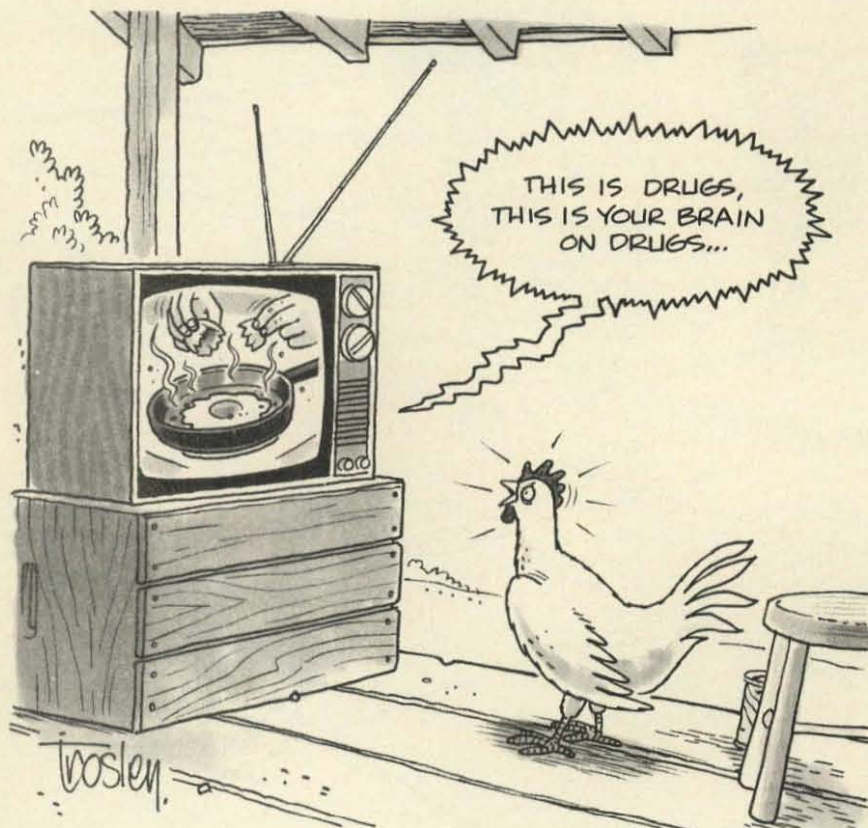

"I got the gun away from her, but it was weeks before I could stop her from standing out in front of my apartment building shouting, 'Estupid head.'"

Tip: Don't treat Spanish women too nicely. They see such behavior as a sign of weakness. They will appreciate a little male chauvinism. Precaution: Latin women are prone to fits of parapsychology in which they dream symbolic dreams and, upon waking, blame you for your actions in their dreams.

bied for financial assistance to pay for jobs and housing for prostitutes who give up the business.

The Philippine government has requested that the U.S. station only "AIDS-free" personnel at the military bases, claiming that the bar girls were infected by sexual contact with American servicemen who had the virus.

Africa

In a continent where many tribes continue to sponge their bodies with cow urine to ward off insects, AIDS has virtually gone unnoticed because diseases, starvation and death are common daily occurrences. The earliest evidence of AIDS in Africa was recently uncovered in a blood sample taken and stored back in 1959! Primitive health care and lack of doctors and medical supplies are further exacerbated by shoddy communications systems suggesting that many AIDS cases go undiagnosed and unreported. Many countries within Africa have stopped reporting AIDS and have banned foreign scientists and journalists because of fear of creating a bad image.

In addition to sexual transmission, many health experts believe that one reason AIDS is running rampant throughout the Dark Continent is because scarce hypodermic needles are used over and over again on hundreds of patients. Educational programs have begun, but even the health workers are often ignorant about how the virus is spread. The World Health Organization predicts AIDS will kill 5 million Africans by the year 2000. In many hospitals medical services are collapsing where a third of the patients are dying of AIDS. In Uganda, half the population of some towns have died of AIDS.

Western embassies and international companies have taken unusual precautions for Africa-based employees, including the issue of sterile needles to be carried in case of an accident and a need for blood transfusions. If medical treatment is needed, they are airlifted to Geneva, Paris or London on a chartered jet.

Perhaps the main lesson to be learned from Africa is that AIDS is not a homosexual disease. "What's happening in Africa is very alarming," states Thomas Quinn, an AIDS expert. Unlike the rest of the world, in Africa, "the number of male and female AIDS victims is roughly even."

Brazil

Jumping halfway around the world to Brazil, WHO's Dr. Mann says, "You have a potential here for an AIDS epidemic like Central Africa's." South America's largest country is second only to the U.S. in reported cases of AIDS. Brazil's vibrant and sexually active culture is believed to be spreading the disease faster than anywhere outside Africa. The Brazilian Health Ministry has only five doctors and one secretary as its entire AIDS staff, but Brazil does have the best education campaign in Latin America. The govern-

by Jeff Jackson

There is a global AIDS epidemic that leaves no country untouched," states Dr. Jonathan Mann, of the U.N.'s World Health Organization (WHO). Several hundred million people might be carrying the AIDS virus according to Mann, who predicts a cumulative total of 1 million full-blown AIDS cases by 1991.

Indeed, the future appears grim as the number of AIDS cases reported worldwide has nearly doubled in the past year and now totals 146,569 cases in 177 countries. Sixty percent of those cases are in the United States. (The U.S. numbers may be higher only because of gross underreporting by other countries.)

Since no cure is presently available, WHO has stated that "the single most important component of national AIDS programs is information and education" to change behavior and prevent the further spread of the virus.

Let's look at how AIDS is being handled around the world:

The Philippines

Mayor Richard Gordon slammed his 9mm pistol on the table in front of a trembling 18-year-old girl.

"Okay, go ahead! Blow your brains out," he urged the "hospitality girl" who had AIDS. Instead she broke into tears and agreed that it was time to get out of the business of fucking and sucking U.S. Navy seamen based at nearby Subic Bay.

Olongapo Mayor Gordon's approach to AIDS might seem rather drastic, but his city has over 6,000 prostitutes in its red-light district. The AIDS implications are frightening when studies show that the majority of these prostitutes "service" more than 60 different American sailors a day who then ship out to other ports around the world. The vast majority of these working girls have never heard of a rubber, let alone used one.

"It's time to shake the tree, gents, and I'm shaking it," stated Mayor Gordon at a meeting with U.S. Naval officials where he lobment handed out 500,000 AIDS warning leaflets—printed in four languages—to 400,000 sex-crazed tourists who invade Brazil for carnival each year. The authorities consider the campaign a success because of the condoms littering the ground every morning at Flamingo Park, Rio's well-known "meat rack."

Britain

The English are considered world leaders in AIDS education, spending over $30 million on government-funded campaigns that include mailing AIDS information to all 23 million households (something the U.S. just got around to). Billboards warn, AIDS: Don't Die of Ignorance. TV ads chisel the same slogan on a gravestone while an announcer solemnly delivers AIDS information. Foreign visitors suspected of carrying the virus are turned away.

Italy

The national TV network recently broadcast a five-hour AIDS special showing pictures of couples fucking in different positions. Health officials fielded call-in questions from anxious viewers to discuss the AIDS-related risks associated with each sexual act.

West Germany

This country is going all-out promoting condoms, publishing a drawing of a man and a woman in 66 million newspapers and magazines with the title "Trust is good; condoms are better." Paranoia towards American military personnel is rampant. "Very many Germans keep their hands away from Americans," states the owner of a huge gay disco in Frankfurt.

Scandinavia

In Denmark and Norway the governments are very open about sex information, instructing kids about AIDS and other sexual matters.

"We found that explicit information in the form of pictures, cartoons and videos is necessary in order to show exactly what safe sex is," said Dr. Lone de Neergaard of Denmark's National Board of Health. "Some may like this, some may not—but it has been an advantage for us in our battle against AIDS."

One TV cartoon spot promoting condoms depicts the word AIDS; then the small letter "i" grows into an erection as a rubber is slipped over it.

Holland

While in the Land of the Free we refuse to provide sterile needles to thousands of junkies who risk contracting AIDS by sharing needles, the Dutch freely distributed tens of thousands of sterile needles and syringes, in the process reducing the number of addicts who shared needles from a peak of 75% in 1985 to 25% in 1987.

Japan

With only 97 cases reported, AIDS is considered a "foreign" disease. The only effort the government has made is distribution of AIDS information pamphlets at government-sponsored health centers. The Japanese are already fully committed to condoms with 70% of couples using rubbers for birth control. They buy 864 million condoms a year compared to Americans slipping on only 288 million—and our population is twice as large as theirs. Tokyo talk-show hosts have advised their viewers to stay away from American GIs.

The Soviet Union

For a long time the Soviets denied AIDS existed in their country, linking it to sexual decadence tolerated in the West, but shunned by Soviet society. Another official view was that AIDS was created by the Pentagon as a biological warfare weapon that backfired when it was accidentally released in our country. These stances have been abandoned in favor of a massive treatment and information campaign aimed at making up for lost time.

The Russians now acknowledge 192 HIV-positive diagnoses among Soviet citizens, and 378 among foreigners. The foreigners have all been deported. Because for years it was politically dangerous to report AIDS cases, most physicians just kept mum, and many gave purposely incorrect diagnoses to patients who then unknowingly transmitted the disease. As a result, health officials fear that HIV infection may be 100 times greater than supposed. The situation in Russia is aggravated by a chronic shortage of condoms and sterile needles.

SHE TAKES DICTATION

One day, shortly after hiring Debbie, a divorcee with two small kids, I left the office to submit a job bid, only to remember I'd forgotten some blueprints. Upon returning, I heard moans and groans coming from my partner Sal's office and quietly peeked in to see our lovely new secretary on her knees sucking his cock.

Sal has a long, thick cock, and he had Debbie's head in his hands and was fucking her mouth with such speed it was unbelievable. Why she wasn't gagging was beyond me. Shocked as I was at first, I just couldn't take my eyes off the show in front of me. It wasn't very long before Sal blasted her face with a big load of hot custard. As Debbie was licking the last drops off, I walked in and pretended to be pissed off. I told our secretary that I'd talk to her later.

My eventual conversation with Debbie became more of a plea on her behalf. Things were tough at home, there were bills to be paid, she needed her job since she was supporting her children all by herself. Well, I thought about it and suggested that she could stay on if I could get some of the same action as my partner.

Debbie was initially shocked at my comment, and I thought she'd just storm out of my office, but she just stood there for a minute and finally said, "Okay." So I simply opened my belt, unzipped my pants, dropped them to my ankles and said, "Let's get started." She walked slowly around my desk, looking at my limp cock. It was a small sack of nothing until she knelt down and took my balls and cock into her mouth. As she sucked, I opened her blouse and freed those big, bouncy tits.

After five minutes I knew I couldn't hold off so I grabbed her head, held it tightly and shot a good-size load into her mouth. Debbie backed off, squeezed every last drop out of my shaft and lapped it up. She then stood up, her tits staring at me and began putting herself back together. Debbie went back to work while I sat there in disbelief.

Since then, this has developed into a regular routine. Anytime we want some head, or we are a little down, we just call her into our office and she goes right to work, sucking away. If the phone rings, she'll interrupt just briefly to take a message and then continue sucking.

We tried to convince Debbie to let us fuck her, but she adamantly refuses. She'll take off her blouse and bra and let us fuck her beautiful tits, but no fucking her pussy or asshole—which was quite all right considering the sweet deal we had secured. It was tough keeping this kind of thing quiet, especially with all our dealings with painting crews.

Debbie was usually picked up by her boyfriend. Little did he know how much cock his woman was sucking on a regular basis here at the office and how much cum she had often consumed just minutes before he arrived.

Since we're out in a rural area, we're not bothered with many visitors. Sometimes, we just walk up to her reception area and whip our cocks out, and Debbie will do the honors.

One particular way I like it is having her lie on her back, on my desk, with her head hanging over the edge. This way, I can ram-fuck her mouth. Debbie can't move her head forward or backward. I just fuck away as my balls slap against her eyes and nose. Occasionally, Debbie will chew on my balls as if they were all-day suckers. Then I shoot my load all over her face. She seems to love that.

Debbie never protests our continuing attentions, which is why we believe she can't get enough cock. As long as this has been going on she's never complained. We once asked her why she loved cock-sucking, and she replied that from the very first time she sucked a cock she loved it. She loves the smells and tastes of sucking. She always will. —S. R.

LESBO GASH BASH

For years I'd dreamed of making it with another woman, but until I met Carla, a spicy, long-legged Chicana, it was nothing more than that—a dream. Now don't get me wrong. I love a big dick pounding away at me.

My pussy gets drenched when I feel a man's heavy balls slapping against my ass, but I'd always wondered how it would feel to be in the arms of a woman, watching my pretty blond pussy smothered by another's fur.

One morning at work I was horny as hell, and I suppose it must have shown. I tried to work, but I just couldn't stop thinking about my hungry little muff.

Carla worked at the desk next to mine. I told her all of my dirty thoughts except my desire to sleep with women. We liked to make each other horny by talking about our adventures with men. That morning, Carla said that I looked like I needed a good nasty fuck.

After work she dropped by for drinks. We popped a porn video into the VCR, and while we watched the movie we discussed our bedroom activities. Carla said she liked to get reamed from behind, and that she liked to feel warm cum drip down her soft deep crack. I like guys to squirt on my face, and I love swallowing.

Talking about men and watching the movie made my crotch really sweaty. We were sitting on a furry rug by the fireplace, and before we knew it our knees and thighs were beginning to touch. We were probably a little nervous—I know I was—but we didn't pull away. She looked at me with her dark eyes and said, "I love to lick pussies...do you?"

"I've never done it, but I've always been curious," I admitted shyly. Then before I knew it, her tongue was deep down my throat. I was shaking and afraid, but I was praying my Latina wouldn't stop. What would it be like, I wondered, to suck on her nipples and rub her dark crotch? The passion of her warm, flicking tongue made me weak.

Her hand crept inch by inch up my leg toward my thigh. I can't describe how powerless I felt when she lifted my skirt and grabbed onto my silkies, ripped them tight through my slit and pulled them, hard, up into my pubes, cunt lips and crack. She nearly lifted me off the ground in her excitement.

I was now dressed only in high heels, panties and bra. Carla cupped my ass cheeks and snapped at my undies with her teeth. Her bright red fingernails clutched my trim.

"Such a soft fucking ass," she moaned.

"Touch me there, Carla. Slip your hand inside me."

I sucked on her breasts while she held me tight. She took her fingers from my pussy and slipped one into my mouth, and I recognized the taste.

"Taste me," she whispered.

I began to lick her feet, calves and thighs. I then reached for the band of the frilly pink panties that didn't hide all of her muff. I pulled them to her knees, and for the first time I saw her tiny little clit, swollen and engulfed in black hair.

I smelled her spunk as she pulled my head into her gash. I felt her silk on my face, and I swallowed her lovely flow. I kissed her every inch, nipped at her crack and sucked her hard clit.

"Stick your finger in me," she begged.

I slipped my middle finger into her squirming slit. Her muscle closed tightly around it. My finger moved quickly in and out, while I massaged her sassy lips and clit with my palm. I reached back to squeeze her full fleshy rear.

A moment later I flipped Carla onto her hands and knees, grabbed her thighs, and pulled her ass right up to my face. My blond hair flowed through her crack while she screamed and howled. Her hand crawled right up her backside, and her fingers desperately sought her own bung-hole. In and out they went.

By now my pussy was sopping, so I climbed up on her haunches and gave her a good hard spank. "Now you kiss my little snatch!" I commanded.

I straddled her face. Carla's tongue popped out of her mouth and flicked at my twat like a big fat snake.

"That's right. Sit up and lick me. Eat my cunt."

Carla's dark, pretty face in my bush, her big heaving tits and her bright red lips sucking on my clit made me all the more juicy. She was eating me good.

When I reached back for her muff, she took my hand and shoved it right in, wrapping herself around my fingers. Warm, slushy and tight, she spread her legs wide.

I buried my face in her soft, large tits. I took one of her nipples and sucked urgently. I felt her hands on my breasts; my nipples were hard.

She slipped her hand into my panties. Kneading the ends of my hair, she parted my vulva with her fingers. Carla ran her hand down around my ass and back up into my fur. She pulled my legs apart, kissed me hard on the mouth.

"Touch me," I begged, "I want your cunt against mine."

She mounted me slowly, deliberately. Crawling between my legs, Carla lifted them high. My knees were back to my ears. I gasped as I felt her finger plunge deep into my ass. I squirmed and wanted more. Just then, another finger plunged deep into my snatch.

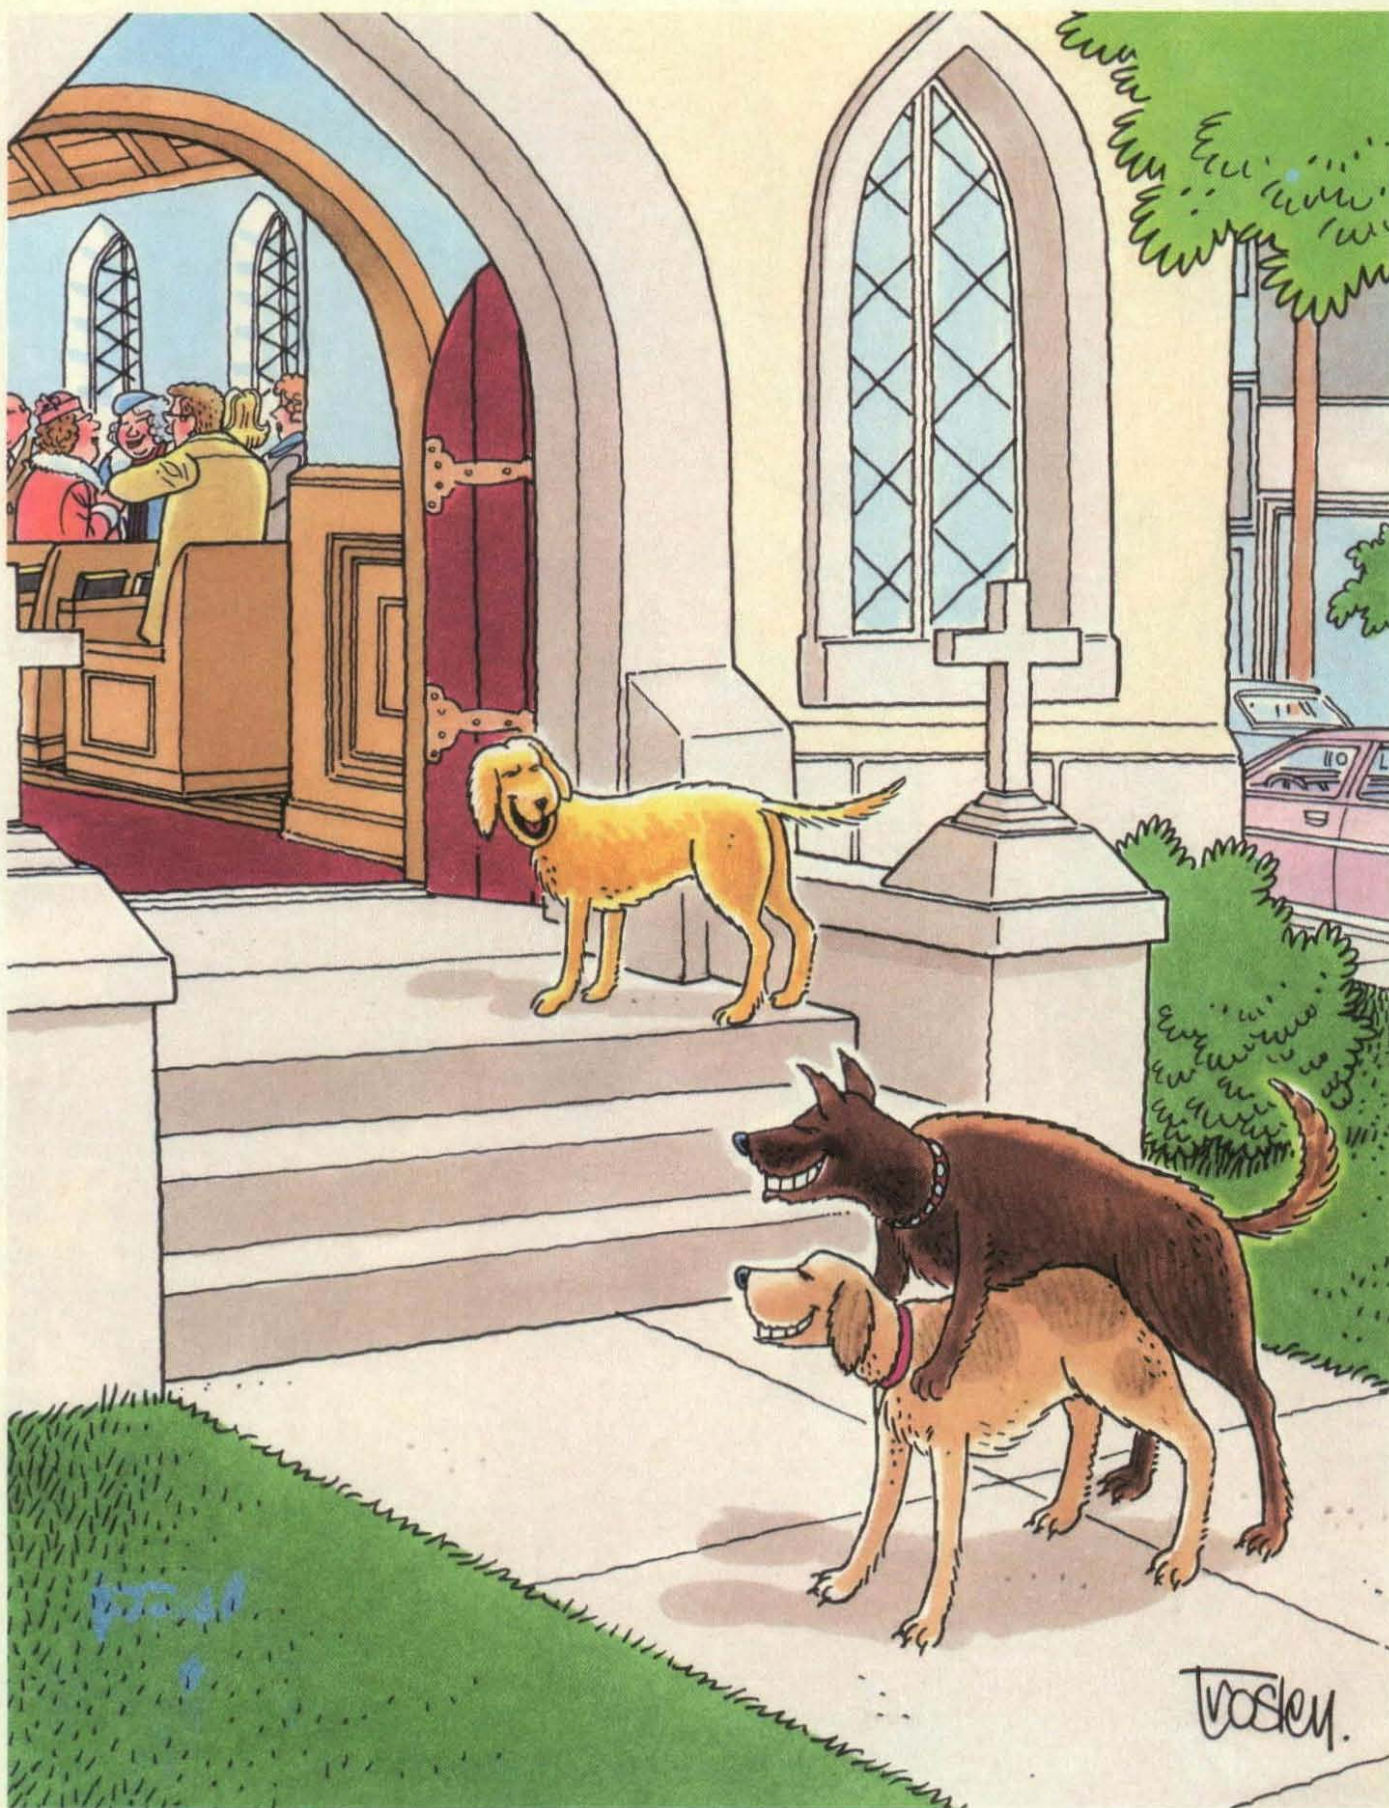

And then she fucked like no man ever could. She wrapped her legs round my crotch, grabbed hard on my hands, and pulled my body fast against hers. Our pussies finally kissed. Her big black shag smothered my rug, and her soaking wet trim slopped against mine. She rode my pussy like a bronco in heat, and our asses flapped to the raunchy tune. I slithered my finger into her cunt, and her girl-goo soaked my hand. Our clits met; our cunts made love. Her pussy was mine, and mine was hers.

Sex-Sick Shrinks

Report by Larry Wichman

Therapists are supposed to help solve problems, not create them. Increasingly, though, it appears that certain sex-sick shrinks employing their dicks as tools of therapy are turning vulnerable clients' bad dreams into living nightmares.

On April 4, 1984, middle-aged psychologist Dr. Lionel M. Lazowick hypnotized a 21-year-old female patient ("K.W.") who'd come to his Pleasanton, California, office seeking treatment for alcohol abuse. With the woman's husband in the waiting room, Lazowick placed his hand inside K.W.'s blouse and played with her breasts. Afterward, he instructed her to forget everything that had occurred during the visit.

About two weeks later, this time promising to help K.W. curtail her smoking habit, Lazowick hypnotized her and felt her up. Afterward, he asked for a kiss.

The following week, Lazowick told his hypnotized patient that women often fall in love with their therapists. He instructed her to concentrate on dreaming as he caressed her left thigh.

The only problem was that Lazowick had never fully hypnotized K.W. during any of their sessions. His feeble attempts at seduction made her feel increasingly uncomfortable. So uncomfortable, in fact, that she filed sexual-misconduct charges against him with the state Board of Medical Quality Assurance (BMQA). The board revoked Lazowick's license to practice psychology in the state of California.

SEX-SICK SHRINKS

Sexual misconduct by a therapist can have a devastating psychological effect on the patient.

Lazowick's is not an isolated case. It's estimated that one out of ten therapists become sexually involved with his or her patients. And although Lazowick's adolescent behavior seems comical, such sexual misconduct can have a devastating psychological effect upon the victim.

"These people become totally traumatized," says Deputy Attorney General Vivien Hara Hersh, who prosecuted the Lazowick case. "They've trusted the therapist with their most intimate secrets. To have him betray that trust by coming on sexually is about the most horrible thing imaginable. It's worse than being raped. It's like raping a child."

According to a study by Dr. Jacqueline Bouhoutsos, coauthor of Sexual Intimacy Between Therapists and Patients, victims are left with deep, emotional scars. "We found that afterward, 90% exhibited a serious inability to trust men—therapists in particular," she explains. "Eleven percent required hospitalization, and 1% attempted suicide."

The penalty given the therapist rarely fits the crime. In most states, criminal charges can't be filed unless the patient has been raped or assaulted; otherwise the only recourse is to file a complaint with the state examining board. The stiffest penalty imposed by the board is revocation of the therapist's license.

Yet, most sexually abused patients are so traumatized that they never step forward—and the 4% who do generally undergo years of therapy before they're able to discuss the events.

"I've got a case right now where the sexual abuse occurred ten years ago," says Hersh. "Afterward, the victim had a total mental breakdown. She's been in and out of institutions ever since."

Doctor Michael Cavanaugh, who lost his license two years ago after admitting to sexual relations with three nuns, may eventually be judged by a higher authority.

Cavanaugh held an associate professorship at USF, a Jesuit university in San Francisco. The nuns had been referred to him because of personal problems. While in therapy, each fell in love with him and willingly became his long-term mistresses.

These weren't naive, young novices fresh out of the convent. One was in her late 60s; another was 50; the third was 35. Cavanaugh fucked them all, though one allowed only anal penetration.

Cavanaugh wasn't content having normal intercourse. He had the nuns dress up in Frederick's of Hollywood lingerie. He fucked them with carrots and cucumbers, and he took photographs.

"The incident was very embarrassing for the university," recalls California Deputy Attorney General Alfredo Terrazas. "Of course, the women are going through their own crises. We're not talking about just physical or emotional harm. We're talking spiritual harm, because as nuns they had the repercussions from having broken their vows." According to Terrazas, the two older women have remained in the order while the youngest left to take a teaching position in a parochial school.

Cavanaugh's sexual scam was uncovered when the nuns, in group therapy, found out about each other. "The impetus for that complaint was not so much what had occurred," says Terrazas, "but that each had assumed she was the only one. There seemed to be more than a modicum of jealousy involved."

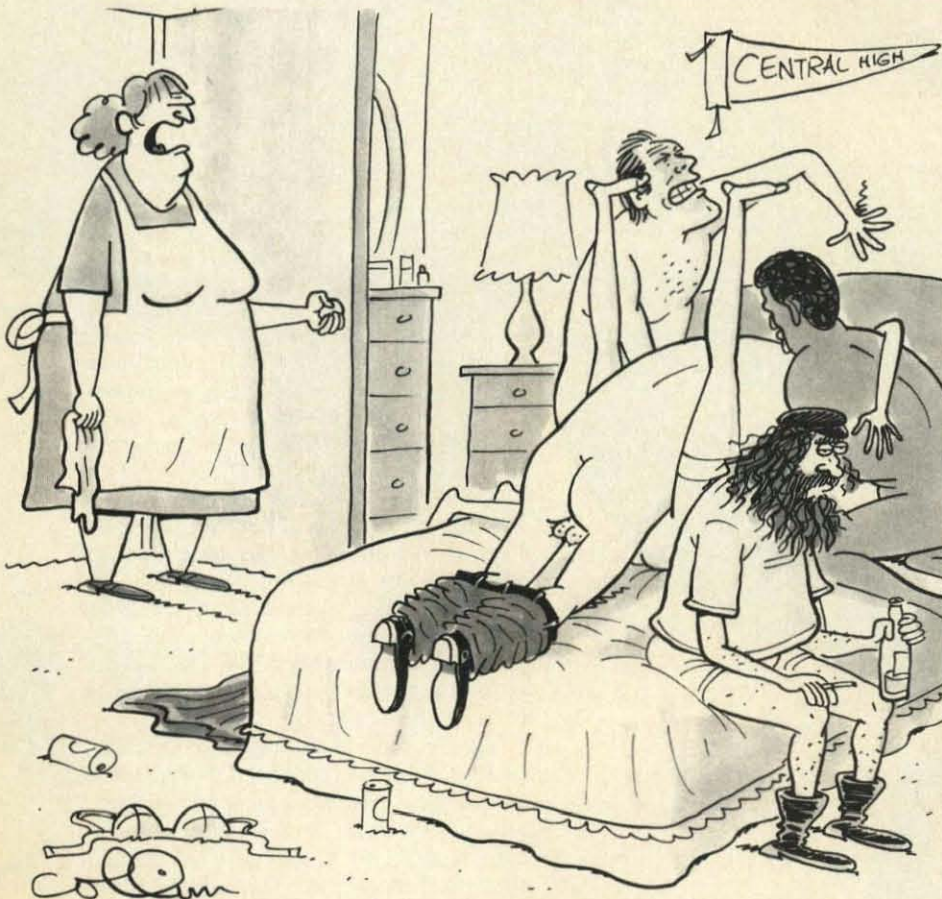

According to Deputy Attorney General Harriet Hirsch, who's prosecuted many sexual misconduct cases, it's not unusual for women—even nuns—to believe they've fallen in love with their therapists. "During the psychotherapy process, if it's successful, there's some development of a relationship, be it a love relationship, an adoring relationship or a mentoring relationship," she explains. "The patient can't be objective. She doesn't understand the process and what's happening to her. She's in it!"

It's very easy for a therapist to dupe his patient into having sex. "Who would not rather have this person they've fallen in love with as a lover and potential lifetime partner, than someone they have to walk away from?" adds Hirsch.

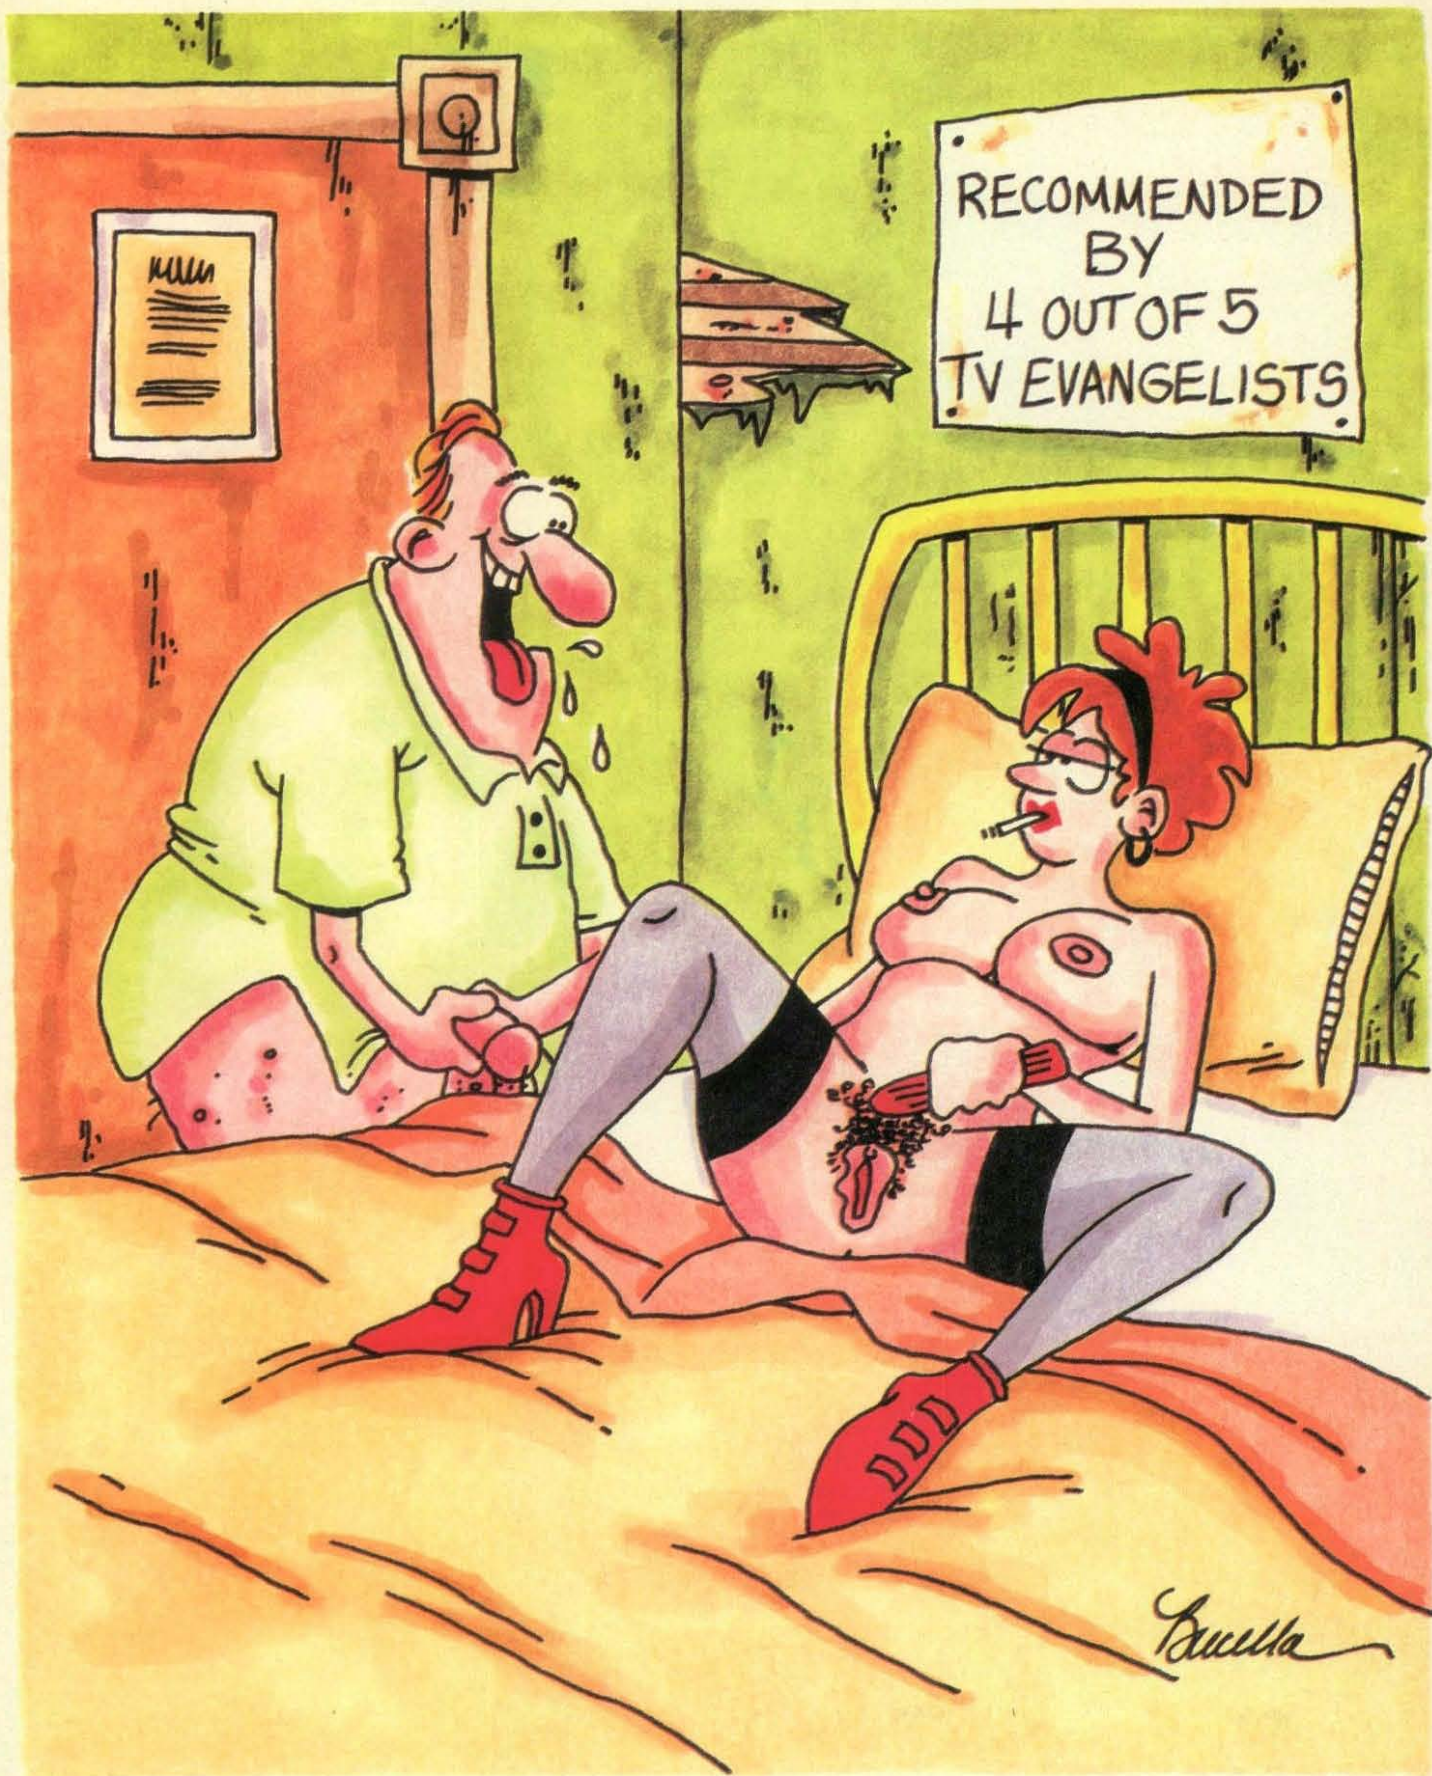

It can be a very tempting proposition for the therapist. Dr. Eugene Landy is perhaps best known for bringing vegged-out Beach Boy Brian Wilson back to reality. Landy's oft-maligned treatment of Wilson, in which he served as the musician's therapist, business manager and co-songwriter, is not the only alleged stain on his record. Landy also was accused of having had repeated sexual contact with a patient named "R.G."—to whom he also reportedly furnished cocaine and amyl nitrite.

Landy's alleged affair with R.G. began in February 1983, a month after he took

Although these sizzling shots might lead you to believe otherwise, lovely Dori insists that in her day-to-day life she is anything but a man tempter. "I absolutely do not believe in leading a guy on unless I'm genuinely interested in him," Dori declares. "I don't wear provocative clothing—in fact, just the opposite. I'm more of a loose jeans and baggy sweatshirt type."

But what happens when she meets a guy she is interested in? Dori's face lights up with a wicked smile, "That's different. Then anything goes. I once showed up at a boyfriend's house wearing nothing but a plain brown wrapper." Well done, Dori. There's nothing we like more than a girl who delivers when it counts.

Wilson on as a patient. At the time, Landy was working at a Beverly Hills clinic known as the Foundation for Rechanneling Emotions and Education (FREE), where R.G. was a patient.

During the following four months, Landy and R.G. allegedly tooted up and screwed up a storm. Their initial sexual contact came in late February after a group-therapy session at the clinic. According to court records, Landy gave R.G. cocaine, and R.G. gave him head. Later, he went down on her and, before leaving at 2 a.m., they had intercourse.

Things got kinkier on a Friday evening in March. Landy took his patient to a swingers orgy. Although they didn't fuck, Landy had R.G. suck his cock on two separate occasions during the party and then again as he was driving her home.

Later that month, the therapist allegedly masturbated in front of his patient. Then, on April 3, while at Landy's condo, the doctor had R.G. go back to giving him blowjobs, this time supplying amyl nitrite as well as cocaine.

R.G. finally stopped seeing Landy in May, after a Friday night therapy session at his home got out of hand. According to the complaint, that night he "forced R.G. to perform fellatio on him. Subsequently, he broke vials of amyl nitrite in his patient's face and again had her perform fellatio. Then, a little later he forced his penis down the throat of the patient against her will and had forced fellatio with her."

In March 1989, the California BMQA succeeded in getting Landy's license suspended. Though there were seven charges ranging from gross negligence to sexual misconduct with a patient, Landy admitted to only one: illegally prescribing drugs—in the Brian Wilson case.

Although California law allows the therapist to apply for reinstatement of his license after a period of one year, rarely are such requests granted—particularly in a case like Landy's. (In fact, the BMQA asked Landy not to apply for reinstatement of his license for two years.) Some first-time offenders do get their licenses back, but only after undergoing extensive psychotherapy and agreeing to be placed on probation for five to seven years.

Unfortunately, most shrinks never learn their lessons. Studies show 80% of all first-time offenders go on to repeat the crime again and again—in some cases, sexually abusing up to 100 patients.

"These are the ruthless exploiters of therapy," Bouhoutsos says. "It doesn't do any good to take their licenses away. They find loopholes in the law and continue to practice. They call themselves counselors or hypnotists. Or they buy a $10 license that says they're a member of the clergy. In California, the clergy are exempt from regulation!"

Like many of her peers, Bouhoutsos favors putting habitual abusers behind bars. However, only Minnesota, Wisconsin, Colorado and New Hampshire have passed laws making sexual misconduct by licensed and nonlicensed therapists a criminal offense.

Doctor Joseph Leggett is an alleged repeat offender. Leggett, who is married and in his 40s, faces three separate charges of sexual misconduct in Coeur D'Alene, Idaho. Each of the three patients was in her mid-20s and attractive. Each had a history of bad relationships with men.

The alleged abuse occurred between November '86 and November '87 while Leggett was on the staff at Coeur D'Alene's Pine Crest Hospital, a privately owned mental-health-care facility specializing in drug and alcohol abuse, family problems and eating disorders.

Leggett's first publicized sexual conquest was a gorgeous but fragile woman we'll call Alice, who came to him in November 1986 seeking treatment for bulimia. The woman had just gone through a devastating divorce. Her husband had been having an affair with a bimbo who didn't know he was married. Alice stumbled across the engagement announcement in the local paper. She entered Leggett's care very hurt and very vulnerable.

She was also very pretty—she'd been a beauty contestant in her teens—and Leggett was immediately smitten. He put her in the hospital for a week and began telling her that he couldn't control himself when around her. He reportedly fondled and kissed her during their visits.

However, as in all three cases, he didn't fuck Alice until she became an outpatient. The very afternoon she was released from the hospital, he showed up at her home, and they had intercourse.

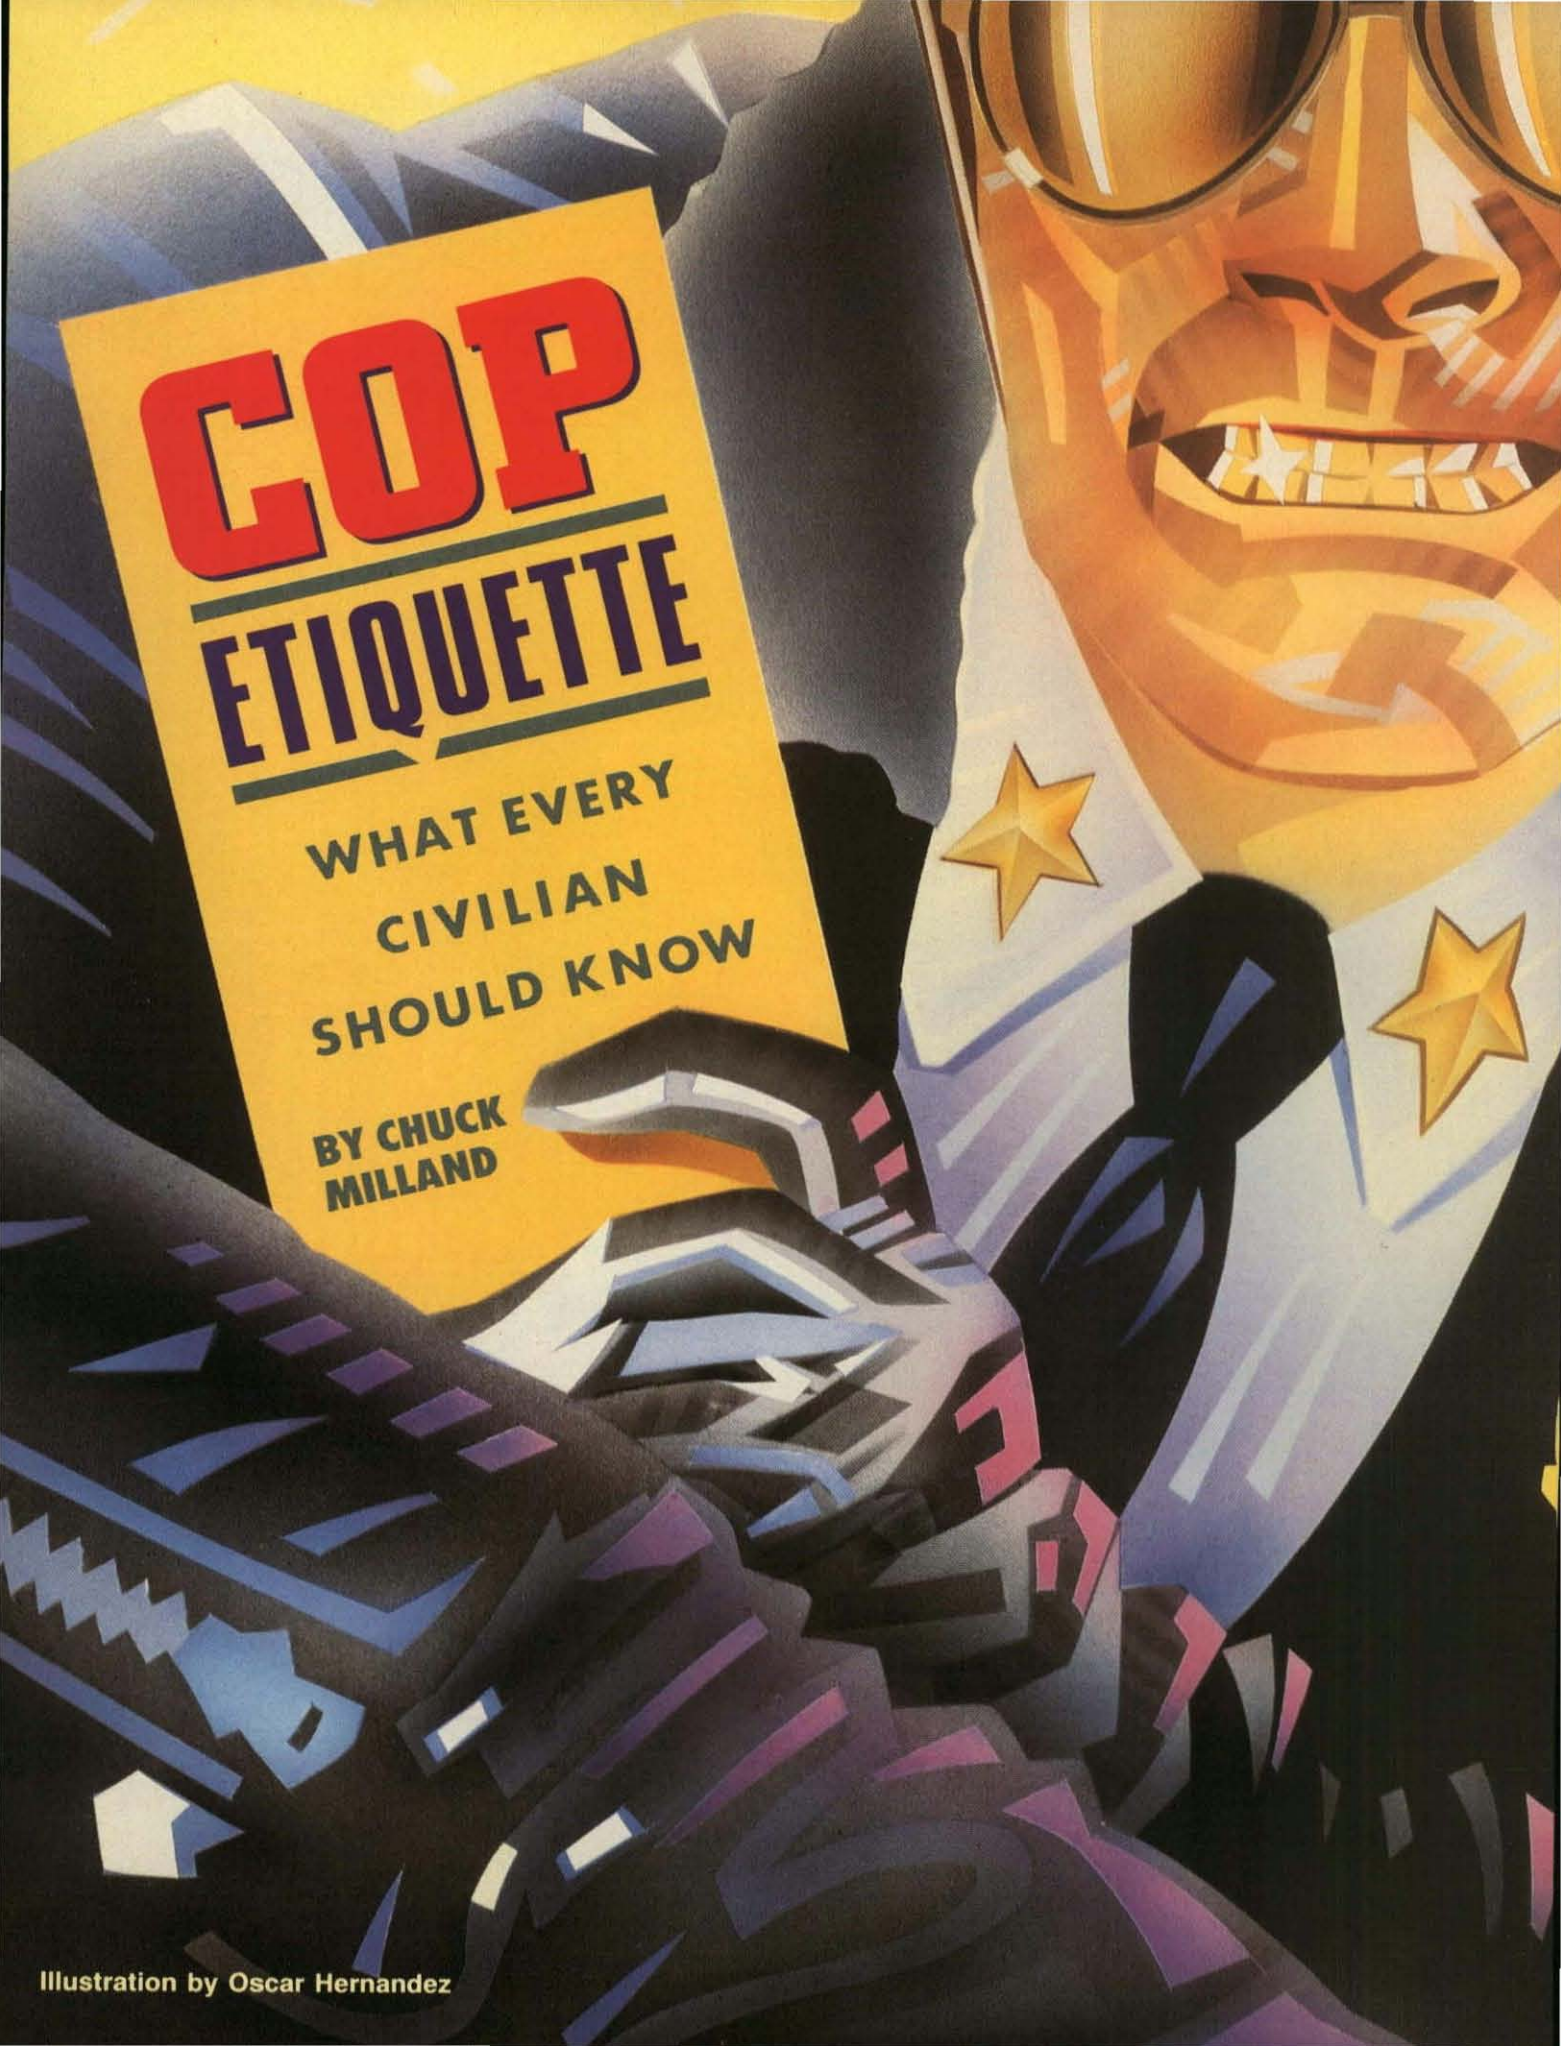

According to attorney Stanley Moore, who represented the three plaintiffs, their affair lasted two months. "He would come over from time to time to see her," he says. "They'd have sex, and then he would leave. Nothing kinky. He would stay an hour or so and be gone."

COP ETIQUETTE

WHAT EVERY CIVILIAN
SHOULD KNOW

BY CHUCK
MILLAND

"The cops don't need you, and, man, they expect the same," whined Bob Dylan. Unfortunately, everybody sooner or later ends up in the eye of the pig, which is why HUSTLER is presenting a veteran patrolman's primer on kissing cop ass.

The vast majority of civilians irritate the shit out of cops. Police experience things that most civilians only ever see on the TV screen—shootings, stabbings, holdups, fights, car chases, domestic disputes—so there's an element of contempt the regular guy has to overcome any time he deals with a law-enforcement officer. The guy in the uniform makes his living breaking up fights, rolling on the ground with bad asses, pulling people out of flaming car wrecks, shooting it out with dangerous felons, patrolling dark alleys at four in the morning and chasing drug dealers through housing projects. What the fuck do you do? Sell insurance?

Although cops also spend 90% of their time cruising in cars playing radio games with fellow blue boys and stopping for free donuts and coffee, nothing other than police work—with the possible exception of actual military combat—impresses cops as being of any real importance. Real danger, up close and personal, is an integral possibility of police work, and it's not the same kind of hazards faced by firemen, race-car drivers, ironworkers or others whose occupations involve some degree of risk. Accidents can and do happen to anyone, but the vast majority of police killed in the line of duty die because somebody made it happen. You get just as dead in a car crash, but there's a big difference between that and getting blasted by some guy who lined you up in his sights and pulled the trigger.

COP ETIQUETTE

If you startle a cop . . . he's liable to knock you on your ass and stick his gun in your ear.

Cops feel like their asses are literally on the line every day; they think that putting on the badge is like pinning a big target on their chests, urging the rest of the world, "Take your best shot!" And the vulnerable officer never knows who it's gonna be until after they've opened up on him. Every single day, a cop's main concern is getting through his tour of duty without being assassinated or crippled. Cops' views of their personal dangers make them disdainful of lesser matters such as a private citizen's dipshit problems or what a big-fucking-wheel businessman someone is in the kumquat industry.

Even some graybeard who's most threatening situation was spilling Winchell's coffee while pulling over a stop-sign violator will act like he's a mob hit target just because his simple authoritarian mind is programmed for paranoia. Keep this in mind. Never try to throw weight around with the boys in blue. Even someone with serious political clout had better not toss it around right away. A honcho on the governor's staff, until he's established credibility with the cop he's talking to, is just another piece of shit interrupting the protect-and-serve's tour of duty.

Is it possible to get things off on the right foot with cops? Whether approaching them to request assistance or to report an incident, or being approached by them for some reason, a few simple rules increase the odds that the encounter will be less unpleasant.

Some basics: 1. Never rush up on a policeman suddenly. Every officer out on the street is paranoid over the possibility of being attacked—like at least one of his buddies has been—by some wacko. If your approach startles him, everything's going to go downhill from there. He's liable to knock you on your ass and stick his gun in your ear instead of reacting calmly and looking for a weapon first like the training manual says to do. He certainly won't be inclined to help you out with anything, even though it's his mistake.

2. Keep your hands out of your pockets! Even in cold weather, cops like your hands out where they can see them. Remember, some assholes out there would like nothing better than to fuck up a policeman. Cops know this, and they get downright irritable with people they perceive as possible threats to their health. Who knows what you've got in your pocket? Make some officer suspect you've got a weapon in there, and he's going to find out for sure. Cops have blown away citizens holding bathrobes and TV remote controls that were mistaken for weapons. You'll get slammed onto a convenient wall or over the hood of his patrol car and frisked thoroughly. This could be an undignified position, and you might get your Burberry mussed.

3. If you want to catch a cop's attention, just call out, "Hello, Officer!" Don't whistle or holler, "Hey, you!" In the words of one grizzled veteran: "I ain't your fuckin' dog, and I'm not just some shithead you can yell at any way you want. I'm a police officer, and that's what you call me until I tell you different. You want me, you call me right; otherwise call a fuckin' cab!" This mock "serve and protect" attitude stems from total amnesia about paychecks being drawn against taxpayers' dollars.

4. If you should happen to be approached by a police officer, pay attention to whatever he might say or do, and follow directions, particularly if he has his sidearm displayed. This is a sure sign that something bad has happened, is happening or is about to happen. Maybe the cop wants you out of harm's way. If he motions or tells you to stop and go back, stop and go the hell back! Don't argue or ask questions, just fucking do it!

"Most people out there are just brain dead," says another veteran cop functioning on full brainpower. "You tell 'em to do something, and it just doesn't register. They either ignore you, or they want to ask you a million questions: 'Why do you have your gun out? Why should I go back? What are you going to do?' Or, they want to give you a lot of lip: 'What're you stopping me for? What'd I do? You can't tell me what to do! I use to try 'n' explain things to 'em, but now I just knock 'em down and do whatever I gotta do. Saves a lot of time.'"

So much for the ground rules. Now, after making the proper approach, or responding properly to the officer's approach, it helps to look respectable. First impressions are important, and a three-piece suit somehow commands more police respect than a T-shirt and jeans. In at least one situation, this was all that saved a civilian's life.

"I had this bar on my post that had a pretty good record on holdup alarms," relates an officer. "I couldn't remember a time their robbery alarm went off that was accidental. So when I got a call one night that they had a holdup alarm going off, I punched the lights and siren and got there in about 30 seconds. As my backup ar-

COMBINATION

Photography by Clive McLean

The high point of our recent excursion to Canada was the HUSTLER Talent Search and Canadian Duo Championships. Gorgeous gals of all shapes and sizes teamed up to flex their erotic muscles onstage at Sal and Sam Bitoni's Peepers club in Calgary. The competition was stiff (as was the audience), but the dynamic duo of Stacy Donovan and Isha emerged victorious. As part of their reward, the lucky ladies won the opportunity to display their winning assets to HUSTLER readers. From the frozen North to the beaches of Cabo San Lucas, these fabulous femmes certainly travel well.

"I swear I would've put about three bullets into him, only he was wearing a suit and tie."

rived, I stormed into the place and roared. 'Everybody freeze!' Everyone froze except one guy near the front, a tough-looking dude with dark glasses. He reached into his inside coat pocket, almost like he was going for a gun. I had my service revolver out and pointed at him, and I swear I would've put about three bullets into him, only he was wearing a suit and tie. Holdup guys just don't dress up like that. I would've blown his ass off right there, and I think I would've been justified—after all, it was a holdup call from a joint with no false alarms. This guy didn't freeze like everybody else and did reach like he was going for a piece—but I held back because of the way he was dressed. I gave him another second or two, and he came out with his wallet. It was a false alarm, accidentally set off for the first time, and the guy was just half crooked and didn't realize what was going on. I had the shakes for ten minutes afterward!"

Grooming is also an element here: Cops tend to respond more favorably to clean-shaven guys with short hair than to long-haired characters with scraggly beards and earrings. That's because, believe it or not, criminals and lesser troublemakers tend more toward the dirtball end of the personal-hygiene spectrum than to the squeaky-clean side. The police don't really care how often you shave or how long you let your hair grow or what jewelry accessories you regard as chic. They're just as prejudiced as the next middle-class guy. Cops lacking imagination or any sense of individuality just wonder: If you're not a hoodlum or a space cadet, why would you look like one? If you look like a duck and quack like a duck, you probably are a fucking duck. If you're hairy, puckered and smell like shit, you're probably an asshole, and that's the way they'll relate to you unless and until they receive some evidence to the contrary.

This doesn't mean the cops'll give you the bum's rush just because you happen to look a bit scruffy (ever see a cop on his day off?); it just means you'll have to work a bit harder to overcome your ratty appearance. You never know when a cop with his gun drawn will bust into your life and mistake you for a shitball.

If you're somehow related to a cop, this is a positive factor. Mention it to the officer you're dealing with. This lets him know you're part of the police "family" and therefore entitled to consideration different from the ordinary citizen, even well-dressed ones. The same is not true of cop buddies you may have. Pals don't earn automatic points like a blood relationship does. Mention friends after the initial stage of the encounter as an incidental question. ("Say, by the way, do you know my friend Officer So-and-so? Yeah? We bowl on the same team every Tuesday.")

Always try to be calm, courteous and respectful; these are civilian traits valued above all others by cops. "In emergency situations," a patrol sergeant observes, "most civilians come completely unglued. They scream and carry on about all sorts of things that have absolutely nothing to do with whatever crisis occurred. That means I waste critical time trying to calm 'em down and find out what happened. It'd be a whole lot better to just give me a summary in 25 words or less, and let me ask questions from there."

So, if your kid zaps the cat in the microwave and blasts the kitchen with flaming kitty shit, and your house is now burning down, when you run down the street and find a cop, just tell him your home is on fire and give him your address. Don't go on about how simple the little bastard has acted since the day he was born, or about how wet the cat gets the sofa if she isn't dried off after her bubble bath! All the officer wants to know is your immediate problem. Just exactly why are you bothering him? After all, he may have just sunk his teeth into a glazed twist, but a house on fire is certainly a good reason! He'll be delighted to call the fire department on his radio. (Cops love to drag firemen out of their warm bunks and away from their cozy stationhouses and into the unquestionable danger of fighting a fire.) You can get into all that background bullshit later.

Courtesy and respect are self-explanatory matters of common sense. Most of us tend to treat people the same way they treat us, and not all cops are exceptions to that general rule. It doesn't cost anything to address an officer by his title and to throw a "sir" (or "ma'am" if you've got a lady cop) into the conversation here and there. Kissing ass pays dividends.

But don't be sarcastic or condescending. You may not like cops, and you might think they're all a bunch of dimwitted clods, but don't get smart or talk down to them no matter how right you are. That only generates resentment. "What goes around comes around," says one lieutenant with 17 years on the job. "You fuck with me, you can be damned sure I'm gonna fuck all over you. And I guaran-fuckin'-tee I'm better at that than anybody. Fucking over people was invented by cops!"

Also, avoid giving cops orders. Only higher-ranking cops do that. You can tell your lawyer how to handle your case; you can tell your doctor where to make your vasectomy incision; don't tell a cop how to do his job. It may not seem complicated, but there's a lot more to it than most civilians realize. There are usually good reasons for cops doing things the way they do. If you wonder about something, ask a question. If you think something should be done differently, offer a suggestion. But don't think that just because you watch all the cop shows on TV that you know how to do the job. Remember, that stuff's make-believe; police like to think they operate in the real world.

Try not to bother an officer with something that's not really a police matter. This is one of the most frequent complaints voiced by cops about civilians. If you lock your keys in your car, call a locksmith, not a police officer. If you're having problems with your landlord, that's something to discuss with your lawyer, not your local beat cop. Don't waste his time with complaints he can't do anything about.

The most important tip: Don't ever argue with cops, especially not on the street. No one ever really wins a street argument with a cop. You may be absolutely right, and the officer may be absolutely wrong, but if you become vociferous, the cop will advise you that you're acting in a "disorderly" manner. His next move will be to lock your ass up.

If you've been stopped for a traffic violation or a routine check, bear with it and make a complaint to the police department later if you have an objection. Shouting it out with the officer right then and there will only result in your getting a citation or being arrested—or both. Cops have very strong feelings about this. "Out there on the street," says a typically insecure officer, "I've got to be the boss. I can't tolerate any challenge to my authority. If I let even one asshole get over on me, they'll be trying all the time. And if not me, they'll just try some other officer. We simply can't have that. None of us would be safe, and we wouldn't be able to control anything. We've got too many assholes to contend with, and we can't give 'em an inch."

Virtually every cop interviewed stressed the importance of common courtesy and simple respect, on the part of noncops at least, and they all agreed that even if a citizen defied all other conventions, cops will respond positively to the fundamental elements of human relations: courtesy and respect.

Keep all this in mind the next time you interact with your "friendly" local police and you're bound to have a less harrowing experience.

THE UNOFFICIAL COP CODE OF CONDUCT FOR DEALING WITH CIVILIANS

Cops generally follow these enlightened unwritten rules in dealing with the public. Here's what they mean to you:

1. DON'T TAKE ANY SHIT. If I let you fuck around with me, you'll think you can get away with it some other time, with some other cop too. No way. I'll bust your fucking chops first.
2. DON'T GET MAD, GET EVEN. What goes around comes around. If I do have to take some shit from you, you can bet your ass I'll save it and shove it down your fucking throat some other time, some other place.
3. ACCOMPLISH THE MISSION. Do the fucking job, no matter what. I've got orders, and I'm gonna carry 'em out whether you like it or not. If you get in my way, I'll take you like Grant took Richmond.
4. DEMAND COURTESY. Show some respect for me, my department, our country and our flag. We'll get along fine, and I'll give you respect in return. Otherwise, see No. 1.
5. REQUIRE COOPERATION. Whether you like me or not, I'm doing a job that you need to have done. Sometimes it's a tough, dirty job, and I need all the help I can get. I expect your cooperation, and you're gonna give it to me. One way or another. See No. 3.
6. DON'T WASTE TIME. I follow orders and do what I'm told, as long as it's not patently unlawful, and even then sometimes. You got a problem with what I'm doing, talk to the brass, the legislators or the judges, not me. I haven't got time to explain the world to you. I don't make the laws; I just enforce 'em the best I can. If that's a problem, see all of the above.
7. SUPPORT YOUR FELLOW COPS. They're the only ones who understand what we're up against, and I can count on them to save my ass when push comes to shove.

DIANA:

BACK IN THE SADDLE

To tell the truth, Diana isn't really a cowgirl, although she can certainly dress the part. But she has been known to get a bit saddle sore, especially after a vigorous bareback workout with some lucky bronc-buster. "I've always had a thing for outdoorsy types," she admits. "Nothing gets me hotter than making love in the wilderness. The cool air on your body, soft pine needles underneath, it's all such a turn on... plus, there's no fighting about who sleeps on the wet spot." A fan of alfresco fucking and she looks good in chaps—what more could any man ask for?

HUSTLER'S HONEY • AUGUST 1989

HUSTLER HUMOR

A group of wives were sitting in a bar, discussing their pet names for their ol' men's cocks. "I call my ol' man's cock 'The Curtain,'" laughed the first wife, "because it comes down at the end of each performance."

"I call my ol' man's dick 'The Basque Terrorist,' added the second wife, "because I never know whether it will attack from the front or the rear."

The third wife shrugged. "Myself, I call my ol' man's dong 'The Rumor.'"

"Why's that?" the others asked.

"Because it passes swiftly from mouth to mouth."

Two lawyers were talking shop over martinis one day. "How's your case load been lately?" asked one of the shysters.

"Not bad. In fact, I just got a new client last week," replied the other.

"Is he rich?"

"He was," came the reply.

Did you hear about the Jewish golf course? Instead of "Fore!" they yell, "$3.99!"

There was once a Texas zookeeper who had a dislike for elephants. Realizing it was caused by a phobia, he called on a psychiatrist, who told him it was a common problem. "The cure is straightforward," the doctor advised. "Go to Africa and shoot one."

The idea sounded great to the Texan, so he flew to Kenya and hired a guide to take him on an elephant-hunting safari. The hunter's right-hand man turned out to be a native, who in turn hired a bunch of his tribesmen to spread out in a long line, beat drums and blow horns, driving the elephants toward the blind where the hunters were waiting.

As they waited, the noise grew louder and louder until out of the bush, with much hollering, burst the head beater. The Texan drew a bead and shot him right between the eyes. "What the hell'd you do that for?" bellowed the guide. "He's my best beater! I've worked with him for 20 years!"

"If there's anything I hate worse than elephants," drawled the Texan, "it's big, noisy niggers."

Down in mountain country they were trying a rape case. The victim was on the stand. "Now, young lady," the prosecutor began, "please tell the court in your own words about your experience. First, can you identify the men?"

"That's the one," the girl said shyly as she pointed to the accused.

"And when did this attack occur?"

"As I remember, it was last June, July and August."

Question: What do you call an enema in San Francisco?
Answer: Instant pudding.

A wife sat up in bed and asked her husband, "Why don't you ever go down on me?"

"I don't know," he said with his back to her. "I just don't want to."

"Is it because you think my pussy isn't clean enough?" she demanded, pulling on his arm to make him face her.

"What do you want now?" he asked.

"Herb, are you deaf?"

"I'm sorry, honey," her husband replied, swatting the air. "The flies are buzzing so loudly I can't hear you."

Two black guys found themselves in a little motel in Mississippi with a long night ahead and nothing to do but be loved. "Why don't we call the front desk?" asked one, "and have them send us up a couple of white girls?"

"Are you crazy?" said his pal. "Ask for white girls in Mississippi?"

"Why not?" said the first. "I'm just figuring on making love to them. I don't plan to go to school with them!"

A pastor of a church was speaking a few words on proper conduct to the Sunday school class. "Willie," he said to a model little boy in the front row, "do you know where little boys and girls go when they do bad things?"

"Sure," Willie said, "back of the churchyard."

Question: What's 14 inches long and completely filled with maggots?

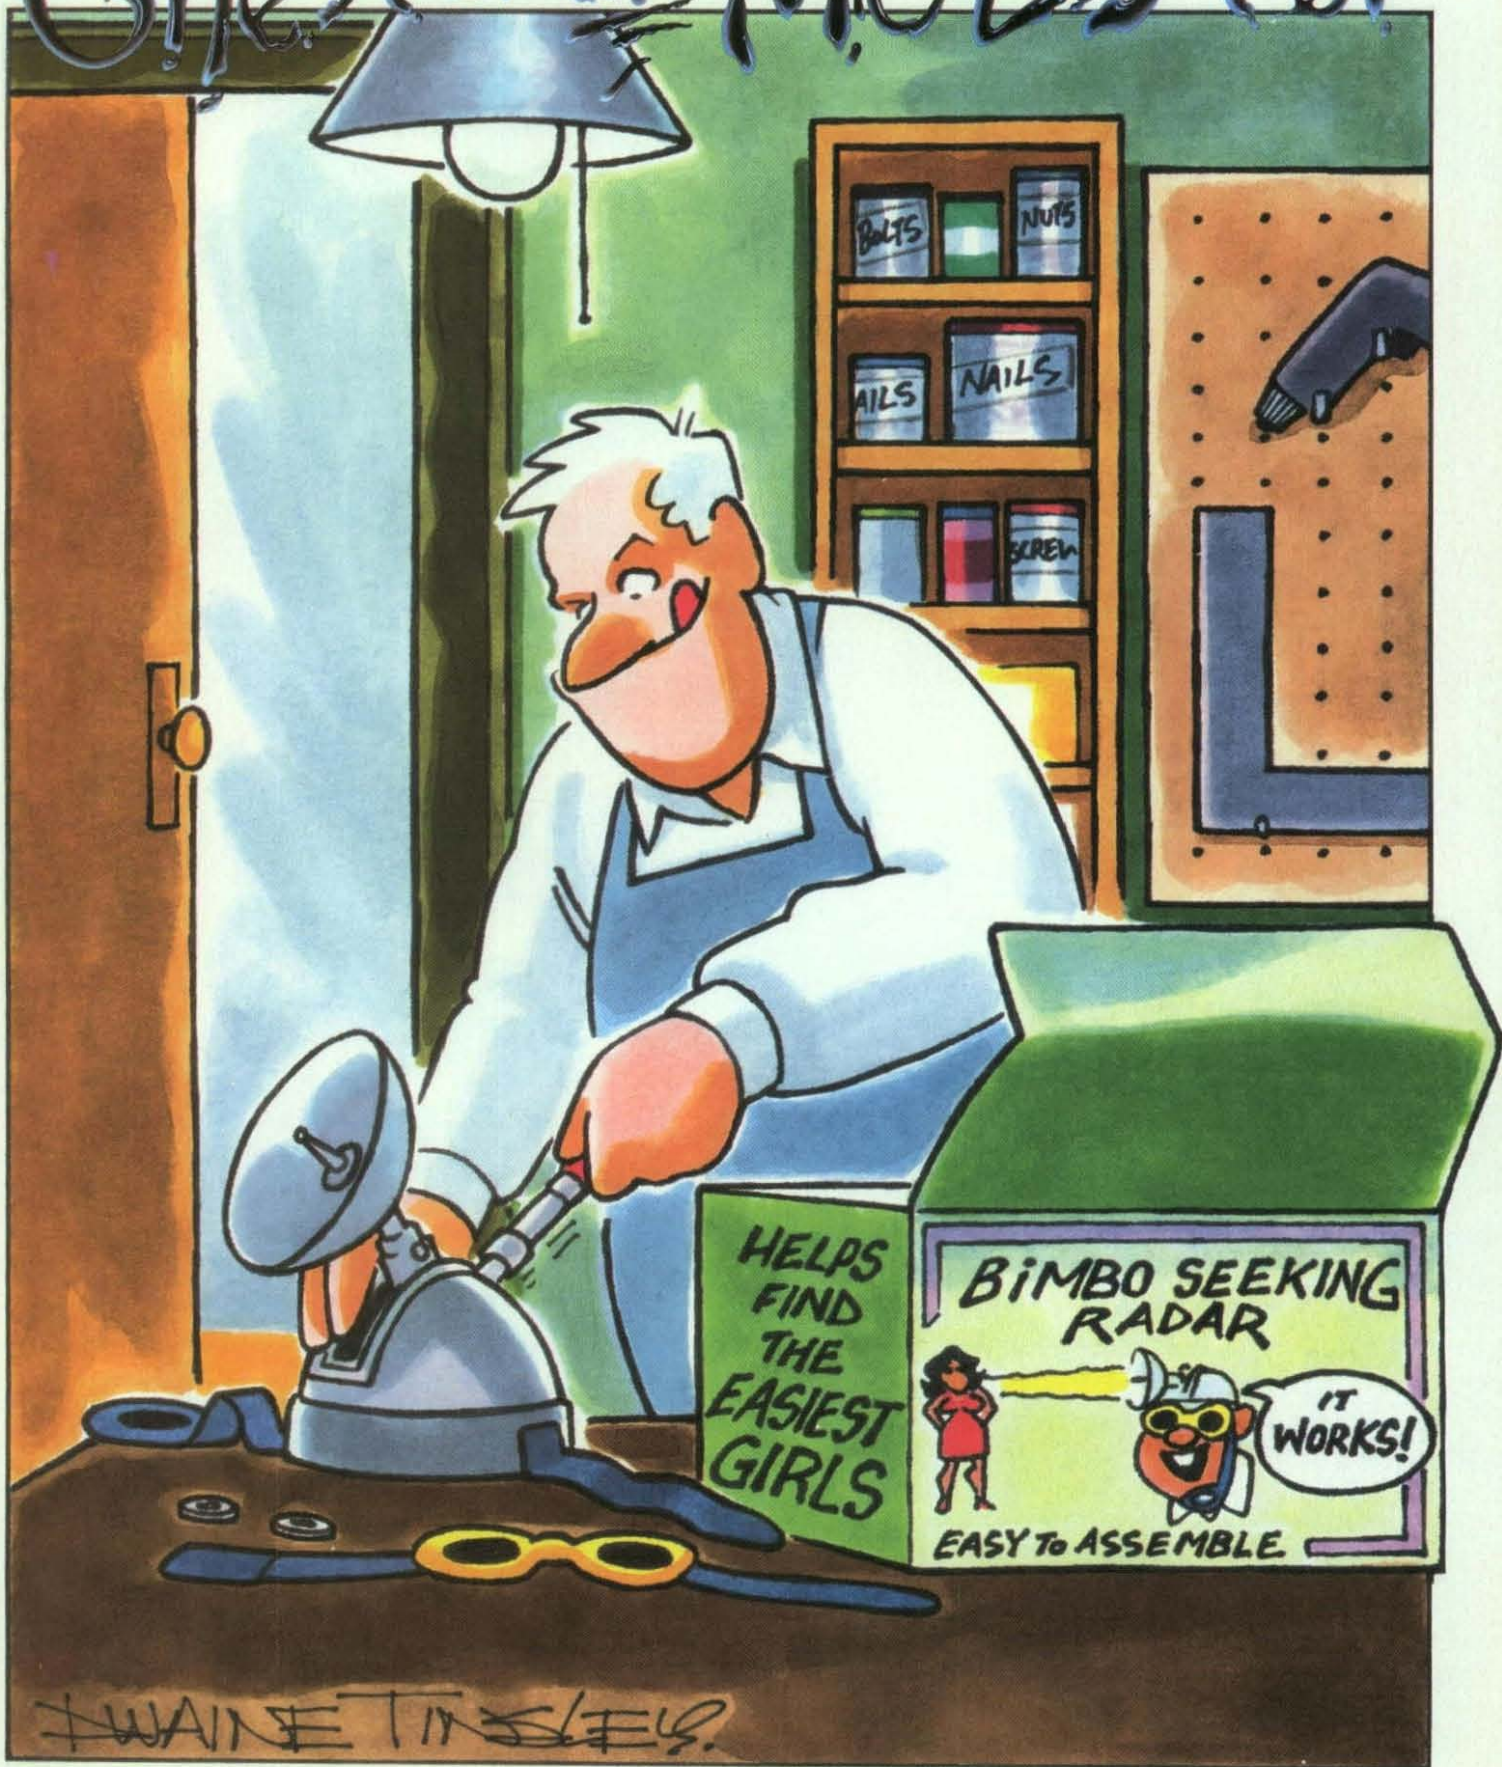

Answer: John Holmes's dick!

An old man went in for a physical. The M.D. told him the results. "You're certainly not as young as you once were, and you need to slow down. You don't smoke or drink, so that's out. How about giving up, say, half your sex life?"

"Okay, doctor," he agreed, "but which half do you suggest I give up—the thinking or the talking?"

Chester the Molester

THE CHAIR

by Ted Newsom

The eyes told Debra just how dangerous he was. Red-rimmed, tar-black eyes stared out of dual pools of yellow. She fought the urge to scream, but he loomed closer. She saw the ominous bulge in his overalls pointing directly at her. His thick black fingers wrapped around the cell bars. Then he screamed, and screamed again.

Moke Hennesey's billy club slammed down a third time on the convict's fingers. The hulking con raised his mangled hand to strike, but even curling his broken fingers was agony.

"These ain't angels, baby, these are Death Row cons," said Hennesey, pulling her to the center of the hallway.

The caged man slunk away from the cell door. "I kill you, I get the chance, muthafucka!" he growled. "I get my lawyer on you ass for assaulted battery, you come near me with that fuckin' stick 'gain!"

Hennesey laughed. "Fuck you, faggot. You ain't gonna do nothin' except get your nappy hair curled permanent!"

Debra Berkoff straightened her bulky-knit sweater and smoothed her demure plaid skirt. Hennesey thought she looked like an average Catholic schoolgirl, and he liked the idea. The heavy sweater didn't entirely disguise her full breasts or trim waist. Her round-rim glasses gave her a college student air. Hennesey'd had a few college students in his time. He liked that too. Whatever his reservations about having a woman visit Death Row at night—unofficially, yet—were put aside by the temptation of having this one close enough to smell.

"They can still charge you with assault, can't they?" she asked. "You've probably broken his hands."

"They could, but they won't," said Hennesey, smiling confidently. "We do our job in here, so we can get away with stuff sometimes. Like slipping reporters in without the warden's permission."

Debra caught his sneaky smile and returned it with a small one.

"Look, Ms. Berkoff—"

"You can call me Debra if it'll make you feel more comfortable."

"Okay, Debra. I'm not a rotten guy. Working in this place would make anybody hard. When I started here, they called me 'Moke' because I was just like an average moke off the street. Five years of dealing with these fucked-up bastards and I... well, I sound a little hard-assed."

Debra tried to read him. That sun-browned face belonged on the range in Wyoming, or driving trucks through Arkansas, not pent up in a state prison, overseeing human wreckage.

"Anyway, they used to call me Moke. After my first year they stopped, because I was... different. This place..." He shook his head. "I'd been a security cop over at State University for a couple years. Campus police. Bullshit job. It was okay, but frustrating. Snot-nosed little brats who had every chance I never got, and they'd look at me like I still had cow pies on my boots. I hated that."

She assumed the role of objective reporter again. "Do you feel it's right? Capital punishment? Do you feel it's legalized murder?"

Hennesey hesitated. "I'm not God, so I don't know it all," he said cautiously. "I'm not judge or jury. The law found all these monkeys guilty, not me."

"This joker, for instance," he said, pointing to the nearest cell. Inside, lying on the bunk was a balding, weasel-faced man. "Thomason killed his wife with a metal baseball bat, one of those blue shiny ones. She was a drunken tramp, so you could almost forgive that. But then he keeps going and kills his little girl. She was about three, and the fucker stomped her head in with his boots. You tell me what to do with somebody like that. I don't consider it murder. I'd call it... pruning."

Debra looked away from the weasel man in the cell. Hennesey could tell he was getting to her. The time for the flask of Johnny Walker in his trouser pocket would be coming soon.

"Let me show you what you came here to see." He unlocked the door to the execution chamber and led her inside. Once inside, he fastened the latch and walked her down the short hallway, through the swinging door and into the chamber.

In the center of the cement floor sat a straight-backed wooden chair with a metal skullcap hovering over the head position like a street lamp. Long leather straps dropped over the arms and hung from the chair back, shorter ones hung from the front legs. A simple thick wire snaked from the chair to the back of the room to a switch box that was curtained off. Two rows of bare wooden benches faced the death chair.

Debra sat down on the nearest bench to think about the device. "It's so... ugly."

Hennesey snorted. "Yeah, well, it's not built for comfort, is it? This sucker's probably 65, 70 years old. I dunno. Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray got it here back in 1929 or so. One of your newspaper ancestors sneaked a camera in, strapped to his leg, and got a picture of Ruth while she was jumpin'."

"It's chancy, knowing how much'll kill somebody. A couple of jolts will usually do the trick, but you never know. In the '50s, the Rosenbergs, that Jew couple who were Commie spies? Took six or seven hits for the husband to finally die. Some are tougher than others. It's not the voltage, you know," he offered helpfully. "It's the wattage."

Debra walked to the chair, remaining at arm's length. The outer dome of the curved, metal skullcap was polished; she wondered whether the concave interior was equally shiny—or darkened like the bottom of a copper pot. She stepped closer and allowed herself to touch the edge of the chair arm. There were small, narrow cuts in the wood.

"Fingernail scratches?" she asked.

Hennesey was leaning against the first-row pew with his arms crossed, his eyes glued to Debra's desirable ass. She repeated the question without turning to face him, and he answered without removing his gaze from her butt.

"Yeah, probably. They get nervous when they sit there, no matter how hard-ass fearless they were out on the Row."

THE CHAIR

He stared up her dress, breathing slowly to savor the musk coming from her half-hidden cunt.

"So when you turn on the current—"

He walked past her to stand behind the chair, his chin just above the top of the electric chair's skullcap. "You mean do they grab the chair and dig in, is that it? Brace themselves? Before they get it, maybe. Once you hit the switch, they don't do much except jerk." He half smiled. "All that electricity overrides whatever little messages their stupid brains send out. They shit and piss too. Can't help it. That's something you should put in your story."

"The burning smells funky too. It's not a big stink, just... like cooking meat. And it's like if you singe your hair. An acid smell." Hennesey shrugged. "It's not flashy, no snap-crackle-pop, no lighting up like a Christmas tree. The lights don't dim like in old prison movies. Jeez, we got better circuitry than that, for Chris-sakes. There's this buzz, and they just... vibrate."

Debra turned around and sat in the death chair, dropping her notebook to the cement floor. The straps were still unfastened and the skullcap several inches above her head, but she could feel the fear and bottomless dread that those had felt who had sat there before.

"We put the mask over their heads," Hennesey said as he twisted the small wheel on the back of the chair. "That gives the creeps a little dignity; not that they deserve it." The gear squeaked as the metal half globe inched down to cover Debra's scalp. "But the mask also means you don't see their faces. I stand behind the curtain there when I pull the switch. It's like, anonymous, y' know? Like in a firing squad, they slip one of the guys a blank, and won't say who."

Debra felt her spine tingle. And her pussy. There was something monstrous and powerful about this simple, ugly hunk of furniture.

He figured this woman was maybe 5-7, but she looked smaller in the chair. He'd only seen men sit there, eight men in five years, and their bodies fit better. This woman—a high-class bitch, a professional, probably a real cunt—looked way too small, like a kid in a grown-up's chair. A helpless kid. Hennesey grinned.

"Me, I'd just as soon look 'em in the eyes when they get what's comin' to 'em," said Hennesey. "Butchers. They treated people like pieces of meat. You never should forget what these scumdogs did to get them in here. Better living through electricity, I say."

He walked around the front of the chair. His uniformed crotch was directly at Debra's eye line. She watched the bulge grow; he watched her chest.

"Strap me in," she said. "I want to feel what it's like."

"What what's like?"

"To be strapped in."

Hennesey glanced nervously at the door. It was locked, he knew. And he'd made sure the other guards had gotten the evening off or were reassigned off the Row. Even if someone yelled, the sound-proofing would muffle the cry; what little sound might escape would only be heard by the scum in their Death Row cages.

This woman was kinky. Hennesey liked that. "Just the arms," he said, pulling the leather straps up and looping them through the right-arm buckle.

"The legs," she said. "Do my legs."

Hennesey saw her eyes, wide and daring. Rather than obey her request, he pulled the chest strap around and laced it. His big hands brushed the sensitive underside of her full breasts. Her lips parted, and he felt the warm breath moving between her coral-colored lips.

He kneeled and pulled the ankle strap around her well-shaped right leg. The rough leather tugged her nylons as he slowly tightened the strap and inserted the clamp through the belt-buckle hole.

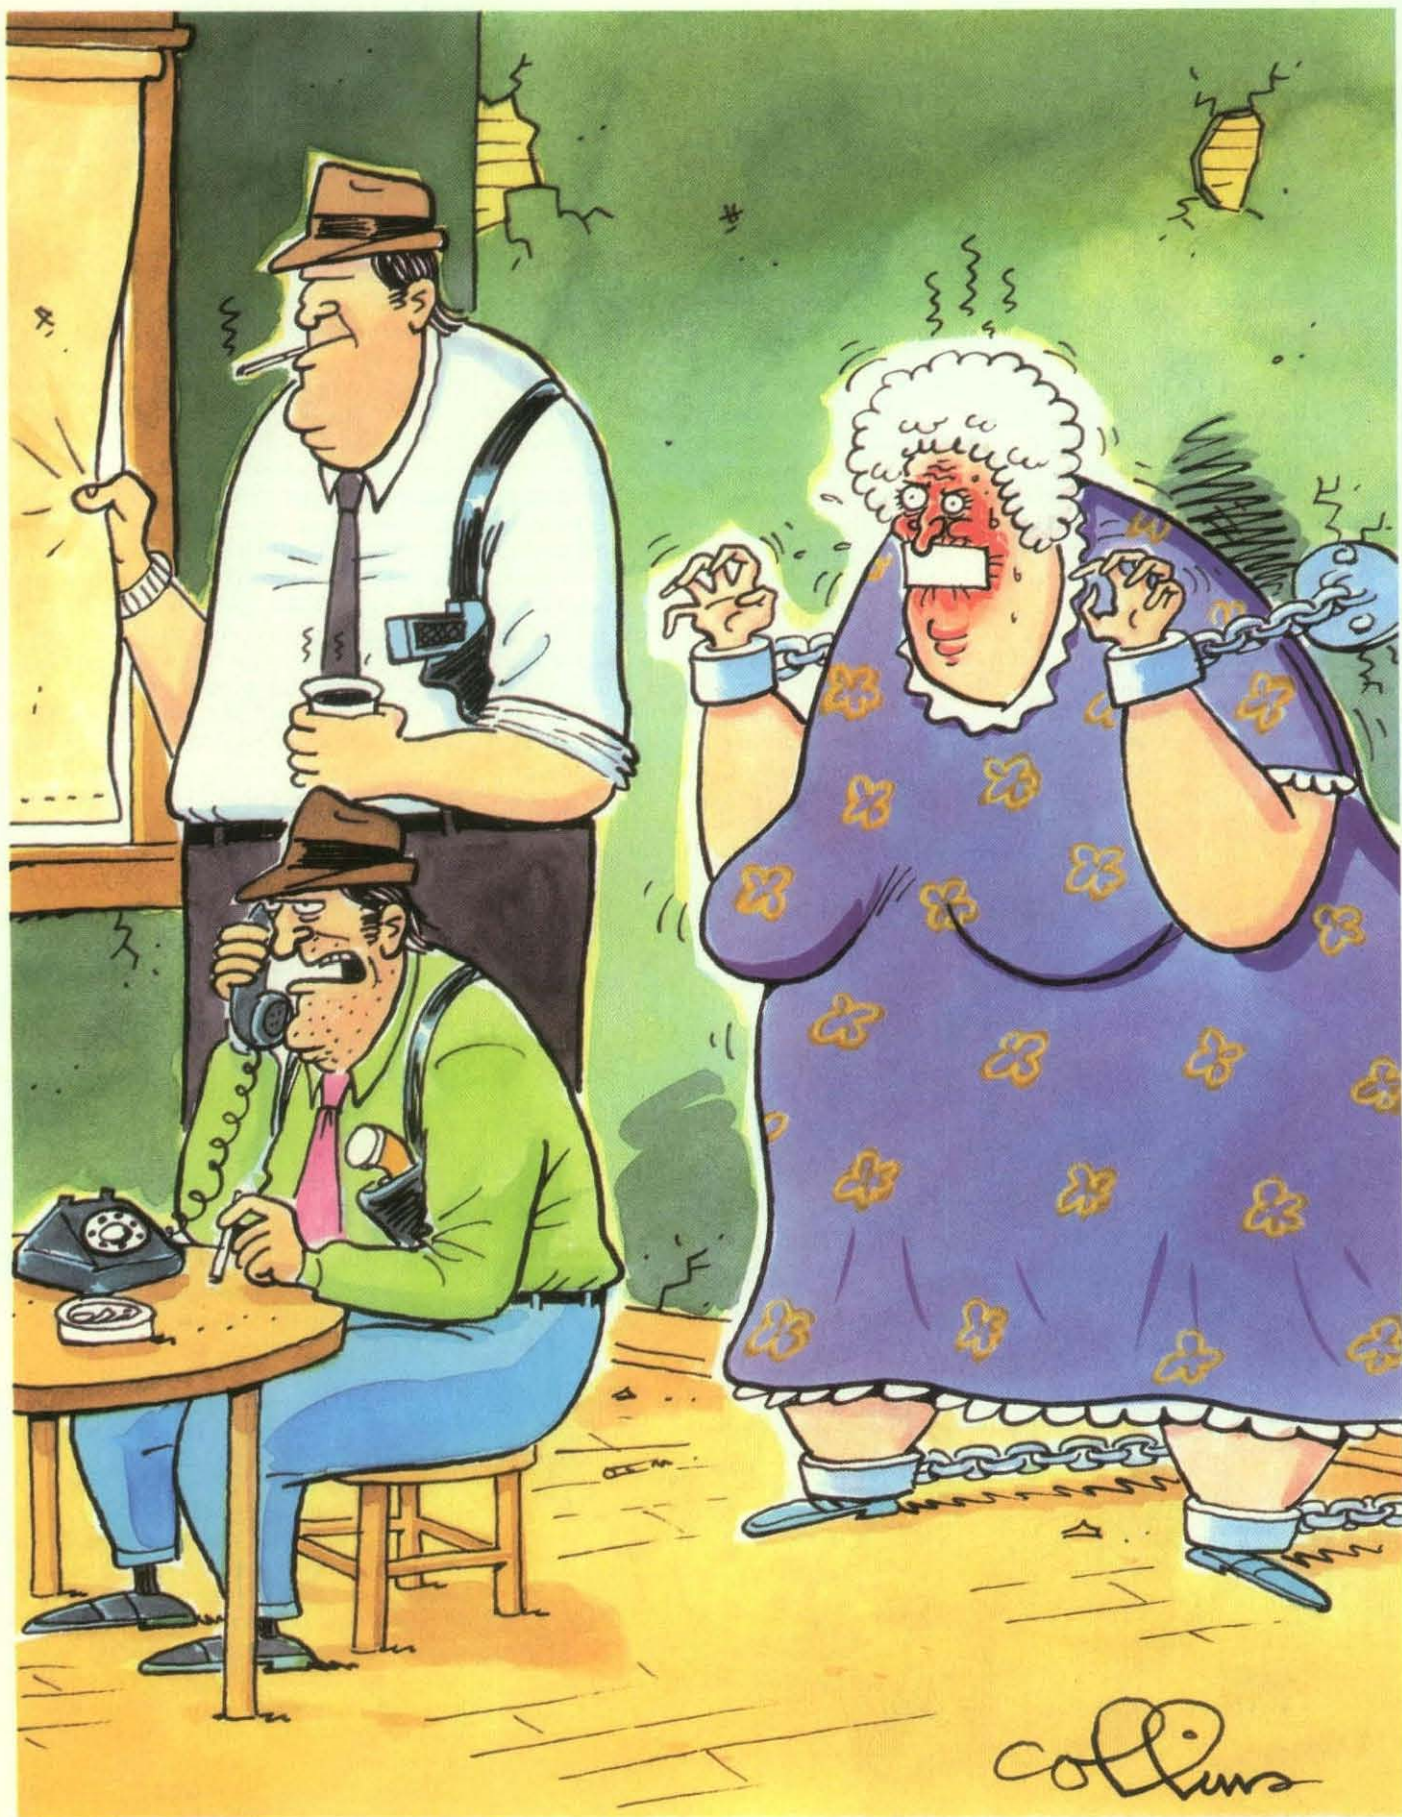

A scent hit him, a smell as inappropriate in here as roses in a goat pen. He looked up her plaid dress. Even with her skirt blanketing her upper legs with shadow, he could see the dark pubic patch. He stared, breathing slowly to savor the musk that escaped her half-hidden cunt. His eyes locked with hers and neither said anything. Instead he clamped the left leg-strap tight.

"I know what your kind wants," Hennesey whispered. He unzipped his fly, teasingly leaving his unfurling cock inside, jerking his piss-muscle to make it bump against the blue-black cloth.

He pulled his hard prick from his pants and moved forward to bang the swollen knob against Debra's right hand. Her fingers unfurled from their grip like the tentacles of a squid and wrapped around the red glans. Her little finger curled and pulled along the base, tracing a line of sensation up to the split in the cock head. Her hand closed around the entire cock, and Hennesey groaned happily. Debra's finely-manicured fingers massaged the head and pulled the sheath of skin over the lip of the cock-helmet, back and forth, in growing rhythm.

Hennesey looked down at her, watch-

"That's right—50 thousand bucks by midnight or we bring the bitch back!"

THE CHAIR

"Fuck me, Moke. Please, I want you to fuck me in this chair... don't undo my legs."

ing her eyes as she watched his prick. He thought about letting go, seeing his cock shoot white jets onto her hand, onto that well-stuffed sweater, into that gorgeous face—but no.

He stepped back and dropped his pants, kicking them off over his shoes, and climbed onto the chair, his shins on her lower arms, his stiff pole smacking the woman in the cheek. She took the meat into her mouth, working her head and mouth as much as the metal head-clamp allowed. She moaned deeply as his prick plowed the back of her throat, slid in and out of that prissy mouth. He braced himself on the chair, thrusting his hips into her face like a rutting animal.

A large glob of fluid dripped over her lip as she pulled her head away quickly. "Fuck me, Moke," she said. "Please, I want you to fuck me in this chair."

It took Hennesey a moment to figure how the hell he'd accomplish this. He clambered off the chair and undid the arm straps with lightning speed, letting her help with the body strap. His hands roamed her massive tits over the wool material, then reached inside, unhooking her bra and allowing her hefty, pink-tipped jugs to bounce free. His mouth glommed onto one, greedily sucking and flicking the thumb-hard nipple with his angry tongue. He pulled away, wanting to bury his overripe rod deep into her honey hole, fuck her like she deserved.

"No, she said. 'Don't undo the legs. Fuck me in the chair.'"

"This bossy shit is getting old," he said, but he followed her lead. Debra ducked out of the skullcap and stood up, her ankles still strapped to the chair. Hennesey slid awkwardly beneath her, his bare ass on the chair, and parted her firm ass with his hands, lowering her body onto his cock.

They both sighed as he rammed deep into her pussy. Her wool skirt tickled his bare legs; her hair tumbled onto his face. Hennesey reached around and clutched her boobs in his palms, kneading and squeezing with fierce sexual power. His loins thrust and pounded into hers. She twisted in his lap, impaled on a near-bursting cock the size of a baby's arm.

Debra threw her head from side to side, ecstatic. He was fucking her, raping her, in fact—but it was at her request. She had engineered this, she was in charge of the situation. Strapped to an electric chair, unable to move, unable to call for help—she was in charge. She rose up, palms against the chair arms, wiggling her pussy in hot circles around the end of his cock. She could feel his shaft grow even larger within her, wider and thicker, ready to burst at any moment. She felt her own body tense and vibrate, felt her cunt clutch desperately at the organ pulling and pushing into her insides.

Hennesey grabbed Debra's hips and pulled her back to him, penetrating and pounding. Her growing cries of lust and his own building tension pushed higher and higher with each stroke. His teeth clenched, eyes rolled back and rapid-fire bursts of cum shot up into her hot slit. He imagined he was frying in the chair, feeling 10,000 volts sailing through his spine and brain, and out the flexing head of his cock right into her. Also climaxing, Debra screamed loudly enough that Hennesey feared they'd be discovered. He grabbed her face, filling her mouth with his fingers to stifle the sound. She pressed her lips hotly around his fingertips even as her pussy muscles twitched and milked the last tired dribbles of fluid from his body.

Debra bent over, exhausted, and undid the straps around her ankles. As she did, Hennesey's wet cock slipped out of her and slapped his bare, hairy leg. On her knees, she found the flask of Johnny Walker in his uniform trousers, savored the stinging smell and chugged a shot. Hennesey took the flask and drank a double-dose of celebration.

"You..." he chuckled. "Whew. That was electric, y' know." Her heavy breasts were pink and flushed with sex, her hair tousled. The sight pleased Hennesey. He had conquered her. "You into those games? That bondage stuff?"

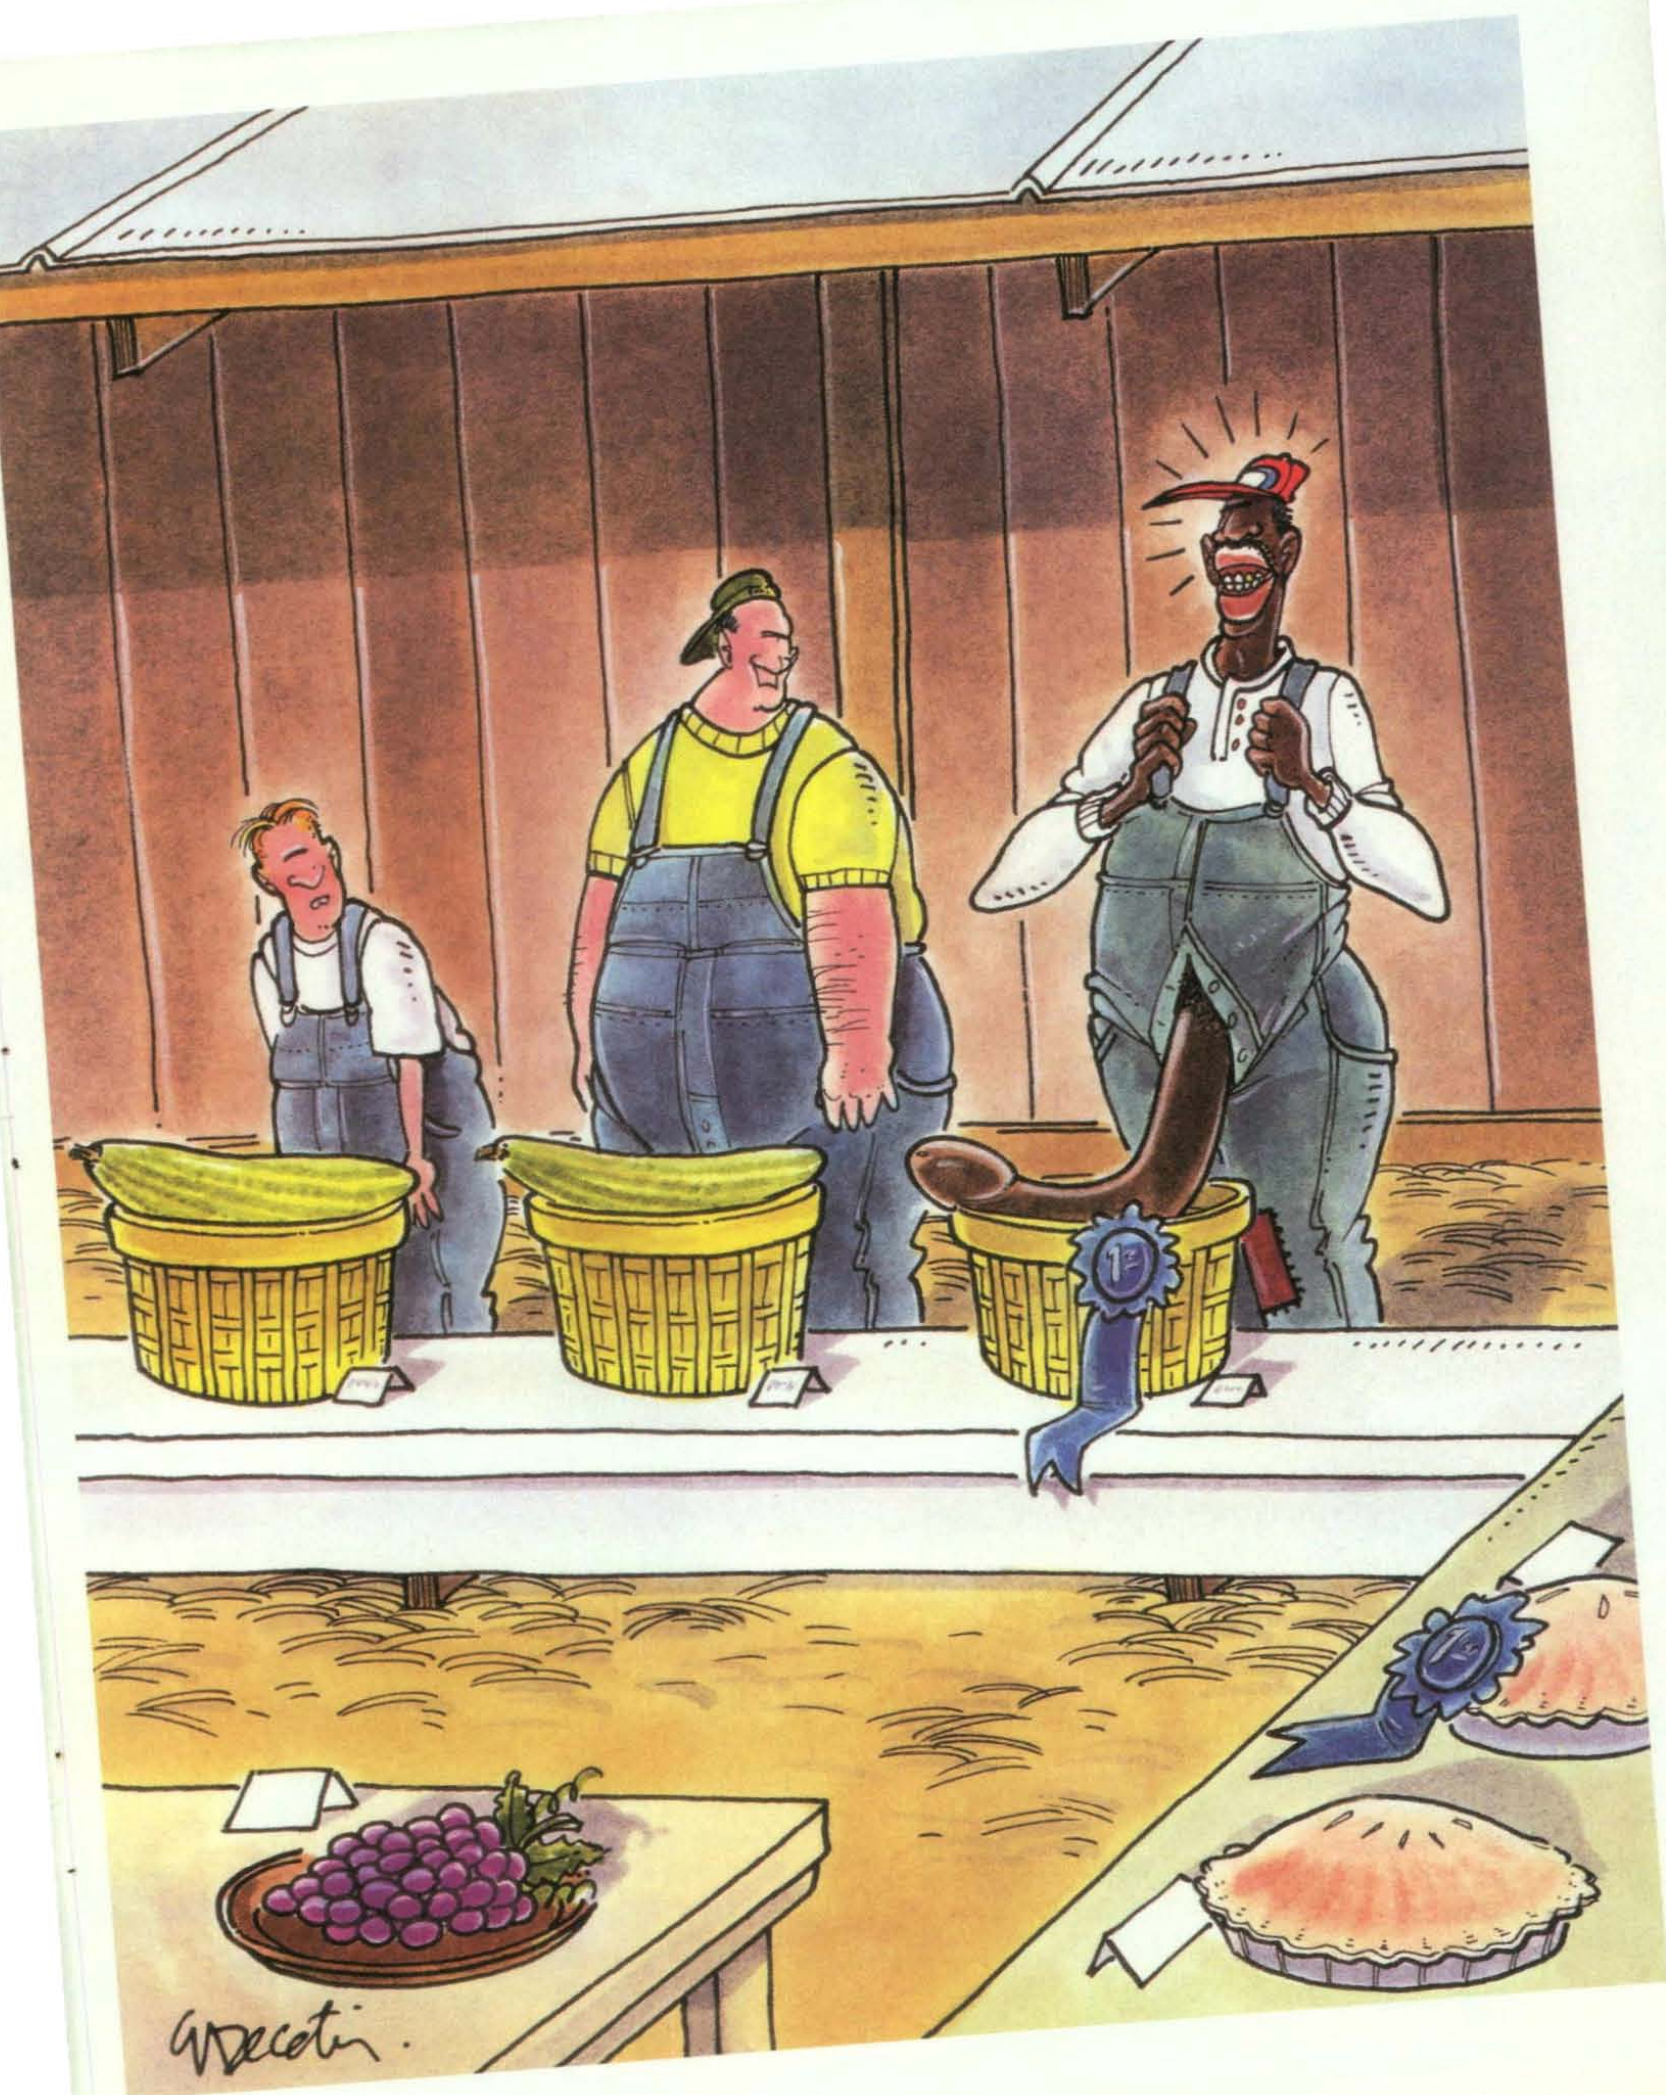

Debra smiled sweetly. "I have to be in charge of my life all the time; I have to be in control. So sometimes it's good to give that up, to be at someone else's mercy. Games do that for me. If I trust the person I'm with not to go too far."

She crawled forward, leaning on his knees, nuzzling his cock. She felt his hands stroke her hair, and felt his prick coming alive under her tongue. "But it isn't for everybody," she said. "See, I've got things in my life that scare me. Lots of them, to be honest. When I'm tied up... or strapped down... I can give in to those fears. I don't have to worry about them, because I'm not in charge anymore." She leaned her head softly against his thigh. "A man like you... I don't know if you'd understand what it is to be scared of anything."

"Yeah, I would," said Hennesey, slugging another mouthful of booze. "You

"Officer is down—request backup!"

W. Decati.

A man with long hair tied in a ponytail is seen from behind, wearing a white long-sleeved shirt and khaki pants. He is pushing a black metal dolly. The shirt has the words "IN AND OUT" on the top line and "MOVERS" on the bottom line, both in bold, black, sans-serif capital letters. The setting is a room with wooden floors and walls. To the left is an open wooden wardrobe with a pink cloth hanging on it. To the right, there is a wooden table with a framed picture on it, and some white fabric or paper is draped over it. The lighting is warm and indoor.

IN AND OUT MOVERS

"Oops, I'm not quite dressed," says Marni, surprised by the on-time arrival of the man from the moving company. "And I'm afraid the place is a mess." The handsome stud has no reply—repartee is not exactly his strong suit—but clever Marni quickly thinks of a way to break the ice and discovers something the moving man is very good at indeed.

It isn't long before her new-found friend forgets his job and goes to work packing his meat muscle into Marni's well-oiled box. In the throes of passion, Marni thanks heaven for blue-collar workers—but she's in for a rude awakening. Wait till she finds out this guy gets paid by the hour.

Her mouth enveloped his warm, wet cock, which unfurled at the touch of her tongue.

women'd be surprised how much guys feel. How we get scared sometimes. But you can't show it, y'know? You gotta be tough and hard. Sometimes you have to...hurt other people...just to...hide your own...."

Hennesey pulled on the flask again, feeling a soothing looseness from the booze. "My mother...hurt..." he mumbled.

"Moke..." Debra said tenderly. "Do you hurt?"

Hennesey looked down at the woman and nodded. Her hand rubbed his belly. "Let me take away the hurt." Her mouth enveloped his warm, wet cock, which unfurled at the touch of her tongue.

His eyes squeezed shut, closing out the ugliness of the room and his life, closing out the hurt that he'd dammed up for 32 years. She was in charge now. She could take the pain away. He didn't have to worry about the rotten things that had been done to him, or the double-rotten things he'd done to others. It was all right now. His cock felt happy and excited, warm and...electric. The word made him grin. He felt wetness ooze over his eyelid and burn down his cheek. He'd never wanted to be hard and mean and brutal. He'd only done those things because he had to show he was in charge, that he was a man.

When he opened his watery eyes he saw her standing over him and smiling. She was naked, a smear of sex-juice on her lips and chin. He smiled back.

"You're very cute, Moke. And you're really sweet, deep down inside. When was the last time someone told you that?"

She grasped her hand around his cock and tugged it up and down while locking his lips. She then kissed his cheek, something no one had done since he was...Hennesey thought hard, through the alcohol haze and the sexual fog. He couldn't remember if anyone had ever done that—just kissed his cheek.

"Do you understand now why it's better to love people, to make them feel good? To care for them, try to understand their hurt?"

"It hurts you when you hurt someone else, Moke. Your pretty, hard, beautiful cock can give so much joy. Your hands made me feel alive and loved. Do you see what a shame it is to use those wonderful things to hurt? To rape and beat and choke the life out of another human being? Do you understand now how that made your hurt even worse?"

Hennesey nodded. He did understand. It took being strapped to an electric chair to break through his own wall of pain, but he knew now why he had—

Strapped in?

He tugged at his arms held fast to the chair arms. The chest strap clamped him stiffly to the chair back. He could not move his ankles. The metal dome was nestled over his head.

"Debra, lemme out now," he said. "I don't like this shit."

"Actually my name isn't Debra Berkoff any more than your name is Hennesey," said the woman, walking to the curtained-off area. "I know her, but she doesn't know me. She doesn't look like me at all. Chances are, the prison authorities will track the real Debra down. I hope she has an alibi for tonight."

"Unstrap me. Unstrap me or I'll..."

"What?" she said with a giggle. "Call a cop? A guard? Maybe campus security? My sister called campus security when she was at State University. Some nice-looking guy answered and raped her. And sodomized her, over and over. And beat her head so badly she'll never be able to string three words together to make a sentence. She used to be so pretty. She was going to be a journalist."

"Lemme outa here," said Hennesey.

"You'll appreciate the irony, Moke," the woman said as she unlocked the switch box. "The campus police were called in to investigate. Isn't that funny?" She threw the switch quickly, watching his body jerk once, then pulled the switch off.

Barefoot, she padded back to the chair. Hennesey was dazed but alive. She grabbed his chin and held his head up.

"You'll appreciate this, too, Moke. I'm not going to kill you...right away. Remember, some are tougher than others. Six or seven jolts? Maybe more. Little ones. Just enough to fry small pieces of your nasty, rotten brain at first. Then a few more to watch you piss all over yourself, to see those big fists flip like spastic fish. Maybe a few more quick zaps and you'll shit all over yourself. When you do that, think of my sister. She can't even shit by herself, Moke. Doesn't that make you feel sad?"

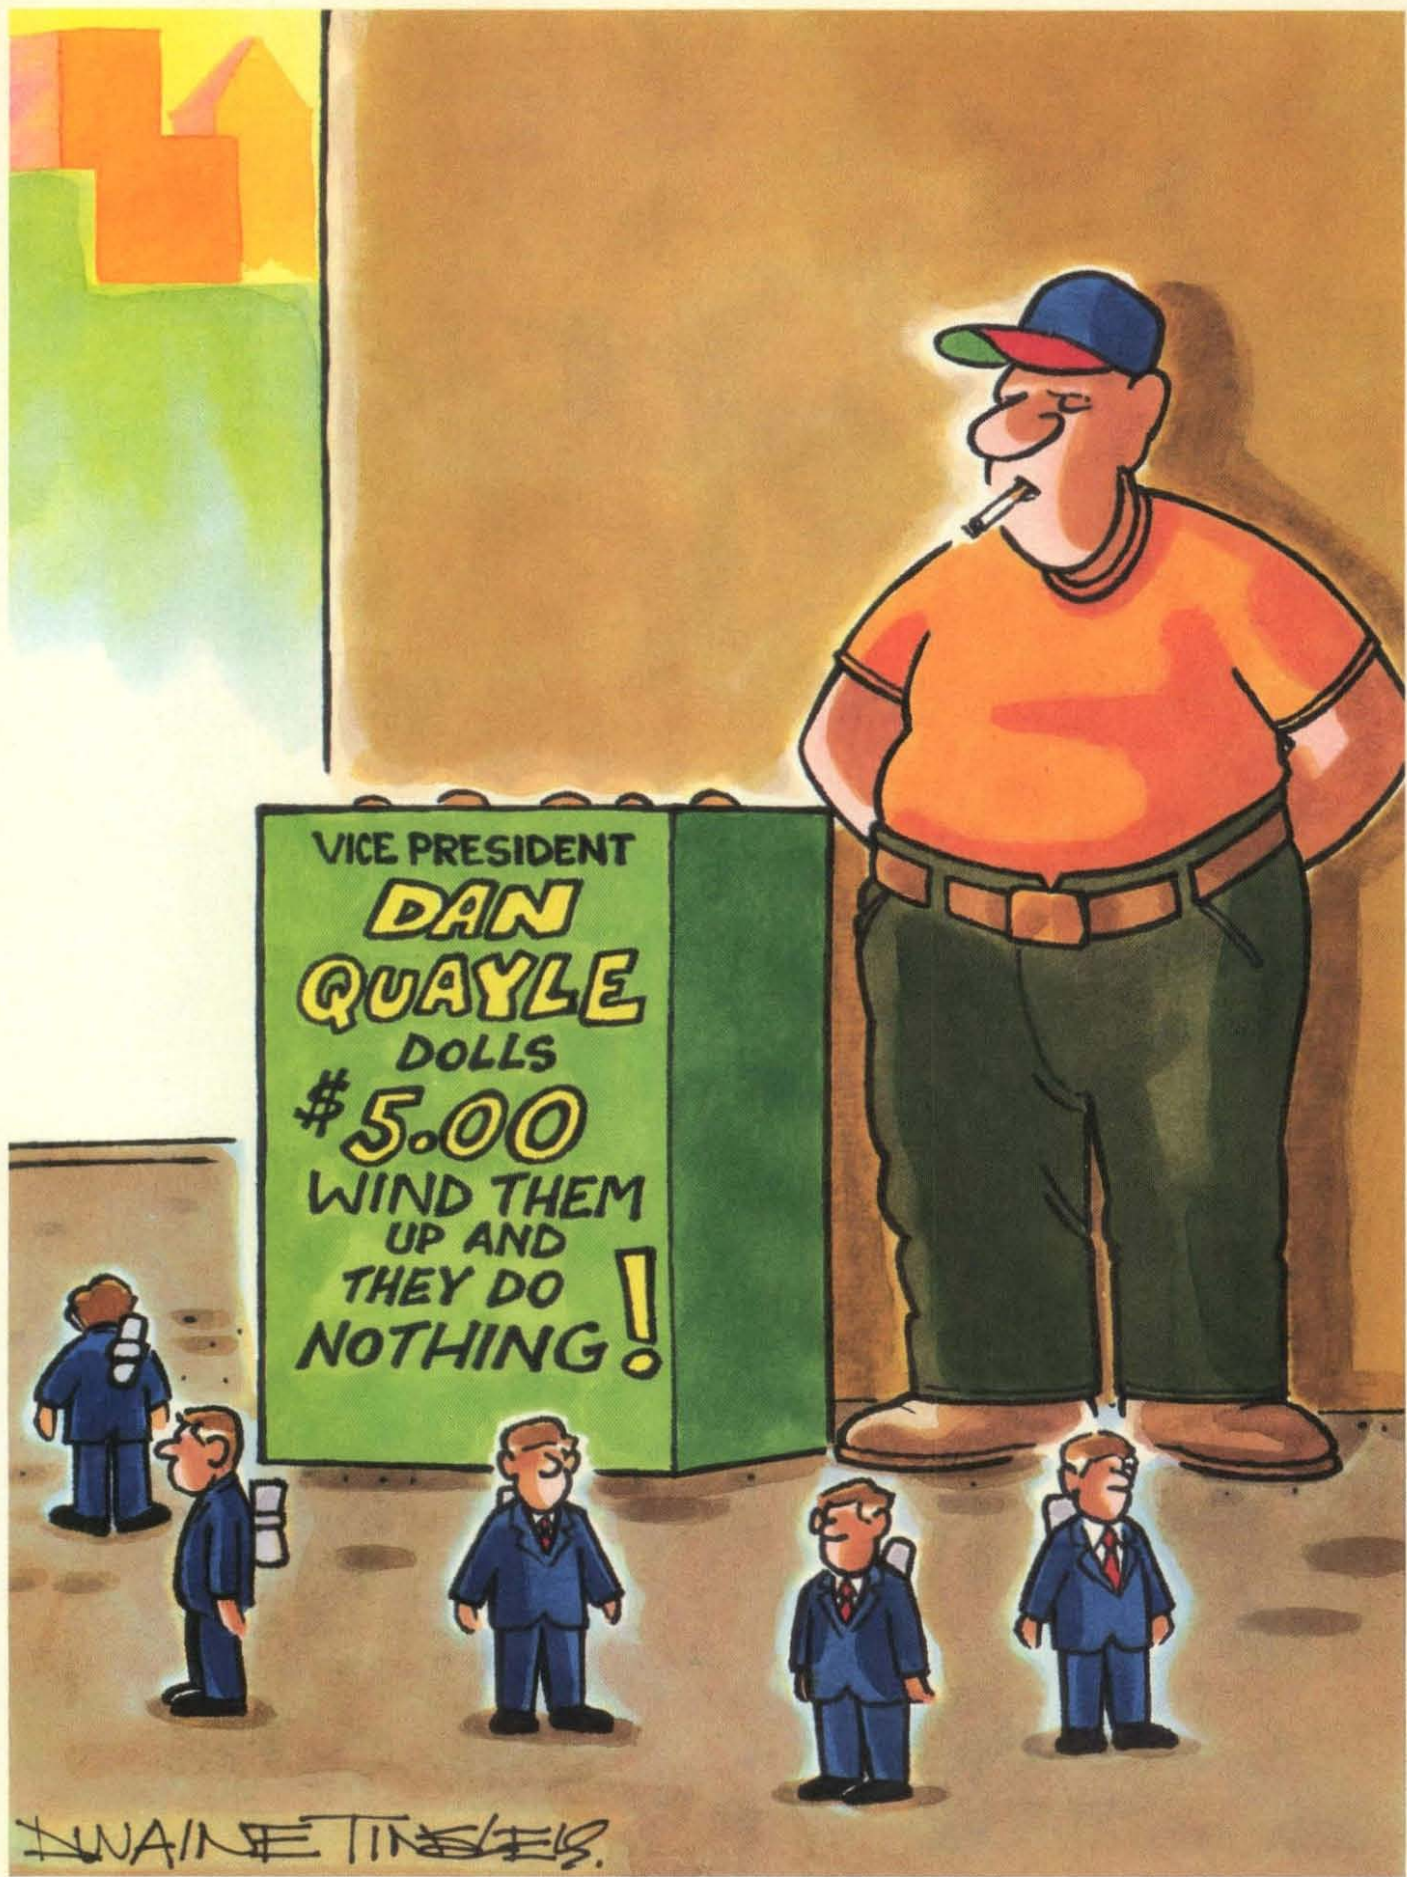

"Maybe—if you admit what a soulless bastard you've been—maybe then I'll show you pity. That's something you've never shown anyone. I know. I've followed your filthy trail for six years. I know what you've done, the misery you've caused. Maybe if you're very nice, I'll let you have enough juice to short-circuit your heart."

His throat ached and burned. His lips

After one woman became an outpatient, Leggett dropped by her house one day, fucked her and left.

Unfortunately, Alice took their relationship a bit more seriously, and the damaging psychological effects linger on. She blames herself for not having had more self-control. More than once she has slit her wrists after merely seeing Leggett on the street.

Less than three months after Leggett stopped seeing Alice, he was at it again. His next victim was a young, depressed woman named Kim Mould, who was terribly afraid of hospitalization and psychotherapy. Leggett was her last hope.

Prior to entering Pine Crest's treatment program in April 1987, Kim was suffering from low self-esteem, depression and bulimia. She had a dependent personality and a strong desire to be accepted by others.

Leggett reportedly began exploiting this vulnerability during their sessions in the hospital. After winning her confidence, he began touching her and exposing himself. They graduated to taking their clothes off and fondling.

"In essence, he was saying, 'Trust me, I'll take care of you,'" says Moore. "Meanwhile, she was falling in love with him, thinking he was in love with her."

They reportedly had intercourse only once. It occurred shortly after Kim became an outpatient. Leggett dropped by her house one day, fucked her and left.

"A big problem for Kim was that her love relationships would always evolve to the point of sexual activity, and then the guy would dump her," says Moore. Leggett knew that, and he did exactly the same thing.

One of the reasons he dumped Kim, who is presently suing Leggett and Pine Crest, is that the hospital had gotten wind of their tryst and had launched an investigation. Another reason is that Leggett had begun fucking a third patient of his, "Janet."

According to Janet, who had entered Pine Crest Hospital to shake a drug problem, Leggett made repeated sexual advances during her month-long hospitalization. After her release, he allegedly took her along on an out-of-town business trip, during which they stopped at the home of her estranged husband so that she could visit her children. Later, they went to a motel and fucked.

The affair only lasted a few weeks. By this time the hospital knew something sleazy was going on. Yet, according to Stanley Moore, Pine Crest should have been watching Leggett from the start.

"We believe he worked at a hospital in Wyoming owned by some of the same shareholders," Moore says, "and that a similar thing happened there."

Susan Anderson, a reporter for KTWO-TV in Casper, Wyoming, covered the story. "A few years ago there was a sexual misconduct complaint filed with the Wyoming state medical board," she says. "I interviewed the victim. She wouldn't use Leggett's name on camera, but I knew who she was talking about. By the time the piece got on the air, he'd already left town. Then she left town. As far as I knew, nothing came of it."

At the time, Leggett was employed by the privately owned Crest View Hospital in Casper.

No central regulatory agency oversees the mental-health profession. Licenses are issued by individual states, with little communication between the state licensing boards. A therapist might lose his license in one state and a week later move on to another state, get a license and legally set up a new practice.

In December 1988, 48-year-old psychologist/physician's assistant Russell Blomdahl's license to practice psychology in North Dakota was suspended and was not to be renewed for at least 13 months after three teenage boys claimed he'd subjected them to "genital examinations." One of the teenagers alleged that Blomdahl had "touched him all over" and "felt him up" during a 1987 therapy session. A second complained that he'd been a victim of child abuse while under Blomdahl's care, and has become a patient at the Jamestown State Hospital in North Dakota.

Blomdahl's attorney, Alan Larivee, contends that his client's treatment methods have been misunderstood, and that the allegations against him are false. However, Blomdahl has left a trail of sleazy accusations throughout the West. In 1985 a sexual-misconduct complaint involving an adolescent male was filed against him at Northeast Human Services in Grand Forks, North Dakota. Officials asked him to conduct future sessions with the door open.

Local reporters dug up information that suggests Blomdahl might have been discharged from a Wyoming clinic a few years earlier. It was also discovered that in 1979, before moving to Wyoming, the psychologist had been charged with 13 counts of sexual assault and child molestation in Yuma, Arizona.

Fleishman's role-playing therapy included mutual oral sex, fondling and sexual intercourse.

According to then-Yuma County Attorney Michael Irwin, Blomdahl had been working at a physician's office in Yuma while counseling disturbed juveniles. "Most of the alleged victims were children with troubled pasts," Irwin recalls. "Some were juvenile offenders. One seemed mentally ill. During the trial the defense was able to impeach their testimony because of their prior records." The jury found Blomdahl not guilty.

North Dakota prosecutors were allegedly reluctant to file criminal charges against Blomdahl for the very reason that children do not make credible witnesses. Plus, at least one of the victims had been so traumatized by the experience that testifying would have proven to be extremely damaging to the youngster.

Incidents like this would seldom occur with an open channel of communication between state medical boards. Two months after Blomdahl lost his North Dakota license, the Arizona examining body hadn't been notified. Blomdahl could have set up shop in Phoenix, and no one would have been the wiser.

At present, the American Association of State Psychology Boards is attempting to establish a national computer network that would red-flag offenders. However, their system is in its rudimentary stages, and they're having difficulty prying information out of the states.

Insurance companies—who pay off malpractice claims—rather than develop a reporting system of their own, have sought to save money by eliminating sexual misconduct coverage. That hasn't worked. The cases are not just about sex. They're about negligence and a poor standard of care.

"I've been trying to get the insurance companies to become responsive to the problem for years," Jacqueline Bouhoutsos says. "I've tried to make them understand that they are paying for sessions in which patients get screwed. Then, they're paying to get them cured. It doesn't make sense."

Insurance companies don't have to come across with really big bucks unless an abused patient wins a civil suit against the therapist. But few civil suits ever get filed.

A WAINWRIGHT

A civil trial can be extremely painful for the victim. It's frightening enough to file a complaint with the state psychology examining committee, where victims' names can at least be kept confidential. In a civil proceeding, every detail of the treatment becomes public record—including the sexual misconduct. During the trial, the defense attorney may challenge their sanity, or try to make the entire affair look as if it were the patient's doing.

Not all victims are scared off. Farmington, Maine, psychiatrist Dr. Martin Fleishman was recently sued for $1 million. Fleishman was forced to surrender his license in February 1988 after admitting sexual contact with a 39-year-old female patient during the three months she was hospitalized under his care.

The woman, whom Fleishman had been treating since 1975, had been diagnosed as suffering from severe depression and from a multiple personality disorder. She reportedly had 22 separate personalities, including Suzanne, an innocent seven-year-old, and Lola, a sexpot.

In December 1983, the woman was admitted to Farmington's Franklin Memorial Hospital after having an adverse reaction to the lithium dosage Dr. Fleishman had prescribed for her. She was not released until May.

During the hospitalization, Fleishman used role-playing therapy, which included reenacting sex scenes from his patient's incest-plagued childhood as well as from her first marriage to a sadist. The sessions began at 8 p.m. and sometimes lasted throughout the night. They included mutual oral sex, fondling and, according to the claimant, sexual intercourse.

During the trial, Fleishman contended that the scenes were staged in order to help the patient "merge her personalities." Yet, according to the victim, the sex had been forced upon her. She maintained that she'd attempted to resist by fighting and screaming, but that Fleishman had posted signs saying that they were "not to be disturbed no matter what noises, sounds or screams the nurses heard coming from her room." At times, a nurse was reportedly posted outside the door to ensure privacy.

Fleishman allegedly threatened to commit his patient to a mental institution. Later, he confined her to his guest house as an outpatient.

In response to these allegations, defense attorney Malcolm Lyons claims that Fleishman, a balding, fiftyish father of four, had been taken in by the woman.

The woman had supposedly duped Fleishman into believing that she had many personalities by doing "an extraordinary job of acting."

THESE SEX STIMULATORS MAKE THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN ROUTINE PLEASURE AND A FAR-OUT EXPERIENCE THAT'S ABSOLUTELY NOVEL!

VENUS BUTTERFLY MASSAGER

NEW! DIFFERENT! INCREDIBLY EXCITING! That's the VENUS BUTTERFLY MASSAGER!! Developed exclusively for women, it can be worn anywhere, providing maximum freedom of use, with the ultimate in privacy and pleasure!! Remote power pack, variable intensity control, comes complete with batteries. Something to remind your lady of you, when you're not around!! Absolutely undetectable when worn, she'll get her jollies all day long, with the VENUS BUTTERFLY MASSAGER!!

266D

$14.00

JACK HAMMER

Give her a 110 Volt charge. Just plus this eight-inch electric plunging penis-shaped vibrator into the wall — and watch her climb the walls. Soft-latex covering a ribbed, springy go-getter. Get this and get her going!

266U

$28.00

ORO-STIMULATOR

Strokes up and down, up and down, with a degree of control from a feather touch to a definite squeeze!! Once the ORO STIMULATOR is in place, your hands never need touch your penis!! You can change positions, lie on your back, kneel, stand up, sit... the ORO STIMULATOR will still gently, or firmly, stroke you!! NOTHING can mold itself to you like this exciting device!! Excitement you can hold in your hand!!

ULTIMATE COCK

The most incredibly life-like cock you've ever seen, felt, or had an orgasm over!! 7" of unbelievably real pussy-stretcher (or asshole puckered) ever offered anywhere!! The "ULTIMATE COCK" really feels like the REAL THING... and you should be so lucky!! Wrinkled, realistic scrotum, and a veined, circumcised shaft and head. Soft, "feel-of-flesh" plastic, with just the right amounts of firmness and "give." The ULTIMATE COCK will take your breath away, or make your lover explode with wild orgasms! Don't leave home without it!!

STAY-UP

Probably the worst thing that can happen to a swinging stud like you, is when you're ready for SUPER HOT and HORNY night of loving, and you blow your cum before the person you're with even gets wet and sticky!! "STAY-UP" has been designed with you in mind! Scientifically formulated to assist in getting it up and keeping it up, "STAY-UP" will put the punch back into your prick, and keep it up, hot, hard and ready! This is truly the answer to a maiden's prayer!

259K

$13.00 EACH

THE BOLD BUNCH

Put some fun in your sex life! These hot vibrators are the life of the party! Each is flexible, yet strongly-rigid. Natural-shaped and ready for any kinky kind of action you want—or she wants. Left to right: THE MANHANDLER is a 9" dandy that is tough and formidable looking and just the right size for that big, big bang. THE DUKE has an 8" shaft that will tease and tantalize you and your mate to the highest pitch of passion. THE STUD is an 8½" vibrator that might steal the scene, arouse your ardor fast... to the fucking fullest. The Super Stud is 10" of pleasure that will fill up all available holes. Buy all four and add a spice of pleasure to her life.

PENIS ENLARGER PUMP

The PENIS ENLARGER comes complete with that famous book: "How to Enlarge Your Penis." Make the girls cry — for MORE! Do you dream of gagging Linda Lovelace with your huge dong? Do it to it. It's helped thousands of men, why not you, too?

272A

CANDY FANTASY DOLL

Are you in for some FUN! A new process and heavy-duty construction creates CANDY, with exciting new skin textures and enormous firm breasts, hard nipples, open mouth, ready pussy, willing ass. You won't believe it till you feel it, then you'll never let go. GET HER. GET DOWN. GET GOING! She stands 5' tall, blonde, blue-eyed and a real darling!

ANAL AROUSER

Is that tight little bung-hole a little tough to get into, without a quart of KY and a broken back? Try the ANAL AROUSER - it slips in nice and easy, then by using the bulb you can pump it up, and your partner's asshole opens. It also vibrates, and has a remote control that will quiver your balls while you watch him (or her) squirm with pleasure!

$18.00

SLIM-LINE VIBRATOR

This handy little VARIABLE SPEED VIBRATOR delivers BIG, BIG SENSATIONS right where you want them. A solid 6" of sturdy plastic, it's powerful pulsator will DRIVE HER WILD! SEXPLAY regardless of their country of origin—than most other women in whatever culture surrounds them. David P. grew up in a middle-class Jewish neighborhood in Atlanta, Georgia, and has traveled the world. He demystifies the Jewish woman for the uninitiated: "Jewish girls have guilt to deal with, but Jewish parents don't spend a lot of time browbeating their kids with horror stories about fucking. The usual line is, 'Fuck and be well... but take your pill.' Even if their daughter is pulling a train for the entire Yeshiva University chess team, it's not the end of the world. They're all Jewish so there must be a nice boy in there somewhere. But should she fuck one gentile rocket scientist, there'll be hell to pay. That's where the guilt comes in."

"Many Jewish women will go out of their way to fuck you on the first date, and do a damn good job of it, performing sexual acts that women from other ethnic groups will not get into until maybe the third or fourth time you sleep with them. The reason for this is that Jewish women need something beyond guilt. They need angst. The average girl burns you on the first date and only has to worry if you'll call her again. A Jewish girl has to deal with the guilt of being a pushover on the first date, and—if you don't call again—she suffers the angst of wondering if there is something wrong with her sexual technique, her body, her nose job."

Tip: Jewish women have an intellectual streak, so don't bring up Kierkegaard, Dickens or deconstructionist architecture just to impress her, unless you know something about the subject. Precaution: Too much angst may lead to neuroticism in Jewish women. Watch out for signs of a fatal attraction.

PAGANS

These are the women who are absolutely foreign to American men. Their languages share no cognates with English. Their cultures and religions bear no resemblance to their Western counterparts. The only connections are most primitive.

James L. is an American who reached puberty while living with his parents in Japan. He squandered his youth in Tokyo's red light and cabaret district known as Yoshiwara. "When I was an adolescent," he begins, "the cabaret shows favored mass breasts tableaux. Sixty to 80 bare-breasted Japanese women would assemble on stage. The sight of 120 or more tits at one time was all my teenage heart could desire."

James L. lost his virginity to a Japanese girl, and he is still smitten by them. When asked about the attraction of Oriental women, his conversation takes on a Zen-like quality. "First, there is the Oriental girl leg thing. I don't know any other way to describe it. The distance from the hip to the knee is greater than the distance from the knee to the floor," he explains. "Then there is the Alpine feather pubic hair. The hair is so sparse and so geometrically arranged on the pubis that it reminds me of the feathers men wear in Tyrolean hats. A thin line of hair from a woman's navel to her vagina is a sign of carnal appetite among the Japanese. Their vaginas are more internal with closer-flanged labia than Western women's. They're tight as all get out."

The national fetish of Japan is bondage, and Japanese women yield to their male sexual partners in every way. A man only need ask. "They have an 8,000-year-old racial memory of being subservient to men," James L. testifies. "They want men to treasure them and dominate their lives. Personally, I think it's the least I can do to accommodate them."

Tip: The nape of the neck is a favorite Japanese erogenous zone. The kimono exposes and enhances the display of the graceful female neck. Don't overlook this feature in your lover. Precaution: The Japanese woman requires filial piety from her man. She will expect you to care for her parents as well as any other ancient ancestors who are still around.

Tall, slender and muscular, the women of West Africa are some of the most comely and pleasant sexual partners the southern hemisphere has to offer. Their skin colors range from coffee-and-cream with ruddy red nipples in Ghana to black-as-night with nipples of purple in the Niger River Valley. Their breasts and buttocks protrude before and behind them as manifestations of their intense sexuality.

In the late 1960s, Kenneth V. was a Peace Corps volunteer in Africa. "Before marriage, sexual taboos are nonexistent for these men and women," he recalls. "There is no conception of promiscuity in their culture. If a young woman wants you, she just takes you. They fuck like young animals—enthusiastically, noisily, wildly. One tribal beauty sneaked into my tent at night and mounted me on my cot. She rode my cock with unselfconscious abandon, her brown tits bouncing in rhythmic unison, her moans and cries piercing the empty African night like the calls of frightened birds. She was clinging fast to a tent pole for support and when she came she pulled the whole thing down. I didn't care. We fucked again on the dirt floor under the canvas."

Tip: Cunnilingus is all but unknown among African women. Go down on a black woman to surprise and enrapture her. Precaution: AIDS among heterosexuals plagues the population of West Africa.

"I never kill them right away. I like to fuck 'em first."

and tongue moved in slow motion to mouth the words, "Fuck you, bitch."

The woman walked back to the curtained area and threw the switch again. She watched Hennessey's body bounce and jiggle, straining against the straps. Small streams of smoke wafted from beneath the metal skullcap.

She reached up to pull the switch off, then lowered her hand. No, she wouldn't torture him. That would bring her down into his gutter.

Standing before the jerking, vibrating body in the chair, she hooked her bra, pulled on her sweater, straightened her skirt and nylons. She noticed that Hennessey had shot his wad again. His eyes bulged like they wanted to explode; his face was drawn back in a taut grimace, exposing his teeth like a grinning skull. The smell stayed with her until she reached the door: burning hair, frying meat, loose shit, boiling piss. And sex. She took a final look at the twitching figure in the electric chair. This was not murder—cold-blooded, deliberate, well-planned murder. That's something only his kind would do. She went through the swinging door and thought, No, this wasn't murder. This was pruning. 🍷

Lyons described Fleishman as "one of the most naive persons you've ever run into," a man who "made a complete and utter fool of himself" while treating the woman. Lyons tried to convince the jury that his client had only entered into the sexual relationship because he'd become "too concerned with curing his patient and had totally lost his judgment."

Yet, on the stand, Fleishman provided detailed accounts of sordid therapy sessions, conceding that he wore "progressively less and less" clothing.

One session included the reenactment of the woman's rape at age 13 by her brother-in-law, during which Fleishman admitted sticking a needle in his patient's back to remind her of the pain she had felt years before.

He also admitted that he whipped the woman with his belt while reenacting sadistic scenes from her first marriage. Fleishman claimed that he'd played the part of her abusive ex-husband only at the written request of one of her personalities.

"I understood [her ex-husband] to be, when he was at his worst, a brutal man," Fleishman testified, defending his sadistic actions. She related that she remembered receiving much heavier abuse back then. According to Fleishman, the woman also believed she was still under voodoo spells her first husband had put on her.

Under cross-examination Fleishman admitted that he'd had no formal training in "physical contact therapy," and that he'd known having sex with a patient was considered completely inappropriate. "It was something I was doing based on my sense that this was a do-or-die hospitalization," he said, adding that he would have been willing "to do anything" to save the woman, whom he considered "suicidal."

Although Fleishman claimed he never fucked his patient, evidence suggests otherwise. Two months into her hospitalization, he ordered a pregnancy test for seemingly no reason—and without her husband's knowledge. In August 1984, he billed her over $27,500 for his services.

Fleishman lost the suit, settling for an undisclosed amount. He lost his license for at least a year. Yet, perhaps the most beneficial aspect of the trial was the extensive news coverage it received.

"These cases need to be brought to the public's attention," Jacqueline Bouhoutsos says, "because if people become aware of the problem they will perhaps become a little more careful about their choices of a therapist."

Until then, remember it's no coincidence that therapist is spelled "the rapist." 🍷

Sexual Aids:

How to order them without embarrassment.

How to use them without disappointment.

If you've been reluctant to purchase sexual aids through the mail, the Xandria Collection would like to offer you two things that may change your mind:

1. A guarantee
2. Another guarantee

First, we guarantee your privacy. Should you decide to order our catalogue or products, your transaction will be held in the strictest confidence.

Your name will never (never) be sold or given to any other company. No unwanted, embarrassing mailings. And everything we ship to you is plainly packaged, securely wrapped, without the slightest indication of its contents on the outside.

Second, we guarantee your satisfaction. Everything offered in the Xandria Collection is the result of extensive research and real-life testing. We are so certain that the risk of disappointment has been eliminated from our products, that we can actually guarantee your satisfaction — or your money promptly, unquestioningly refunded.

What is the Xandria Collection?

It is a very, very special collection of sexual aids. It includes the finest and most effective products available from around the world. Products that can open new doors to pleasure (perhaps many you never knew existed!)

Our products range from the simple to the delightfully complex. They are designed for both the timid and the bold. For anyone who's ever wished there could be something more to their sexual pleasure.

If you're prepared to intensify your own pleasure, then by all means send for the Xandria Collection Gold Edition catalogue. It is priced at just four dollars which is applied in full to your first order.

Write today. You have absolutely nothing to lose. And an entirely new world of enjoyment to gain.

The Xandria Collection, Dept. HU0889
P.O. Box 31039, San Francisco, CA 94131

Please send me, by first class mail, my copy of the Xandria Collection Gold Edition catalogue. Enclosed is my check or money order for four dollars which will be applied towards my first purchase. (U.S. Residents only).

ADD 3 to 4 INCHES to Any Size Penis And We Guarantee It!

Plus Add 30% to 40% in diameter!

SHE'LL LOVE
THE NEW YOU!

BATTERY ENERGIZED! DOES THE JOB FOR YOU AND FEELS GOOD TOO!

Our competition offers regular models (not powered) or electric models (uses electricity and may be dangerous) for up to $40. Now with the original battery-powered Komet sex aid you can prosthetically add 3 to 4 inches to any size penis. All this without strenuous exercise or electricity. The Komet's state-of-the-art engineering produces a steady flow of energy to produce the desired results and pleasurable sensations.

IF THE SIZE OF YOUR PENIS IS IMPORTANT TO YOU, THEN YOU OWE IT TO YOURSELF AND YOUR PARTNER TO ADD
3 OR 4 EXTRA INCHES!

You have everything to gain and nothing to lose. Why use a non-powered unit or risk inserting your penis into an electric unit. (You know liquids, cremes and jells and electricity don't mix and can be dangerous.) Why take chances. We will replace any defective model for 1 year plus shipping and handling charges.

CAUTION: Komet is the original, highest quality battery powered aid. Do not accept any cheaper model at any price.

HUSTLER

September HUSTLER on sale July 18, 1989

HUSTLER TO THE RESCUE

Sure it's hot out there and you're horny as hell from watching beaches and sidewalks swarming with bikini-clad bimbos and half-dressed dollies. So let it all out as you spy on two pussy-loving lezzies who vigorously munch cooze and titty while relaxing in a spa. Then, wank your frank to the sight of a gorgeous siren who flap-flicks her tight twat to your adoring stares; fall in lust with our centerfold with the caramel skin and the cock-hungry mouth; and clear your hose as you watch a mechanic jizzy-lube a buxom blonde with monstrous mams. Let HUSTLER's September squack lift the burden from your boner!

GETTING EVEN

These days, people aren't just getting mad, they're getting vicious. In "Revenge," J.R. Nelson shows how getting even has become blood sport as victims, vigilantes and mobs wreak vengeance with gruesome and often fatal results. Don't miss this startling and graphic report.

WYATT EARP, WOMAN BEATER

HUSTLER debunks the myths of frontier America next month in Mark Crane's "The Real Wild West: Hypocrisy on the Frontier." Crane reveals the truth behind the Marshal Dillons (thugs) and Miss Kittys (whores) of the Old West, and shatters a few legends along the way. Wild Bill Hickok a mincing queen? Read all about it!

PRISONS AND AIDS

The nation's penal institutions are prime breeding grounds for the deadly AIDS virus, but, typically, government officials are doing little to protect inmates. Next month's AIDSWatch, "The View From the Rock Garden," by Joseph Henslik, exposes the facts about AIDS behind bars and explores the shocking theory that authorities welcome the spread of this fatal disease among prisoners.

VERY HOT TOPICS!

September's Sex Play gets the creative juices flowing in "Fantasies: The Key to Fantastic Sex," as Jake Bartlett demonstrates how to turn on your imagination. Then, join the search for the Beaver next door with Beaver Hunt; grip your sides in convulsive laughter over the notorious Bits & Pieces; discover who's fucking whom and how good they are at it in Erotic Entertainment; and try not to stain the pages of Hot Letters, where readers as horny as you give a blow-by-blow of their personal sexperiences. Don't dawdle. Rush out and pick up the September HUSTLER.
